

FIND BODY OF MURDERED WOMAN IN RUINS OF HOME; HUSBAND HELD

MOUNTAINVIEW, N. H., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Fred L. Small, wife of a Boston real estate broker who was burned in a fire which destroyed the Small summer home at Lake Ossipee last night, was first strangled by a rope tied about her neck and beaten over the head, it was discovered when her body was taken from the ruins today.

Fire Set to Cover Crime

It is believed by the police that the fire was set to cover the crime. By a mere chance, however, this ruse failed.

The body dropped with the burning floor into the basement and the head and neck lodged in a pool of water. The rope which had been drawn twice around in the neck and had been secured in a square knot at the back, was preserved.

Mr. Small, who had left his cottage at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon six hours before the fire was discovered, made a hurried return by automobile this morning to assist the police in their investigation. He stated that he

ATTENDANCE IN LOCAL SCHOOLS FALLS OFF

Whether the prevalence of infantile paralysis in this city has had anything to do with it or not the fact remains that the public school attendance for the first week of the fall term is not as large as last year when the high school had an attendance of 1752, the grammar schools 8050, the primaries 3541 and the kindergartens 370. The totals for the first week this year are as follows: High school 1729, grammar schools 7783, primaries 3560, kindergartens 295.

STATE TO CLOSE IN ROPER TRIAL TOMORROW

Supt. Welsh on Stand—Dorothy Fox, Age 12, to Be Called—30 Witnesses for the Defense

The trial of Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, Albert Roper, at the latter's greenhouses at Tewksbury on the night of March 1, 1916, was resumed at the criminal session of the superior court at East Cambridge this morning.

It is expected that the state will close its case tomorrow and the defense will go on then or first thing Monday morning.

Test Orders March 1

One witness called this morning was a clerk in a fruit store in Wait street, Roxbury. Several florists were called and testified relative to orders which it is alleged the defendant had taken for flowers on March 1, but the different witnesses denied they had ordered any flowers and also failed to identify their signatures on the order slips.

John Favaloro, who conducts a fruit store at 2 Wait street, said he did not remember seeing the defendant in his store on the night of March 1, but did remember his telephoning from the store the following morning.

Supt. Welsh Testifies

Supt. Welsh of the Lowell police department told of the examination of the defendant at the police station on March 2 relative to his whereabouts on the previous afternoon and evening.

Dorothy Fox to Testify

Lawyer Wilson stated to The Sun reporter during the morning recess that Dorothy Fox, 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Fox, would testify for the defendant. The defense claims that on the night of the murder Roper was taking care of Mrs. Fox's children at 16 Wait street that night.

It is expected that about thirty witnesses will be called by the defense.

Pasquale Lamalfa

Pasquale Lamalfa who is a clerk at a fruit store at 2 Wait street, corner of Huntington avenue, Roxbury, was called, at the opening of this morning's session and testified through the medium of an interpreter. Witness said he had known the defendant for about seven months and on the morning of March 3 Roper entered the store and showed him a Boston paper, saying:

"That's my father, he has been murdered." He said that the defendant called at the store about seven o'clock.

On cross-examination witness said he did not see Albert use the telephone in the store that morning. He remembered that the defendant started to cry when talking about the murder.

"How many times was he in the store that day?" was asked by Mr.
Wilson.

"Twice."

"Didn't he use the telephone on either occasion?"

"I didn't see him."

William Penn

William Penn, of Brookline, a florist, said he had done business with Mr.
Roper, Sr., but did not do any business with Albert J. Roper on March 1, 1916.
According to a duplicate order book witness had ordered goods. He said that the signature in the book was not his writing.

"How long prior to March 1, 1916, did you do business with Mr. Roper?"

"About three years."

Witness was not cross-examined, he being the first witness to be excused without being examined by Mr. Wilson.

Samuel Wax

Samuel Wax, florist of Tremont st., said he knew Albert J. Roper, but had done considerable business with the latter's father.

"Did you do any business with the defendant personally on March 1, 1916?"

"No, sir."

"Did you do any business with the elder Roper that day?"

"No, the last business that I did with him was on Feb. 21."

On cross-examination witness said that so far as he knew the defendant and his father were very friendly.

Henry Cielala

Henry Cielala, of Medford, buyer for Zinn, the florist, denied that he gave an order to Albert J. Roper on March 1 and when shown an order book said that the signature on the slip was not his.

Questioned by Mr. Wilson, witness said he knew the defendant very well and that the latter had a very good reputation.

Matthew J. Killian

Matthew J. Killian, florist of Forest Hills, said he had not done any busi-in a fire which broke out in one of the early this morning. The nitrate of loud reports of the explosions were heard in various parts of the city, attracting several hundred people to the scene of the blaze, for many believed the Mexicans had reached Lowell and were in the process of burning the city. After three hours of strenuous work the members of the

CITY PAYS INTEREST ON FUNDS WHICH WERE SPENT YEARS AGO

Some time ago Commissioner of Finance William W. Duncan addressed a communication to the city solicitor containing an inquiry as to the status of funds on which the city pays more money than it receives and the city solicitor's answer is quite interesting.
The solicitor deals with two requests of Thomas Nesmith, one of $25,000 and the other of $1000, and states that the payment of unearned interest on these funds results in a donation of the tax revenues to the support of persons who are not paupers, and for purposes not germane to the objects of a municipal corporation.

The bequests in question were accepted by the city government in 1870 and were immediately used. It is stated by the water department. The fund

Mayor O'Donnell will take up with the ness with the defendant on March 1, 1916. He never ordered 300 carnations on that day.

Lester F. Conley

Lester F. Conley, florist of 6 Park street, did not do any business with the defendant on March 1. He did business with the father on that date.
He knew Bert from seeing him in the market, but had no social relations with him.

Supt. Redmond Welch

Supt. Redmond Welch of the Lowell police department entered the court room at this time and it looked as though he was going to testify, but after holding a conversation with one of the officials, walked out again.

John Favaloro

John Favaloro, who conducts the fruit stand at 2 Wait street, said he had known Albert J. Roper for a long time. He said he knew the defendant lived at 16 Wait street in the same house with Mrs. Fox.

"Did you know his father?"

"No."

"Did you hear anything about his father around March 1?"

"On Thursday he told me that his father was dead."

"What were you doing?"

"I was reading the paper and he said his father was dead."

"What did he do then?"

"He telephoned."

"What kind of a telephone was it?"

"It's a pay station."

"What did you hear him say, if anything?"

"He asked some one if it were true that his father was dead."

On cross-examination witness said that Mrs. Fox came into the store shortly after Bert did, but she did not stay long.

"Do you remember that he went in to your store about nine o'clock Wednesday night, March 1, and purchased a box of cigars?"

"No."

"Don't you remember that he went into the store that night and putting his hand in the show case, took a box of cigars and said business must be pretty good?"

"I don't remember."

Supt. Welch

Supt. Redmond Welch then took the stand. He said: "My attention was first called to the murder about nine o'clock on the morning of March 1. I went to the greenhouses in Tewksbury with Judges T. J. Enright and J. J. Pickman of the Lowell police court. When we reached the place we found Mrs. Roper. We met him in the greenhouse in the rear of the house and he showed us a spot which he said was the place where his father had been struck down."

"We questioned all of the family and also examined the premises very thoroughly... there until about 11.30 o'clock. Did not see Albert J. Roper there."

"Upon leaving Tewksbury we went to Wilmington to question Arthur Roper, the night watchman, but failed to find him. We went back to the premises at 1.30 o'clock and did not find Arthur, and Albert had not reached there from Boston. I left word to have Arthur and Albert come to the police station in Lowell when they arrived."

"Between four and half past I saw Albert and Arthur and Mr. Farmer, police officer of Tewksbury, approaching the station. They were taken up stairs where they were questioned. We talked with Albert in the library. I think it was about 4.30 when we started to examine him."

"Officer Eustace told Albert that the police wanted to question him about his whereabouts on Wednesday and said that he did not have to answer any of them unless he wanted to as they might be used against him. He said: 'I am ready to answer any question relative to my whereabouts.'"

"Asked if he was in Tewksbury last night he said 'no.' He said he stopped at his home Monday night to get some clothes and passed through Tewks-bury Tuesday night, but did not visit the house. Said he left North station Boston, for Reading Tuesday after-

New drives made by the French last night and the British this morning resulted in the capture of additional ground on the Somme front by the allies.

Success for French

The French gain, as reported in the afternoon Paris bulletin, was effected between Fregicourt and Merval, in the direction of Sully, on the Peronne-Ba-pume road, north of Rancourt, where the wedge being driven into the German lines between Bapaume and Peronne is almost at its sharpest point.

Ground Won By British

The new ground won by the British as reported by London, lies something more than a quarter of a mile southwest of Le Sars, on the Pozieres-Ba-pume road, northwest of Courcellette.
Le Sars is about three and a half miles from Bapaume, toward which the British in this sector are determinedly progressing. The captured territory comprised a strongly defended farm.

Serbian Check Bulgarians

On the Macedonian front the Bulgarians have resumed their efforts to drive the Serbians from their Kaimak-calan position near the Serbian border.
In the region north of Lake Ossoro, but according to Paris this latest attempt during which four attacks were made, failed.

FURTHER SUCCESSES FOR BRITISH ALONG THE SOMME FRONT

LONDON, Sept. 29, 1.05 p.m.—An attack by British troops on the Somme front early today resulted in the capture of a strongly defended farm 500 yards southwest of Le Sars, the war office announced.

The statement follows:
"The night was quiet on the greater part of our front. The positions we noon. Took electric car at Reading and came to Lowell. Said he had been drinking and upon arriving instead of going to the bowling match, as he intended to go to a place in Hurd street, visited a pool room and then took a train back to Boston.

"Relative to Wednesday he said he visited several saloons in Boston during the afternoon and went home, 15
Wait street, and took care of Mrs.
Fox's children as he had promised to do. Shortly after 11 o'clock he went to the New Richmond hotel where he met Mrs. Fox and accompanied her home."

"We also questioned a young man named Harnden, who said he saw Roper get on the 9.15 car from Merrimack square, at James street, Tewks-bury, the night before. Albert was present and he said that Harnden must have been mistaken."

Upon resuming witness said: "Albert J. Roper was held that night and the next morning, Friday morning. Conductor Mack came to the police station and when questioned said Roper rode on his car Wednesday night. He didn't know where he got on but said it was some place between Tewksbury and Wilmington. Roper, he said, was in the front vestibule and got off at Chandler's turnout."

"Turning to Albert I asked him what he had to say to that and he said the conductor was mistaken that it was Tuesday night he got off the car."

"Roper admitted that he had borrowed $2 from a clerk at the New Richmond hotel on Tuesday night and paid it back on the following night."

"I asked him if he did not display a roll of money there and he said 'yes.'
I asked him where he got the money and he said it was money that had been owed to him. I asked him again where he got the money and he said he got it on a shelf in a closet at 15 Wait street. He was unable to state how much there was in the roll, also the denomination of the bills."

"Further questioned he said when he got home he gave Mrs. Fox the money and said: 'Here is the money for the rent.' He said she did not make any comment when he handed her the money."

ARTHUR FOX HEARD GERALD'S CRIES AND BEAT OFF DOG—MILITARY FIELD FOR OBSERVATION

While playing in front of his home in Dracut Centre yesterday Gerald Fox, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fox of Jones avenue was badly bitten about the face by a strange dog. The injuries include a deep cut on the jaw on the right side and cuts about the left eye that may possibly mean the loss of sight.

Arthur Fox, the boy's father, was in the house at the time of the attack. Hearing the cries of his little son he rushed out and beat off the dog which he afterwards captured. The animal is chained up and has been held for observation by Dr. William S. Eaton. It is of the collie breed.

TANLAC WILL ATTRACT MANY LOCAL PEOPLE

Saturday Will Mark Beginning of Introduction of Famous Medicine in Lowell at The Lowell Pharmacy

The introduction of Tanlac will begin Saturday.

In the presentation of this great reconstructive tonic, are two unique features, first, is the astonishing record Tanlac has made in other cities, and the demand for Tanlac has been so great that recently a company was formed and financed by New England capital, for its introduction here.

Second, the introduction will be under the personal direction of Mr. Ed. G. Brooks who will meet the public daily at The Lowell Pharmacy where he will explain Tanlac, how it should be used and the results that may be expected from its use by nervous, run-down men and women who are victims of faulty digestion, sluggish, congested organs, poor assimilation, imperfect circulation or catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes.

Jack Connor, who is a construction foreman on the river dam for the Tennessee Power Co., who lives at 19 Symamore street, Worcester, Mass., made and signed the following statement while talking to Mr. Edey the Tanlac Man at William L. Davis Co.'s Drug Store, Worcester.

Mr. Connor said:

"I was in a run-down condition. I suffered from loss of appetite and did not have any 'pep' in me. I felt as tired when I got up in the mornings as I did when I went to bed at night. I also suffered quite a little from catarrh of the head.

"I was completely off my feed; for a week I didn't put away a square meal. That wasn't natural for me and I commenced to become worried because I know the fellow who doesn't eat is a 'dead one'.

"I was passing Davis' Drug Store and saw the Tanlac display in the window and bought a bottle. I hadn't taken many doses of my first bottle when I discovered that my stomach commenced to say 'I want food and plenty of it.' So now I can store away a mighty good meal and the best part of it I am not distressed after eating it.

"I am glad to recommend Tanlac because it is the very best thing I ever used in the way of a tonic and system builder. I have followed the construction game all my life and I can tell when anything gives up, especially when a man is weak and run-down."

It is at times like these when a person is in the condition Mr. Connor was before taking Tanlac that the value of a great reconstructive tonic is most apparent. You can't amend the human constitution, but you can live up to it by taking Tanlac.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

The Massachusetts Mohair Plush company is soon to observe the 25th anniversary of its establishment in Lowell, for The Sun of quarter of a century ago informed us:

"The manufacture of mohair plush is to be started in this city in the Corran building in Middlesex street where three floors will be occupied by the concern. Their spinning machinery is now being made in England. At present the only mills of this kind in this country are located in Sanford, Me. and Pawtucket, R. I. The local concern will have 16 looms at first and increase the number as they come. They contemplate bringing to this city next year, another industry, that of making window shades, to be conducted in connection with their present industry."

The Mohair Plush company landed in Lowell just in the height of a red-hot political campaign with Hon. Charles H. Allen, of this city and Hon. William E. Russell, as the contesting candidates for governor, the latter being in office at the time. The spellbinders were all talking on the tariff which was the principal national issue of those days and the McKinley bill had been recently enacted.

Gov. Russell at Rally

Says the old Sun:

"At the democratic rally held in Huntington hall, last Saturday evening Governor William E. Russell was accompanied by his wife who occupied a box during the addresses. This was the first meeting during the campaign at which Mrs. Russell accompanied her husband. The latter hurried away after his speech to a rally in Webster and Harvey N. Collison, of Boston substituted for Hon. John L. Corcoran who was unable to be present. Hon. John J. Donovan presided and before the close of the meeting there were calls for Col. A. A. Haggitt, who responded with a good short speech."

There were no whirlwind speaking drank before the raid took place, and further along in his remarkable confession he made this statement:

"Had it not been for the whiskey there would not in all probability have been a man killed and I can truthfully say had I known they had whiskey I never would have gone into the town for, with all my faults—and I regret to say they are many—whiskey-drinking was not one of them, and I never had confidence in a man who drank."

THE OLD TIMER

QUESTION ON BALLOT

Thirty-Seven Districts to Express Opinion on Initiative and Referendum at Coming State Election

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Fifty members of the Union for a Progressive Constitution at a luncheon in the Quincy house yesterday discussed the report of the committee on initiative and referendum on its efforts to place the question upon the ballot in the representative districts for the coming state election. Joseph Walker, president, Ex-Gov. Walsh cited incidents during his term as governor to show, he said, how little the average member of the legislature is guided by his honest convictions, when partisan considerations were thrown into the other scale. He referred in particular to the case of the committee on taxation last year. All agreed in conference, he said, upon the course which ought to have been pursued in providing a revision of the tax laws, and yet two-thirds of them voted the other way next day.

Sec. Allen of the committee reported that the question had been entered on the ballot in 35 representative and one senatorial districts.

C. A. SENTER CHANGES STORE

C. A. Senter, the well known local jeweler, has taken over a new location, the former store having proved too small in which to transact his business which has increased rapidly during the past year. Mr. Senter still remains in the Bradley building, Central street, but is now located in room 211, which is directly opposite his former store and which is one of the largest stores facing on Central street in this building. The new quarters, which are spacious, have been completely changed over to meet with the requirements of the business. Two handsome display windows greet the eye of any customer entering the store. These windows which are tastefully arranged, face the corridor which runs through the entire building. In the center street window in plain view is a large clock which at night is illuminated with lights. The name of the proprietor, The windows on either side bear the inscription "Agent for Waltham Watches." Mr. Senter by this way, pays special attention to this make of timepiece and terms his store "The Lowell Home of Waltham Watches."

NEW BASIS FOR MAIL RATE

Government to Pay Railroads for Space Instead of Weight as Experiment, Beginning Nov. 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The space basis for compensating railroads for transportation of mails will be put into effect Nov. 1 throughout 90 percent of the service, the postoffice department announced last night, under a provision of the last postoffice bill, which authorized partial insulation of the system to test its possibilities. That decision as to whether it shall be made permanent is left by the bill to the interstate commerce commission. The 10 percent of the service in which the present weight basis will be retained is the "closed pouch service," consisting of mails transmitted in locked sacks and handled in baggage cars by agents of railroad companies.

"It is expected," said a statement issued by the department, "that the cost of mail service on a space basis will be somewhat in excess of the cost on a weight basis, at least at the outset, but this excess is counterbalanced by certain economies and savings which can be effected in transporting empty equipment and supplies in the space paid for, but unused when mails run light."

Famous Bank Robber

I am indebted to Mr. Thomas A. Delany, a former resident of Lowell who now travels from coast to coast for a Brockton shoe concern, for a clipping from the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune which contained a full report of the confession of the noted bandit of days gone by, Cole Younger, which was made public upon his death at Lees Summit, Mo., last year. It has a local interest owing to its reference to Gen. Butler.

Mr. Delany is a faithful reader of The Sun in his travels, and on a recent trip to this city he kindly furnished me with the clipping. It seems that the Younger brothers who were connected with the notorious James boys of half a century ago, and more recently attempted the robbery of the bank at Northfield, Minn., assisted by a party of outlaws, one of whom was never caught nor identified and who to this day is supposed to have been Frank James, brother of Jesse James. The bandits killed one bank clerk and one of their number was also killed while the other were all wounded. Afterward were arrested, convicted and sentenced. While in prison at Stillwater, Minn., Cole Younger, the leader of the outlaws, made a full confession to Dr. A. E. Hedback, then the prison physician, on the promise that the latter would not give it publicly until Younger's death.

The confession was made in 1897, and subsequently Younger was pardoned and went to live on a farm in Lees Summit, Mo., where he spent his remaining days in peace, and as a good citizen. Upon his death last year Dr. Hedback, now a resident of Minneapolis, made public the confession, which in print required three columns of the newspaper, and which read like a volume of yellow-covered literature such as the boys of quarter of a century ago delighted to read when the teacher wasn't looking. The opening paragraph of the confession has a decidedly local flavor for it read as follows:

"Sir: For the first time I will now write out and give the facts of the raid made on the bank at Northfield, Sept. 7, 1896. We left Mankato Sept. 2, for Northfield. We had been informed that Gov. Ames of Mississippi and General Butler of Massachusetts had deposited $75,000 in the Northfield bank of that place and it was that information that caused us to select the bank at Northfield. I have seen it stated several times in the newspapers that we were frightened away from Mankato owing to the recognition of one of our party, but such was not the case. That we talked about the banks of that part of the state is true, but we came to the conclusion that they had enough to do to take care of the farmers who already had suffered too much from grasshoppers, to be troubled by us; therefore, we went to Northfield in expectation of getting the $75,000 belonging to ex-Governor Ames and Gen. Butler."

Throughout his confession Younger averred that the outlaws had no intention of killing anybody, and he attributed the killing of the clerk and the failure of the raid, to the fact that two members of a party, unknown to him, had a quart bottle of whiskey in their possession, which they

Mayor O'Donnell was asked today if he would be in favor of changing the hours for voting at primaries, making the hours from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m., the same as on election day, and this is, in substance, what he said: "I have read about boneheadedness (the word always properly spelled, of course) in connection with the hours for voting at the primaries and while I have always been very much interested in the matter, I could see no way of remedying it, not so far, at least, as the municipal primaries are concerned, for the very honorable gentlemen who gave us the charter under which we are operating at the present time made the language of section seven so read as to preclude the possibility of a change."

That is plain enough to be sure, and when further reference is made to "bonehead" in connection with the hours for voting at the primary it will have to be intended for the men who framed the charter.

As to the hours for voting at the state primaries, the mayor said he was investigating the situation and that he would bring the matter to the attention of the city council at its next meeting. The mayor is determined to see the matter from the voters' rather than from the newspapers' point of view, but if he finds that the voters can be just as well served by earlier hours he will favor the making of the primary or caucus hours the same on election day. But, the hours for the city primaries must remain as they are.

Beautifying Canal

Agent J. C. Wadsworth of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. has informed Mayor O'Donnell that when the city council orders the Locks and Canals have completed the stone wall on the eastern side of the Dutton street canal from Merrimack street to the foot of Dutton street, he will have the Merrimack Mfg. Co. erect an ornamental iron fence on the canal bank to correspond with the Lucy Loomis park fence. The mayor says that as soon as the fence is built, the city will proceed to beautify the eastern side of the canal.

City Farm Crops

It was stated today that 140 tons of produce already been stored at the city farm. Superintendent Conant says that the potato crop is only fair, the kind planted being the green mountain and the Irish cobbler, the most wonderful combination, perhaps, in New England. The crop of beets (not beets), carrots, parsnips and turnips is exceptionally good.

Dates For Registration

The dates for registration for the state election as given out at the city hall this morning are as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 2, 10 and 11; Friday, Oct. 13, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 15, 17 and 18. The hours for registration will be from 1 to 3 and 7 to 9 p. m. except on Wednesday, Oct. 13, when the hours will be from 12 noon, till 9 p. m., and no name can be added later than 9 p. m., on October 12.

Sylvester is Safe

There has been considerable inquiry as to the whereabouts of Sylvester Smith of Andover, N. H. It seems that Sylvester, according to a story which he told the city messenger, came to Lowell from Andover on August 6, with about $40 in his pocket. The money disappeared. Sylvester did not say that the disappearance was mysterious, but he asked the city messenger to telephone to his son-in-law at Andover and asked him to forward the price of a ticket from Lowell to Andover. The city messenger telephoned as requested but failed to get in touch with Sylvester's son-in-law. Sylvester went away and a little later inquiries concerning his whereabouts began to pour in at the police station and elsewhere. It was discovered today that Sylvester had been sent to the state infirmary at Tewksbury and now that he has been located he will be given

1000 FALL STYLES

Rockville Fancy Coatings, Sherriff's Worsted Suitings

I never paid more for woollens in my twenty years' business experience than I am paying today for the cloth I am selling to you in my different stores. But I never bought better qualities, better styles or handsomer fabrics, neither did you, and I don't care how much you paid, I unhesitatingly say that the $25 to $35 tailor can't give you better.

To the man, who, when he buys wants the best in the market, who wants late, snappy up-to-date merchandise—who, when he spends his money, likes to see lots of goods, so that he won't be restricted in a choice, who doesn't care so much for a dollar or two on the price, so long as he gets what he likes and what he knows people will appreciate, I issue

A Special Invitation For Today and Saturday

I WANT YOU COME IN, LOOK MY LINE OVER, TAKE HOME SAMPLES FOR FUTURE REFERENCE, I DON'T CARE WHETHER YOU BUY OR NOT, I AM MAKING THESE TWO DAYS QUALITY DAYS. I AM GOING TO SHOW YOU THE LARGEST AND SWELLEST UP-TO-DATE WOOLENS YOU EVER SAW ALL TOGETHER, IN ANY ONE STORE IN ALL YOUR LIFE.

STOP TO CONSIDER

One dissatisfied customer does more harm to a tailoring business than ten satisfied customers do good for the same concern. When you please the average man he takes it for granted. So he should. And it can't be expected that just because a customer is pleased by a concern that the customer should go out and break his neck advertising the fact. Let that customer be displeased, however, and he is more willing to break his neck to advertise the fact.

I mention these things to remind you of the fact that you can't stay in business seven full years in Lowell and lead your class unless you make good, and start the eighth year with the biggest business in its history.

UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF MY HEAD DESIGNER, MR. ATWOOD, and his assistants, Mr. Campbell, Mr. McMahon, Mr. Daly and Mr. Roy, the garments you buy in my store today are draughted, cut and fitted by men who have spent a lifetime in the designing of men's garments. In my workshop in my store is a force of men sewing and moulding them to the human shape, and you don't find many forms alike. My workshop is under the supervision of Mr. Andrew Barbara, who for thirty years past has worked for some of the highest priced tailors in Lowell.

If this combination can't fit and please you, cutters, fitters, tailors, all together working on the same floor, I don't know what chance you have to be fitted by men who do not profess to be or cannot hope ever to be style creators.

I want you to see these goods I offer at prices that this country has accepted as standard and popular. I can please you and save you money. Look me over anyway. No harm done if you don't order, and if you should order, you can take your garments when you are ready—say two weeks, a month, or two months. The point I want to bring out is, you don't spend your money now.

BODY OF WOMAN

had left his summer home yesterday for a business trip to Boston and that his wife was alone in the cottage when he departed.

Skull Crushed By Blow

Frederic L. Small, the husband, retired from active business about three years ago, and purchased the cottage at Lake Ossipee which has been the home of the Smalls for most of the year. The house stands on the shore of the lake, two miles from this village and was the only occupied place in the vicinity. The fire had gained strong headway before anyone was attracted to it and villagers arriving from a distance were unable to put it out. It was some hours later before the ruins cooled sufficiently to permit a search for the missing woman. This morning the body was found in the basement. It appeared that the skull had been crushed in by a blow or blows and also that the body had been partially burned while lying on a bed. High Sheriff Chandler of Carroll county took charge of the investigation when it seemed certain to the police that the case was one of murder instead of suicide. Medical Referee Horne of Conway prepared to make an autopsy and held an inquest.

Husband Arrested

Later on his authority Sheriff Chandler placed Small under arrest and held him at a local hotel pending instructions from the county solicitor.

The local agent of a life insurance company today made known that in January last he had written a joint policy on the lives of Small and his wife for $20,000. He solicited the business and both the husband and wife participated in the negotiations that led to the issuance of the policy. Mrs. Small's first name was Arlene.

Had Offered $1000 Reward

Before his arrest, Small had announced that he would give $1000 to anyone who could discover who killed his wife. He said he knew of no one who might have any reason for wishing ill to his wife or himself. Some time prior to the discovery of the corpse about Mrs. Small's neck her husband suggested the possibility that her clothing had caught fire while she was sitting before a fireplace as was customary. After his arrest he refused to make any statement whatever.

Both About 50 Years of Age

The Smalls came to the lake, it is understood here, from a place in Massachusetts, thought to be Southboro. Small had told acquaintances here that

PORCH FURNITURE

"Give some more of your ideas for porch furnishings, won't you, Marie?" pleaded Marjorie, as she threw herself on a wonderfully crocheted couch-hammock on her aunt's side veranda, screened by sweet scented vines.

"Well, I told you what I thought," replied Marie, "so now I will go on to the other things. Willow furniture is always attractive and is especially suitable for the porch because it can be scrubbed and cleaned without damage to its appearance or construction. The willow tables are cheap, made in various sizes, and light enough in weight to be easily moved. The Chinese 'hour-glass' chairs are also good."

"Then there is the rustic furniture—chairs and stools, couches and tables of 'old hickory' and the English terrace furniture of white-painted cypress, which is delightful for a big house and a broad veranda."

"Whatever kind is chosen, see that it is built to stand an occasional wetting from unexpected showers, and the hard knocks which a strong wind may subject it to. And above all, let it be comfortable; let it invite relaxation and rest. The chair which suggests formality or a brief, stiff sojourn, should have no place in this group. There should be also some means of stretching at full length for a chance nap during the long, hot afternoons. Canvas hammocks, with loose mattress and cushions, are perhaps the most popular for this purpose and have almost displaced the old time wicker hammocks."

"In choosing a rug, by the way, one should remember that it should be both good-looking and impervious to moisture and dampness. It should also be easy to keep clean or else the dust blowing from the drive or highway will play havoc with it. The grass rugs, or those of fiber and fute, have all of these qualities and are inexpensive enough to be suitable for use on the porch."

HOLLWEG IN REICHSTAG SAYS GERMANY WILL WIN

BERLIN, Sept. 29, via London.—Germany will persevere until victory is hers, the reichstag was told yesterday by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the full text of his speech which was published here today. The chancellor declared that this year's harvest had made Germany's position much more secure than was the case last year.

In his attack upon Great Britain he declared that that country was breaking one international law after another and was above all Germany's "most obstinate, fiercest and most obstinate enemy."

"A German statesman," he said, "who would hesitate to use against this enemy every available instrument of battle that would really shorten this war—such a statesman should be hanged." The chancellor declared his content for those circulating reports that all Germany's means of fighting were not being employed to the fullest possible extent. He added that in order to disappoint the enemy "who is on watch for every breach of our inner determination," he would not give details.

"When in August, 1914," he went on, "we had to draw the sword, we knew we had to protect our hearts and homes against a mighty and almost overwhelming coalition. Ardent and until then unknown and often ignored, patriotism flamed up in all hearts, defying death and certain of victory. Today, after two years of fighting, suffering and dying, we know more than ever before that there is only one watchword, namely, persevere and win. We will win. Last winter there was pusillanimous anxiety as to whether our foodstuffs would suffice. They have sufficed. This year's harvest makes us much more secure than was the case last year."

Referring to the actual conditions on the war fronts, the chancellor said that the attacks made by the central powers in the southeastern theatre had frustrated the great plan of the entente to sever the connection of Germany with the Orient by the separate conquest of Turkey, Bulgaria and Austria-Hungary.

"On the whole, therefore," he said, "we are isolated successes of our enemies on the Somme which cannot influence the general situation. On the other hand we have the successful repulse of all enemy attacks and the frustration of the enemy's intentions in the Balkans and the failure of his plans. Thus the gigantic war is proceeding. The war aims of our enemies are announced without disguise and can allow of no misinterpretation. Their purpose is territorial covetousness and our destruction. They proposed to give Constantinople to the Russians, Alsace-Lorraine to the French, Trentino to the Italians and Transylvania to the Rumanians.

"Since the first day of the war we have sought nothing but the defense of our rights, our existence and our freedom. Therefore, we are able first and alone to declare our readiness for peace negotiations. I spoke on Feb. 6, 1915, and repeatedly afterwards with sufficient clearness on that subject. Does anyone dare to demand that we should make offers in the face of Premier Briand's declaration that the conclusion of peace today would be a sign of weakness or that memory was dead? The entente continues the war because it hopes to be able to attain Utopian war aims. The lust of conquest of our enemies is responsible for the daily heaping mountains of corpses."

The chancellor appealed to Premier Briand to remember that the last youths of France were perishing on

of all arrangements and each division and company is under the command of competent officers.

In passing the review stands Major Conroy expects to have the companies of infantry form a moving cross. It will be the first time this formation has ever been used in Lowell. Every cadet is expected to attend the special meeting this evening at 7.30. All officers should report at 7.15 for special instructions.

The cadets are also watching with interest the headway on their new armory which should be open by the middle of October. Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., chaplain of the cadets has made all arrangements for a grand opening with the cadets and their parents present. He has received many large pictures of former members to be hung in the recreation room and also a large picture of the 1916 camp groups. The entire ground floor, which will be of cement, will be used as a drill hall and the second story will be used as a recreation room and officers' quarters. The lockers and gun racks will be arranged around the sides of this recreation room. It will be as fine an armory as any in Lowell and will accommodate the cadets much better than the former hall.

WILSON WRITES ON MAIN ISSUE OF CAMPAIGN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 29.—In a message opening his campaign of letter writing, President Wilson declared last night that the question is about the determined whether we shall keep the nation upon its present terms of peace and good will with the world or turn to radical changes of policy which may alter the whole aspect of the nation's life.

Women's Concern in Issues

The president wrote the letter to Miss Leona L. Larrabee, president of the Women's Democratic club of Portland, Ore., thanking her for work being done in his behalf by the organization.

"I cannot help having the feeling," said the president's letter, "that the intelligent women of Oregon need no suggestion or intimation from me as to what are the real issues of the present campaign or the real concern that women must have with those issues."

Advocate of Suffrage

"As a very sincere advocate of the extension of suffrage to women, it seems to me a very great disservice to the cause that partisan use should be made of it, particularly at a time so critical as this. The question is about to be determined whether we shall keep the nation upon its present terms of peace and good will with the world or turn to radical changes of policy which may alter the whole aspect of the nation's life."

In another letter sent to Howard S. Williams of Jackson, Miss., expressing regret that he cannot attend the annual convention of the Young Men's Business Clubs of America at Jackson on Oct. 10, the president last night declared that the future business development of the country rests in general and peculiar degree at present in the hands of young business men.

Problems of Future

"The problems of the future in the field of business are going to be new and very largely," he said, "or else old problems in a new form. It will need imagination, vigor and enterprise to deal with them as they should be dealt with, and the young men of this generation should be preparing themselves in mind and purpose for a new era. It would be a great privilege if I could come to bear such a message in person. Since I cannot, I can only ask you to utter it for me and to assure the gentlemen assembled of my profound interest in the part they are to play in the future development of the great nation we love."

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Local unions and branches affiliated with the textile industry have elected to the convention of the United States Textile Workers to be held in New York commencing Oct. 16, the following:

Dresser Tenders, Mrs. Annie Regan; Spinner Fixers, John Hanley; Folders, Thomas F. McMahon; Woolen Weavers, Frank Mullen; Pelish Weavers, Frank Balas. Other textile organizations probably will elect delegates later. The contingent from Lowell will leave this city on Sunday, Oct. 15.

It was voted to appropriate money towards a fund for the relief of strikers at Pittsfield at an advertised meeting of the woolen spinners held last night at 32 Middle street. George Allen, Peter McEwan and Edward Cunningham were elected delegates from the local to the Wage Earners' club.

Organizer T. F. McMahon has been called back to North Dighton, where he prevented a strike of textile workers last week. After he had left trouble started anew and he is now trying to smooth things out.

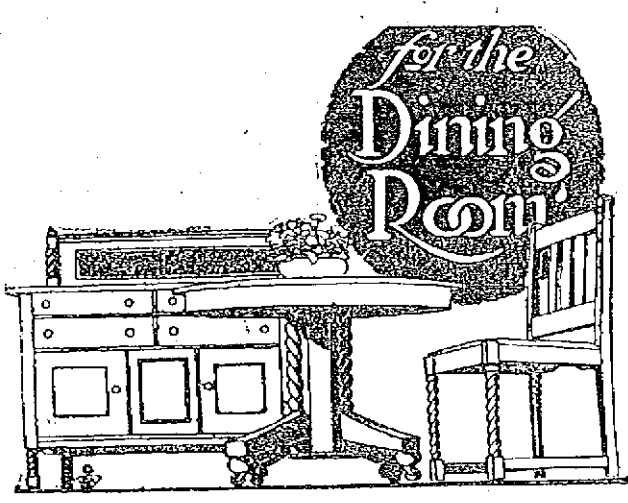

W. E. Whelan was a visitor to this city Wednesday night. He came to attend a meeting of the boat and shoe workers' organization after having been in Lawrence doing organization work.

The Lowell Textile council will meet on the second and fourth Fridays of the month until further notice.

REVIEW OF NAVAL GROWTH UNDER PRES. WILSON

Lemuel P. Padgett, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, gave out the following statement today regarding naval affairs under President Wilson and Secretary Daniels:

In view of the widespread interest throughout the country in the subject of preparedness, and especially the interest of the people in the navy, and in view of the many unjust criticisms and untrue reports which have been published broadcast throughout the country, I call this opportunity to call attention to the achievements and accomplishments of the present administration, under the leadership of President Wilson and the administration of the navy department under Secretary Daniels and to submit comparisons with the achievements and accomplishments of preceding administrations.

In so doing I have full confidence that the facts will bear testimony to the splendid constructive work of the present administration and will refute the untrue charges and misstatements relating to the navy, which have been circulated generally throughout the country and will demonstrate to the people that the present administration and the present secretary, Josephus Daniels, deserve the highest praise for the results accomplished.

As to the first of these investigations, the Wilson administration found the navy, short of officers, short of men, short of fighting craft, short of aircraft, short of munitions and with an organization in the navy department that did not effect proper efficiency. The navy was not balanced and not adequate, nor was there at any time a continuous policy to render the navy adequate or well balanced. While it is true that the general navy board had a policy for 18 ships of the first line by 1915, no secretary of the navy had ever adopted the recommendations of the general board in the annual estimates to congress. Owing to this lack of a fixed policy or system, our navy under republican administrations was allowed to drop prior to 1911 from second to third place.

In an attempt to prevent our navy dropping still further in relative strength due to haphazard policies, President Wilson, in his message to congress in December, 1915, urged the adoption of a well-considered and a well-proportioned continuing program for the construction of new vessels.

The continuing program authorized in the last naval bill which has now passed both houses of congress and has been approved by the president will shortly assure the United States a well-proportioned navy, second in strength in the navies of the world, and authorize construction in an amount that will tax the capacity of private shipbuilders as well as the shipbuilding facilities of the government for the next three years.

During the administration of McKinley and Roosevelt, from March 4, 1901, to March 4, 1905, the total cost of naval vessels authorized amounted to $107,006,642. During the Roosevelt administration from March 4, 1905, to March 4, 1909, the total cost of vessels authorized amounted to $83,192,933. Under the Taft administration from March 4, 1909, to March 4, 1913, the total cost of vessels authorized amounted to $127,747,113. While during the Wilson administration from March 4, 1913, to August 25, 1916, the total cost of vessels authorized amounted to $655,239,806.

The above figures show that the total cost of vessels authorized during the Wilson administration to date is more than twice the cost of vessels authorized during republican administrations from 1901 to 1913. The total authorized tonnage of the republican administrations from 1901 to 1913, amounted to 1,116,018 tons. The tonnage of vessels authorized during the Wilson administration to date amounts to 1,014,666 tons. The naval bill which has just passed congress authorized, for instance, 167 vessels to be built prior to July 1, 1919.

These vessels as heretofore stated, restore the United States to second place in naval strength among the powers of the world, which position we lost under republican administrations.

The records of the bureau of navigation show that on March 3, 1913, there were less men in the navy than on June 30, 1912, notwithstanding the fact that congress on August 22, 1912, had increased the enlisted strength by 4000 men. Recruiting had fallen to such a low ebb that at the end of 1912 the battleship fleet was short 1648 men to effectively man the ships. It therefore appears that previous administrations were unable to obtain the men that congress had authorized, and in consequence, the active fleet was short of men and the reserve ships were compelled to lie idle at their docks and to deteriorate for lack of men to keep them in good condition.

On March 4, 1913, the present administration found the navy short of its authorized enlisted force by 5312 men. During the Roosevelt administration 7500 enlisted men were added. This provided for only enough to man the vessels authorized during that administration, making no provision for a reserve or for relieving the then existing shortage. This shortage existed through the Taft administration, and although congress during that administration authorized an increase of 7000 men, only 3000 were actually enlisted. An investigation was made, and, after careful consideration, means were adopted to increase recruiting in the navy as it appeared at the time, that the first need of the navy was enlisted men. The present administration immediately took steps to open

KILLS MOTHER AND SISTER THEN ENDS HIS LIFE

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE DISCOVERED AT TOLLAND LAST EVENING

TOLLAND, Sept. 29.—A double murder and suicide were discovered here last evening, when the bodies of Mrs. Rufus Gilmore, aged 60; her daughter, Anna, aged 23, and son Edward, aged 27, were found at their home. A shotgun ended the lives of all three.

The shooting is believed to have been done by Edward Gilmore, who has been living in Winsted, Conn. He has been acting queerly of late, since a sister was taken to the insane hospital. About $600 was found in this clothing when the body was searched.

Rufus Gilmore, husband of the murdered woman, died last winter, and Edward Gilmore was appointed administrator of the estate.

Medical Examiner Dr. Edward S. Smith of Westfield was notified of the tragedy and went to the scene of the murder immediately.

Tolland is one of the most sparsely settled towns in the state. It has a population of 190, and is located in Hampden county, close to the Connecticut border. It is 15 miles from the nearest railroad.

FREDERICK ESTY WINS

Republican Nomination for Register of Probate Was Won by the Present Incumbent

One of the most interesting county fights in the primaries, Tuesday, was that for the republican nomination for register of probate and insolvency for Middlesex county, which was won by Frederick M. Esty of Framingham, assistant register for 15 years, and appointed register by the governor temporarily to succeed William E. Rogers of Wakefield.

His opponents for the nomination were William G. Andrews of Somerville, a Boston lawyer, and Roland E. Brown of Cambridge.

According to returns brought to light, and only a few nooks and corners remain to be heard from, Mr.

UNNATURALLY TIRED

Some men and many women feel tired all the time. This is not natural. Fatigue following work or great exertion is normal but to be constantly tired indicates a diseased condition, usually thin blood. Backache generally accompanies this state of the system.

Such sufferers are usually pale but not necessarily thin. In bloods the transparency of the skin is increased; in brunettes it is decreased and the complexion becomes muddy. The eyelids become a grayish blue.

This condition of thin blood, which doctors call anemia, is a dangerous one if allowed to progress but with proper treatment it may be speedily corrected. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain just the elements needed to build up the blood and restore the lost color and vitality. New energy circulates through the system with the enriched blood; the heart stops its alarming palpitating; color returns to cheeks and lips.

Nothing more is needed except sunlight, good air, proper food and rest. If you do not know exactly what rules to follow in these matters write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for booklets on the blood and diet. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

PREVENTION OF STRIKE AVERTED VAST LOSSES

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—"One hundred million dollars direct loss and paralysis of the market is what the farmers and fruit growers of the United States would have suffered had not President Wilson averted the railroad strike," is the statement made today by Frank G. Odell, agricultural economist and former agricultural statistician for the state of Nebraska. Mr. Odell said:

"The certified returns made by the 226 railroads of the United States to the interstate commerce commission show that for the month of April, 1916, their combined net earnings were 78 million dollars more than for April, 1915. 'The railroads' plea of poverty is being used by the republicans to scare the farmer into believing that he would have to pay the cost of increased freight rates if the eight-hour day should compel the roads to pay more in wages. The republicans are not calling attention to the fact that farmers would have lost more by one week of strike conditions than their alleged increase of expense would have cost the railroads in five years.

"Take his single instance," continued Mr. Odell. The Seattle Times prints this report of the fruit crop of the famous Yakima valley in Washington: "NORTH YAKIMA, Sept. 18.—It is now practically certain that the 1916 fruit crop of the Yakima valley will be 10,000 carloads, 200 carloads more than ever before. The total may even run over that figure. High prices have encouraged the growers to pick and ship all of their fruit and as it was exceptionally clean this year very little has gone or will go to waste.

"A return of $5,000,000 for these 10,000 carloads of fruit seems now almost as few as doubt apples will average the 95 cents per box necessary to make this total.

A general railroad strike would have prevented the moving of this crop with a resultant loss of at least 50 per cent, or a total loss of three million dollars to the Yakima fruit growers.

"This," Mr. Odell continued, "is in Esty has a plurality over Mr. Andrew of nearly 4000, while Mr. Andrew leads Mr. Brown by about 2000.

In Cambridge Brown and Esty split even, with about 1000 each, Andrew running third, but he was first in the city, Everett, Waltham, Woburn, Newton and Belmont.

Japanese Charge d'Affaires Explains That Talk About Renewal of Immigration Discussion Was Unofficial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Responsibility for the statement, that after the European war Japan would renew negotiations with the United States over immigration and alien land legislation was disclaimed by the Japanese embassy yesterday in a statement issued by the charge, Tokichi Tanaka. It was explained that an official of the embassy, who expressed views on this subject Wednesday, spoke personally and without any authorization.

Furthermore, Mr. Tanaka declared that Baron Sakatani, the former Japanese finance minister, who has suggested in speeches in New York that Japan would take up the alien land issue again as soon as the war was over, was in no way authorized to speak for the foreign office and was discussing the question solely as an influential statesman representing a large body of Japanese public opinion.

PRICE OF MEATS DROPS

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Meats have experienced a substantial reduction, to the joy of market, though flour has advanced another 25 cents a barrel and sugar 15 cents a hundred-weight. There was a great abundance of fruits and green vegetables and fresh fish yesterday.

000. This does not take into account early small fruits, grapes or melons. A 25 per cent. loss on these values would have been small in the case of a railroad strike.

The certain losses which would have fallen on the growers in these districts alone would have totaled many millions. The disorganization of markets which would have followed a strike would have been felt disastrously in every item of this year's farm production.

"I wish," said Mr. Odell, "that the farmers of the country could realize that it is Woodrow Wilson who saved them from this incalculable loss, and that Charles E. Hughes, who as governor of New York vetoed practically all appropriations that were vitally needed for rural interests in condemning President Wilson for preventing a nation-wide industrial panic and ruin of the farmers' market."

DIAMOND DAZZLES

One big reason for the recent successes of the Boston Red Sox is the fact that Bill Carrigan caught a great many of the games. While Bill isn't the greatest catcher in the world, his presence in the lineup gives more confidence to the other members of the team, and he is generally there in the pinch when a hit is needed.

Manager McGraw is getting more expressions of sympathy, than of congratulation. His friends regret that he did not get his machine together a little earlier.

The Braves deserve great praise for their remarkable fight.

The loss of Evers, and the injuries to catchers and pitchers proved disastrous for the Braves.

The teams in both leagues look to be well organized for next season.

Ty Cobb is to be a film star at $100 per week.

The Chicago Cubs have drafted Charley Deal, the third-sacker who so well filled the place of Red Smith in the world's series two years ago when the red head was lost by accident to the Braves.

Playing with a collar outfit has not kept Hal Chase, of the Reds, from leading the National league batmen.

The critics had no sooner labeled Benny Kauff a fly than the Giant gardener began to shine in all departments of the game.

The Pittsburg club of the defunct Federal league owes $173,044. Which shows that the high cost of living has nothing on the high cost of pastime.

It's always the despised tail-ender that rears on its hind legs and puts some pennant contender out of business. Ask George Stallings, he knows.

Ty Cobb and Max Carey, leading base-stealers in the American and National leagues, respectively, are running neck and neck for the piffling championship of the big show.

Losing the fine chucking of Hughes and Allen was enough to cast the Braves' pennant chances into the discard. The two stars were not only the cream of the Stallings' staff, but were also one, two in the list of National league pitchers.

The Smith family certainly is coming into its own as big yard pastime. Brooklyn, Pittsburg, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis in the National league and Washington in the American league all have a Smith on the payroll.

Hugh Duffy favors a new league that would comprise Lynn, Lowell, Lawrence, Lewiston, Portland and Fitchburg.

Pitchers who have taken part in more than 10 games this season include: Alexander of the Phils, Hughes of the Braves, Mamaux of the Pirates, Schneider, Toney and Schultz of the Reds; Ames and Meadows of the Cardinals; Leonard, Mays and Ruth of the Red Sox; Johnson and Gallia of Washington; Boland and H. Coveleskie of the Tigers; Shawkey of the Yankees; S.

Coveleskie and Bagby of Cleveland; Myers of the Athletics and Davenport, Groom and Wellmann of the Browns.

Stuffy McInnis has made a great come-back in his batting, hitting with the .300 mark as compared with .200 the first of August.

Howard Ehmke, who has been obtained by Detroit, was the shut-out king of the New York State league this year. He whitewashed opponents 12 times, blanking every club in the circuit, and won more games than any other pitcher in the State league. He won 30 games, and prior to this Alexander held the record, 29 games back in 1910.

JESSE BURKETT TALKS OF DAYS WHEN HE WAS STAR

SAYS PITCHING AS GOOD THEN AS NOW—TOO MUCH HAND-SHAKING BASEBALL

Ty Cobb's race for batting honors with Tris Speaker in the American league ended a few days ago, according to the report sent out that Ty had given up the battle and that one of the reasons which influenced him from striving to the very end to catch Speaker was the best interests of the Detroit club.

And now for a little comment from Jesse Burkett. Back 20 years Jesse was the Ty Cobb batter of the National league. In 1896 he led with an average of .410 and toward the end of the season there was a happening which led Jesse to hark back to it during the lobby gathering at the Bancroft recently before a session of the Eastern league.

"Yes, Ty is a grand ball player," said Jesse, "and the only thing I ever did that I didn't like was to give up that fight to catch Speaker."

"But he said himself he did it for the best interests of his club," was replied to Burkett's comment and the veteran came back with this:

"Well, they wanted me to give up when I was leading the league back in 1896, with the Cleveland team—Tibbeau had it. We were due to play the old Orioles, and it was figured that I would be sure of leading the league if I dropped out and took no chances."

"But I took no chances and went through to the finish and I got 14 hits in those four remaining games."

"How about those big batting averages of your time, Jesse?" asked a fan.

"Just as genuine as those of today, and same conditions. The pitchers were just as tough then as now. They had a straight one, and a couple mix 'em up. They didn't have the splitter then, but they had the drop ball, and how they could pitch it! The drop ball pitching gave way after a time. It was too trying on the pitchers—took hold of their elbows."

"I consider Amos Rusie was the toughest pitcher I ever faced. He had slow ones and fast ones and—zip—how he could smoke 'em over."

Burkett has strong convictions about minor league baseball. He believes the ball players of the minors should speed up their actions on the diamond and easily cut down 20 minutes or more of wasted time.

"Too much hand-shaking baseball in the minors," he concluded, "for the good of class D baseball."

The rival promoters at Philadelphia are scrapping again. Before it was over a match between Johnny Malone and Kid Williams. Now the bone of contention is a six-round bout between Kilbane and Benny Leonard. An offer of $4000 has been made to Leonard, but he is holding out for $5000.

Jimmy Coffey, the New York welter-weight, who has been advertised in that city as a Mohawk Indian, has asked that it be declared that he is of Italian extraction and not the other. It seems that his friends have accused him of trying to hide his nationality and he wants to set himself straight. Coffey boxes Young Jack O'Brien at Marlville, R. I., tonight.

SAYS EASTERN LEAGUE
HAS NO FUTURE

WORCESTER WRITER SAYS THERE WILL BE TWO LEAGUES OPERATING IN THIS SECTION

In Worcester the dope on the future of the Eastern league is that it actually has no future. A Worcester baseball writer has it that there will be two leagues operating next season. After reviewing the work of the Worcester team, he comments as follows: "For the others the season was not prosperous. The league was a disappointment. It will not be attempted again. The 10-club league proved unwieldy, in which it only emphasized a fact that baseball history long ago established."

"The failure of the organization has been evident in the talk of club owners for the last few months. They are looking forward to next season and planning to recuperate their losses by banding together cities which will insure a circuit in which the expenditures will be kept within bounds."

"The league as it existed this season, will be split and added to, and there will be two leagues operating in the territory, as has been the case in the past. But what the make up of those leagues will be is difficult to tell. It is no less difficult to predict if some of the men now in the game will continue. They could not be told anything a year ago, but were forced to swallow the knowledge after a lesson of bitter experience."

"There will be plenty of backing and filling and perhaps as much scheming as there was last winter. But magnates are not as likely to set up false gods as they were."

"Whatever is done, Worcester will not have to worry about its place. Worcester is one of the desirable cities. Not only is the patronage at games as good as the best, but the city's location makes it desirable to cities at both ends of the present circuit."

"One of the leagues suggested for another season includes Pittsfield, Hartford and Springfield. Those cities will be pleased to have Worcester decide to cast its fortunes with them. On the other hand, when Lowell, Lawrence, Lynn and other cities of the former New England league get to thinking a small circuit offers the best prospect for financial success they will want Worcester included in their circuit."

YANKS SLIP ONE OVER ON THE RED SOX

GIANTS TAKE TWO FROM BRAVES, 25 STRAIGHT

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The champion Red Sox deviated a moment, and only a moment, yesterday from their customary policy of air-tight, winning baseball. But the deviation was fatal. It lost them the game, which, even with the slip from grace, the clan of Carigan forced into 10 innings ere they disappointed a big crowd by losing, 4 to 2. And in that 10th when the enemy made two runs the unnecessary cause of Pitcher Carl Mays was more or less responsible for the catastrophe.

The facts of the matter are that the Red Sox were beaten by Southpaw Mordridge of the Yankees and accordingly are but two and a half games ahead of the White Sox and must win three more victories to clinch the pennant.

Perhaps it is because the Red Sox impress one with a sense of their technical perfection that any departure sticks out glaringly, perhaps not. Anyhow, one offensive, at least, to our way of looking, error, and one defensive deviation lost a ball game and kept the Boston fans, not to mention the Red Sox themselves, on the anxious seat.

In the ninth inning Pitcher Mays opened up on Pitcher Mordridge with a single to left field. The score had just been tied at the time and one run would have won the game. Harry Hooper was up, and Harry, as everybody in Boston and in other American league strongholds knows, is one of the best little bunters that ever happened. Harry, as you can see, is followed in the batting order by Jannet and Walker, two great rescue hitters, especially against southpaw pitchers. Practically every man woman and child in the big audience expected to see Harry bunt and put the pitcher on second, from whence Jannet or Willie might have scored him. Harry, however, took a shot at the first ball rolled toward second and the none too speedy Carl was forced out. Then Harry died stealing, and a fine, and incidentally the final Carigan chance, had gone aglimmering.

Then in the hostile 10th, which Walters opened with a double to left, Mays pitched to Mordridge before Shortstop Scotty had got his position. The Yankee finger tapped a gentle grounder toward short, but as Scotty wasn't there the ball went to the outfield, scored a run and wrecked the game. A little less haste and the game might have been going on yet.

NEW ALTITUDE RECORD
MISERY ISLAND, Salem Harbor, Sept. 29.—Clifford L. Webster, chief mechanic of the naval militia station and chief instructor of the Burgess company, who is teaching the militiamen to fly, broke his own altitude record yesterday morning, when, with Gordon Balch in the seaplane of Ensign Godfrey Cabot, he reached an altitude of 6600 feet. This is also an American record for pilot and passenger in this type of machine.

The weather yesterday morning was perfect for flying, and the clever Webster circled up and up till he was nearly out of sight. After coming ashore and making a report to the aviation officer of his record flight, Lieut. Greely S. Curtis roused the camp.

Webster, who is one of the most popular men in the station, was surrounded by his lent mates and heartily congratulated.

TONIGHT'S DANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—George Stallings and his Braves got in the way up at the Polo grounds yesterday afternoon and were run over roughshod. By taking both parts of a double-header, 2 to 0 and 6 to 0, the Giants extended their winning streak to 26 games.

Jeff Tesreau, the Ozark bear hunter and spitball pitcher, outpitched and outbatted the extraordinary, subdued, Richard Rudolph of the Bronx in the first tussle. This made it an even two dozen for McGraw's dazzling cast and matched the record of the Jersey City Eastern league champions of 1903. Ferdinand Schupp, the slim and trim, rough and tough little southpaw, took your measure of Don Carlos Patrick Ragan in the second charge.

Let it be mentioned that this accomplishment, which marked New York's 25th successive triumph, tied a minor league record made by Charley of the Carolina league the same year the Skelton suffered a brain storm. Only one club in organized baseball ever had a longer run than that already enjoyed by the Giants. In 1902 Corsicana reeled off 27 in a row. Mac and his band are out to beat Corsicana off the map, and the Braves are with us for three more games.

Big Throng Attends
The crowd was one of the whopper ones of the season. More than 35,000 paid to see the Giants devour the Braves. Talk about your world series excitement, nothing at the world's series ever approached the ardor spilled through Brush Stadium. At world's series games the crowd is divided against itself, at the Polo grounds yesterday all were little pals together. All were out for a single purpose—to cheer McGraw and his fighters to a record that will outlive the century. It was a crowd that enjoyed every second of the afternoon. Its appetite was insatiable. It was a case of thumbs down for the Braves all of the way.

The second game commands most respect. It was the one that whittled away every exciting record but that pesky Corsicana one. Also it came within the fraction of a hand's breadth of making the contest the most remarkable contest of all history. In shutting out the Braves in this close engagement, Ferdie Schupp came within scant inches of a no-hit game. Only 29 batters faced him and only two reached first base. For more than six innings this grand young southpaw pitched perfect baseball. Through each of the first five innings Boston batters were retired in order. Blackburn, who went behind the bat when Gowdy was banished in the third inning, was the first Boston player to get a start. He walked with one out in the sixth inning.

No Braves Reach Second
No Boston runner reached second base in this second game. Indeed Konerch was the only man beside Blackburn, who got so far as first. The Big Train it was who spoiled a no-hit game for Schupp. With two going in the seventh, El cracked one a mile a minute to the left of Herzog. The second sacker made a gallant try, but missed by an inch or two. That was the only offering that closely resembled a safe blow. There was another incident in this second game that was worth double the price of admission.

Appreciated generally, perhaps more than Schupp's wizardry, Benny Kauff in the third inning knocked out his ninth home run of the season. It was a legitimate home run, one within the grounds. But never was such unloaded at a more propitious time. Talk about your psychological moments, if Benny lives to be a thousand, he will never have such an inning in the spotlight.

Kauff's home run came on the most soul inspiring situation of the whole afternoon. Not only were the bases filled with two out, but the count was three and two on Kauff, before he hit. With Pagan's pitch, Herzog, Robertson and Zimmerman, who maimed the bases, all started at breakneck speed toward their goal.

Ball Fairly Hit
Benny took his full swing and met the ball as fair as one was ever hit. With the swing of the bat Snodgrass started to pour back toward the batter's box, but he never had a chance to win the race.

The ball carried over Snow's babbling chatter by 30 feet or more and snuggled up against the fence as Benny dug in his spikes and dusted past the halfway station.

PHILLIES WIN ERRATIC CONTEST FROM DODGERS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Philadelphia overpowered Brooklyn yesterday, 3 to 0, in the first game of their final series. By winning, Philadelphia reduced Brooklyn's lead to less than half a game. The contest, which was witnessed by a big crowd, was an erratic exhibition. Both teams made costly errors and brilliant plays.

Alexander was on the mound for Philadelphia and, although not at his best, outpitched Cheney, who started for Brooklyn and was wild and ineffective. A one-handed catch by Paskevich was the fielding feature. Luderus and Daubert led at the bat.

Philadelphia gained the lead by scoring three runs in the second. Cravath walked, Luderus doubled, and Cravath scored on Niehoff's out. Luderus scored when Cheney threw wild on Killifer's bunt. Alexander brought in his battery mate with a sacrifice fly.

Brooklyn came back with one run in its half of the third. Myers got the first hit off Alexander after two were out, went to second on Daubert's single and scored when Niehoff misplayed a fly by Stengel.

Cheney had a wild streak in the fourth and Philadelphia annexed four more runs. Luderus singled and Niehoff walked and both advanced on a wild throw by Cheney. Coombs went into the box for Brooklyn and issued a pass to Killifer. Wheat permitted a single by Alexander to get through him and Luderus, Niehoff and Killifer scored while Alexander went to third, scoring on a single by Paskevich.

Fighting gamely, the league leaders obtained two runs in the fifth on singles by Olson and Miller, a base on balls to Coombs, a fumble by Bauercroft, and Daubert's out. Paskevich robbed Olson of an apparent home run in the sixth. Brooklyn scored its fourth and last run in the seventh.

PHILLIES IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT CHASE

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and break even with the Giants the Phillies, with four out of six over the Braves, will win the pennant by half a game.

If the Robins win two out of three from the Phillies and break even with the Giants the Phillies must win six straight from the Braves to finish first by half a game.

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and win three out of four from the Giants the Phillies must win five out of six from the Braves to capture the pennant by half a game.

If the Robins win two out of three from the Phillies and one out of four from the Giants they can still finish first if the Phillies lose two to the Braves.

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and three out of four to the Giants the Phillies can win the pennant with three victories over the Braves.

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and four straight to the Giants the Phillies can lose four out of six to the Braves and still land on top by half a game.

If the Robins win two out of three from the Phillies and lose four to the Giants the Phillies must take four out of six from the Braves to get into the world's series.

If the Robins lose three straight to the Phillies the race practically will be over as far as Brooklyn is concerned.

PHILLIES LESS THAN HALF GAME BEHIND DODGERS

Less than half a game separates the league-leading Brooklyn team and Philadelphia in the National league pennant race as a result of yesterday's victory of the latter over the former. Brooklyn must get an even break in the two remaining contests with the champions to remain in first place when its important four-game series starts with New York. Philadelphia has a hard series in front, too, a six-game set with Boston. The standing:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Brooklyn	30	58	.69311
Philadelphia	28	57	.66689
Boston	24	60	.68333

Boston lost half a game in the American league race yesterday, and leaves Chicago and Detroit still in the hunt. Chicago is two and a half games behind and Detroit four. The standing:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Boston	28	61	.55080
Chicago	26	64	.54333
Detroit	25	68	.56355

NEBES BEATS YALE IN 3 MILE SKATING RACE

LOWELL BOY WINS FIRST IN SERIES OF THREE RACES AT ROLL-AWAY

Albert Nebes, the local roller skating champ, got the jump on his old rival Billy Yale in the first of three matches at the Rollaway on Thursday last night.

The Lowell boy was forced to go his limit and won out by the slight margin of two yards. The race was of three miles and the distance was covered in ten minutes. Yale showed better form than upon his last appearance in Lowell. He contended at that time that a track 25 laps to the mile favored his opponent, and largely because of such contention, Manager Moore decided to give him a chance on a larger surface, the Rollaway space having been increased meanwhile to permit 19 laps to the mile. That Yale held Nebes throughout the race was evidence that his argument had some merit. Yale won the toss and got away in the lead and with the pole position, but he didn't care for first position at this time, and quickly relinquished it to the Lowell boy, believing no doubt that he could recover the lead when occasion required. His judgment was faulty. Nebes retained the advantage so early acquired, and set the pace the rest of the race. At the end of two miles, Nebes opened up a gap with the idea of making Yale assume the pace making role, but the latter refused to go ahead. In the last few laps, the skaters cut loose, with Nebes always ahead, and Yale trailing. Nebes tried to lose his opponent as he did a few months ago, but was unsuccessful in dragging away. At the end, two yards separated the skaters. The exhibition was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd. It was announced that a race between Nebes and Yale for the five mile distance will be staged tonight, with a pursuit race tomorrow night. Money deposited in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank on or before Saturday, October 7th, will bear interest from that date. If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

FRENCH AIRMAN WRECKS THREE GERMAN PLANES

BROUGHT DOWN IN TWO MINUTES AND 30 SECONDS—FELL 10,000 FT.
—UNINJURED

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Three German aeroplanes brought down in two minutes and 30 seconds by a stop watch, is the latest exploit of Second Lieutenant Georges Guynemer. Incidentally, Lieut. Guynemer, who is known as "King of the Aces," fell 10,000 feet, but escaped unhurt.

Guynemer went to the assistance of a comrade who was hard pressed by five German machines. He brought down two of them within 30 seconds and then rising over took a third, which he shot down two minutes later. He was looking for the remaining two German machines when a shell burst beneath him and stripped the left wing of his aeroplane of every stitch of its covering. He plunged giddily earthward.

"I gave myself up for lost," he said, "but after falling 5000 feet I thought I would struggle all the same. The wind blew me over our lines and like a flash I had a picture of my funeral and all my good friends following the coffin. I continued to fall and the levers wouldn't budge. I vainly pushed and pulled to right and left. I made a last desperate effort all to no purpose and then I saw the field toward which I was falling. Suddenly something happened and my speed diminished. Then there was a resounding crash and a violent shock. When I recovered my wits I was in the midst of the fragments of my machine and practically uninjured. How am I still alive, I asked myself. I believe it was the straps which held me to my seat which saved me."

On Sept. 16 Lieut. Guynemer was officially credited with his 16th enemy aeroplane. A week later he was reported to have brought down his 17th and 18th. He was wounded in a fight in the air last March and in a subsequent fight was forced to descend between the French and German trenches, but escaped.

HAS TOURED 20 STATES.

Farm Loan Board Warns That It Is Not Necessary to Invest in Land Stock Banks to Borrow Money

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Federal farm loan board returned to Washington after a tour through 20 states to gather information for its guidance in dividing the country into 12 farm loan districts and designating the sites of the 12 farm loan banks authorized under the new rural credits law.

The tour began at Augusta, Me., Aug. 21, and took the board to the Pacific coast and as far south as Missouri. A similar trip will be taken soon through states in the north and southwest. In a statement issued last night the board expressed satisfaction over the results of the hearings held thus far and predicted that the plan of putting the farm loan banks into operation before Feb. 1 next will be carried out without change.

"In several states it was called to the attention of the board that joint land stock banks were being organized by questionable means by promoters who are taking advantage of the farmer's desire for loans on the amortized plan to sell stock to farmers," the statement says. "Farmers are advised that there is no necessity for subscribing to the stock of any private corporation for the purpose of securing such a loan, and are cautioned not to do so except upon an investment basis."

HARMONY WATCHWORD NOW, SAYS MANSFIELD

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR DENIES THAT HE WILL OUST CHAIRMAN O'LEARY

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—"Harmony is the watchword now," said Frederick W. Mansfield yesterday.

The democratic candidate for governor said there was no truth whatever in the statement that he had demanded the resignation of Michael A. O'Leary, chairman of the democratic state committee, and intended himself to run his campaign for election. "O'Leary and I have always been good friends," said Mr. Mansfield. "Even if I wanted to get rid of him, it would be inconsistent for me, who has been talking against dictation in political matters, to try to dictate to the chairmanship of the state committee, the members of which are elected by the voters. We have no desire to get rid of him."

The candidate for governor, went away yesterday for a little rest, he will return on Sunday. He may undertake some informal campaigning next Saturday, but he will probably keep rather quiet until the convention has adopted a platform and laid down the lines on which the campaign will be run in Massachusetts this year. Many rumors about the strained relations between Mr. Mansfield and the democratic leaders who opposed him

NO RELIEF FROM INTENSE ITCHING

Tells of "Wonderful Cure" by Resinol

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—"I had eczema in the worst way for six months. A small pimple on my right wrist kept spreading until it was up to my elbow. It came out in spots and some places were like water blisters. The itching was intense and I had no relief whatever. My fingers were all covered with cracks and it pained me very badly. My hands and arms were all scales. The burning was so bad it felt as if I had been turned to a blister and the blister rubbed off. I tried everything I could hear about, including many prescriptions, but had no relief. As a last resort I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. The itching STOPPED AT ONCE. Before I had used Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap three days the redness had all gone. I could sleep nights—no itching or burning—and I felt like a new woman. People who knew me when I had this trouble were surprised at the wonderful cure." (Signed) Mrs. J. S. Walker, 97 Bartlett St., Charlestown.

before the primary were heard on the street yesterday, but none of them could be confirmed. Most of those gentlemen have already sent notes of congratulation among others, ex-Gov. Walsh yesterday expressed his good wishes and offered to help in every way possible.

Chairman O'Leary was as positive as Mr. Mansfield that there was no trouble between them.

"I've just made an appointment to have a talk this afternoon with the candidate for governor," said Mr. O'Leary yesterday, "and we shall discuss the coming campaign. I have also had a meeting with Gen. Cole; he and his friends will unite for the interests of the party, now that the nomination has been made."

LOWELL MAN IS HURT AT GROTON FAIR

At the Groton fair yesterday, A. G. Titus, of this city, the well known horseman, was thrown from the sulky in which he was driving his horse, Johnny Brown, when the sulky struck an automobile. The machine was entering the gateway to him grounds just as Titus was about to pass. Mr. Titus was thrown from his seat and into the enclosure, sustaining injuries to his back and shoulder. The accident occurred just at the finishing line and, in spite of the mishap, Johnny Brown crossed the tape a winner.

WRECK AT LAWRENCE; EXPRESS HITS FREIGHT

SOUTH LAWRENCE, Sept. 29.—The Portland express which left Boston at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Portland, Me., over the Boston & Maine railroad, crashed into a freight train which was backing on the eastbound main line tracks just west of the station here last night. Nobody was seriously hurt, although the passengers on the express, which was well filled, were badly shaken up.

Wilbur S. Shorey, of East Rochester, N. H., a real estate salesman, who was on the platform between two cars received injuries to his leg but no one else so far as could be learned, required medical assistance.

The front of the engine on the express was demolished and three flat cars loaded with steel rails were overturned, blocking traffic for about an hour.

The scene presented all the features of a great wreck and was viewed by thousands of operatives leaving the mills.

The shooting occurred when Wiggins tried to capture Rice, who had come to the island for food.

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN OPERATING IN TRAINS SWINDLE MEN AT STATE LINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A blackmailing scheme reported to be in operation on railroads crossing state boundaries, in which attractive women swindle male travelers with the aid of men confederates, is being investigated by special agents of the department of justice. It was disclosed here yesterday. Information of the swindle was sent anonymously to John C. Knox, assistant district attorney, who is in charge of the "Blackmail Syndicate" cases in New York and other cities.

The informant told Mr. Knox that while traveling recently from Portland, Ore., to St. Louis, he was nearly trapped by one of the women and afterward learned from a Pullman porter that the "bigger game" was being played by women traveling regularly on that line. Money is demanded from the victims when the train crosses from one state to another on account of threat of prosecution under the Mann act, it was said.

FINED FOR BUMPING AUTO
BOSTON, Sept. 29.—For the purpose of teaching a lesson to the drivers of teams who intentionally bump automobiles, Anthony Hatch, a Saugus farmer and a member of the over-seers of the poor, was fined $20 in the Charlestown police court yesterday by Judge Charles S. Sullivan. Hatch appeared from the fleec.

The case is also in the nature of a test and the first of its kind to be brought by the Automobile Legal Association. Hatch was charged with violation of the street traffic regulations of the city of Boston. The case is also in the nature of a test and the first of its kind to be brought by the Automobile Legal Association.

KEEPS HER CHILDREN IN PERFECT HEALTH

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Family Laxative for Many Years

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlyle, Ill., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell, Monticello, Ill., that she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years, and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the bowels in an easy, natural way, and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sicknesses to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, should have a place in every family medicine chest. It is pleasant to the taste and children like it, and take it readily, while it is equally effective for adults.

the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 435 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Lowell and the surrounding cities and towns to see "Some Baby," that rollicking comedy success, which is the offering of the Emerson Players at the Opera House and which is the biggest hit offered in Lowell in many years. Audiences have been very large and the Emerson Players are giving over this exceptional funny play, which comes to the Lowell Opera House direct from a year's run at the Fulton theatre in New York city.

"Some Baby" deals with the trials and tribulations of an old scientist who believes that he has discovered the elixir of youth. Just how successful his experiment proves makes this play the success that it is for around the main theme, the authors have woven a series of wonderful situations which provide laughs galore. As the old scientist, James T. Galloway is very good and in Ivan Miller and Inez Kagan as Phil and Sylvia, he has two splendid supports. James J. Hayden does a great piece of acting as the old general. Millard Vincent, Clara Rose Hubner, Gertrude Shirley, Gladys McLeod, David Enker, Ernest East and other members of the company do finely in their characters. The scenic production is of unusual beauty.

Sunday afternoon and night at the Opera House a big program of vaudeville and picture features will be offered with big acts and as many reels of the newest and best hits in pictures. "The American Trio of Singers and Instrumentalists" is one of the best acts in the vaudeville field today. As the old general, Millard Vincent, Clara Rose Hubner, Gertrude Shirley, Gladys McLeod, David Enker, Ernest East and other members of the company do finely in their characters. The scenic production is of unusual beauty.

Next week, by special arrangement with William A. Brady, the Emerson Players will present "Sinners," that great play which comes to Lowell from

Seven acts of engrossing interest and an absorbing picture make up the bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. Audiences have been very large and appreciative thus far during the week, and doubtless there will be a continued show of approval today and tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde give striking likenesses of George Washington and President Wilson. He does a lot of humorous work, too, keeping audiences intent upon him throughout the play. The Avollos, European xylophonists, will rouse any gathering mightily by their spirited rendition of well known numbers. The William Tell overture and the Avollos to march are among the best things they do. "The latter is decidedly fetching. Jim and Marion Hawkins made comedy of an unconventional sort, which brings forth a lot of laughter, and "In the Orchard," a musical comedy, is replete with comedy, pretty girls and music. White and White, dancing boys, and the Great Johnson, a mid-air contortionist, are very good, as is "The Tell Tale Envelope," the title of the 17th chapter of "Gloria's Romance." "Phone 28."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Once again Paulina comes to the limelight at the Merrimack Square theatre; this time it is in the dual role of twin sisters who have only their age in common, so diverse are their natures. The background of Miss Frederick's marvelous acting is the gripping five act play, "Ashes of Embers," which play will also be presented at the continuous performances given at this theatre today and tomorrow. Besides this play in which Miss Frederick multi-talentedly interprets the roles of a drudge and her sister, a conscienceless woman, "The Almighty Dollar" with Frances Nelson and E. K. Lincoln, will also be shown. This splendid program for the rest of the week will conclude with a comedy and the Burton Holmes Travel pictures.

Singh, a mongolian madman, whose dreams of conquering the white races are causing America horrors and sorrows. It cannot fail to impress. In "The Haunted House," the fifth episode, we see All Singh, murderous hirelings still working towards the great goal—a senator is killed, and Bronson is also disposed of. Bronson, senior, swears vengeance on the yellow devil, but All Singh is undisturbed. Margaret Gale and Florence Malone, two young women of exceptional talent and beauty are very good in the supporting cast—while each episode becomes more thrilling than the preceding one. Edwin Stevens as "All Singh" is all that the producers would desire. His wicked expressions of hate for the white race are cleverly drawn, while his very little move is consummate. Another fine attraction for the end of the week, is the fifth episode of "Liberty." Universal's wonder serial, a plea for Preparedness, starring Eddie Polo, Marie Walcamp and Jack Holt, who are holding audiences breathless with their wonderful hair-raising stunts in each episode. And many other fine pictures will complete one of the biggest programs ever shown in Lowell. Coming Sunday Capt. Williamson's submarine moving pictures, taken under sea.

OWL THEATRE
A photoplay brimful of absorbing situations, carefully unraveled by a cast of artists, produced in an atmosphere altogether apropos for the requirements of the story, a photoplay in which the night photography will prove a marvel to the senses, introducing an innovation to photoplays, a triangle story in which a person kisses herself on the screen, the first time such a feat is performed in motion pictures, such is a description of the latest World release "The Twin Triangle."

angly," the wonderful photoplay which will head the big Owl theatre bill today and tomorrow. Appearing in this new film in the stellar role, will be the famous magazine-cover girl, Jackie Saunders, the dainty little star whose blond top and winsome grace are known from coast to coast and appearing opposite to her will be the well-known powerful dramatic star, William Conklin. "The story of 'The Twin Triangle' deals with the life of a young gypsy girl. This girl is in reality the daughter of a wealthy American family, but was stolen by a band of Hungarians at the age of five and was brought up as one of their own. Deprived of the advantages of an education she finds herself at a disadvantage when she meets a 'city feller' and falls in love with him. However her feet have an education all their own and by her wonderful barefoot dancing soon wins his heart. The young man is at first mistaken with her but soon discards her owing to her rough speech and lack of refinement. How the later wins back her way into society by her dancing and how she again wins back the heart which was turned cold against her is the sweet, romantic story told in this new release. Other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl today and tomorrow.

WILL DEFEND HIS RECORD

It seems too bad in a sense that while so many tremendous questions of international importance are impending, the president of the United States must defend himself against partisan attacks, but the pity is that such attacks are made. As the republican party has no real issue Mr. Hughes has made empty criticism his stock in trade and has raised issues which President Wilson is now going to meet. It is announced that the speech of the chief executive to democratic clubs tomorrow is meant for the first political speech in a campaign sense, but many more are to follow. Henceforth, Mr. Hughes cannot assail the administration at will without being called to account by the president to whose office he aspires.

To offset the criticisms of the republican party and those of Candidate Hughes in particular, President Wilson need only stand squarely on his record and leave it to the American people to judge his policies and his great achievements fairly and without political prejudice. The republican press is well aware of the political poverty of that party and waits continually about the long program which the president has to his credit. And the length of the list which the president has to his credit is only too well emphasized by the scarcity of the accusations made by his host of accusers.

In his speeches to meet the issues raised by Mr. Hughes, President Wilson can tell of his driving out of Washington the invisible government which stood between the people and honest legislation; he can point to his defeat of the lobby; he can review his fight for a revision of the tariff in accordance with pre-election promises; he can well boast of the federal reserve law which has saved the nation from panic when all the world was disorganized; he can tell of his championing of the principles of preparedness when they were in danger of being lost through sectional fights and of the part he played in getting through congress the largest army and navy appropriations ever approved in this country; he can point to the republican platform which is only a feeble reflex of the things he has preached and worked for during the past four years; he can point to the democratic platform which takes a decisive stand on all public questions and which does not brush over vital things in a vague way that does not mean anything to those who look for a sincere declaration of principles.

But, above and beyond all, President Wilson can stand on his record in his dealing with the grave international problems of his administration. He has made his fight on straight Americanism and thrown out a challenge to the disloyal few who seek to intimidate the government and to force American legislation to aid a foreign power. He can truly claim that he has won through diplomacy greater concessions than any of the warring nations have yet won through force of arms, and that he is regarded throughout the world as the champion of the neutral nations in their controversies with all of the belligerents. He can point to his prompt and statesmanlike messages to the governments of the allies and to the central powers in proof of the fact that no unjust attack on American life or property has gone by without an American protest. Above all he can proudly boast that he has kept the nation out of the war—which many think the greatest calamity in the history of the world—and has preserved peace and prosperity in the midst of universal misery and desolation.

THE FOOD SITUATION

American economists, including Commissioner Hattigan of the bureau of weights and measures of New York, are issuing warnings to the people of this country to economize and lay in large stocks of some household commodities owing to the danger of real shortage and very higher prices later on. Already most good products have soared out of all reason and unfortunately the tendency is to go up rather than to come down. Petitions are out in many parts of the country seeking signatures to protests and it is said that there will be millions of signatures on such petitions when congress assembles next December.

The wheat situation is probably the most serious of all, though most of the trouble was preventable had those in control considered the needs of their own country first. The New York commissioner states that there is not going to be more than half enough wheat in this country over the winter to meet the demand. Contracts have already been signed for the sale to foreign purchasers of at least 300,000,000 bushels. Department of commerce reports, he says, show that we have but 270,000,000 of wheat left, though we ordinarily consume 600,000,000. There is a surplus left over from last year, but if the figures given by the authority are correct, there is sure to be shortage and suffering before the next crop is harvested. Mr. Hattigan fears that before next summer a 5-cent loaf may sell for 20 cents. If any such situation should confront us, there would be a speedy demand for government regulation of foods—and it may have to come to it if the war drags on. The growers and selling agents naturally want ready money and the highest prices and they will sell to the foreign customer if he pays more than the average American citizen. Yet, underneath all, the system is grossly wrong and there should be no expectation of food until it is certain that our own people should not suffer thereby. The government can act for conservation and can declare an embargo—and the people would be calling for radical measures before the time predicted by the New York commissioner.

POLAND SUFFERS MOST

The horrors of the war have become so commonplace that we no longer discuss them and when we read them in the papers they make but a passing impression. Yet, to read a recent report of the honorary executive secretary of Polish war victims, and to ponder its meaning, is to see mentally a picture of horror which staggers the imagination. We read that since the beginning of the war 14,000,000 Poles have perished; that three armies have been swept back and forth many times across that ancient land; that over 1,500,000 civilians have starved to death between the contending forces; that 20,000 towns have been entirely wiped out so that not a stone rests upon a stone and that all of the little children under 7 years of age have died of hunger. In this bare statement of fact is more of suffering and of pure unadulterated horror than all of the poets, dramatists and novelists of all time have conceived.

Yet, to the belligerents of both sides it is but a prosaic problem of a war which has brought misery to them all in some degree. The Jews, the Armenians, the smaller peoples in the Balkans have suffered untold hardships, and what of the suffering among the greater warring powers? Winter is coming on and there is but slight prospect of a cessation of hostilities. Soon again the soldiers shall be forced to fight in the snow-filled trenches where the dead may lie heaped for days without burial. Loved ones shall watch the hours drag by, fearing the worst from the front and so the earth spins on carrying its load of sorrow, while we in this land scarcely realize our rare blessedness.

NO TRUST ISSUE

There is no trust issue in the present presidential campaign and not even Roosevelt, the great trust buster, is saying anything about it. Only a few years ago there was no campaign, whether state or national, that did not give special attention to this phase of congressional activity. Down to the present administration the trust issue figured before and after elections but it remained for President Wilson to put an end to it—temporarily at least. He did this by refraining from any suspicious co-operation with the heads of big business and by holding conferences with trust magnates only when the public knew the business discussed. He also kept campaign funds free from the taint of trust contributions and at the same time avoided the persecutions of "bad trusts" that marked the administrations of some of his predecessors. From first to last he gave business to understand that they who keep the law have nothing to fear from the government and he strove to make the anti-trust laws more equitable and practical. Thanks to the sensible policy of President Wilson the trust question is no longer regarded in this country as a burning one.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE SAFE, RELIABLE WAY

People who are overburdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, here is a test worth trying. Spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from A. W. Brown's Oil of Kerein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment until you are down to normal.

Oil of Kerein is absolutely harmless. It is pleasant to take, and helps digestion. Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight. Footstretches become flexible, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial.

How will it be should Mr. Hughes and the republican party get back into power?

MISQUOTING A SPEAKER

Judge Thomas P. Riley of Malden, democratic nominee for lieutenant-governor, said in one of his principal political speeches just before the close of the primary campaign: "Mansfield knows that if nominated he cannot hope to make even a respectable showing without the organization."—Courier-Citizen.

We listened very attentively to Judge Riley's address and are very positive that he did not make that statement. He did say that the state organization favored Gen. Cole as more likely to make a successful fight against McCall than could Mr. Mansfield; but at no time did he intimate that the organization would fail to support Mr. Mansfield if nominated. Judge Riley is too sensible and too good a democrat to say anything of the kind. Moreover he paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Mansfield saying that the latter is "his warm personal friend with whom he campaigned, traveled, ate and slept, a brilliant man and a good democrat, but still he felt that Gen. Cole would draw more from the independent vote and the opposition to McCall than could Mr. Mansfield."

THE FRIVOLOUS PUPIL

The president of the Chicago board of education runs the risk of being called a fossil and an old fogey out of touch with the times for some recent pronouncements. Referring to some timely school problems in his city he scored the modern practice of surrounding school life with luxury and the social atmosphere. Speaking of a certain high school, he said "You should see it on a rainy day. At the closing time the automobiles are lined up there as if it were a fashionable reception with liveried chauffeurs to take the wrist watch boys home. The pupils of that school think of society only. They live for their automobiles, their silk stockings, their parties and balls, for dancing and pleasure." There seems to be an element of exaggeration in this statement, but the things mentioned are not the function of a school, and the old sensible rule was to leave the society frivolities until school days were over.

"BONEHEAD VOTERS"

The Political Straw man of the Courier-Citizen apropos of the support given James G. Harris over Comptroller Mulligan remarks:

Now what was the explanation? Simply that the average republican voter is a bonehead when it comes to voting for anybody beyond his immediate neighborhood. For two years

Mathematics in War

The wounded Tommy was relating his experiences to a circle of friends. "Yes," he cried, "I was in a bit of a hole once. There were two German snipers at me, and I'd only one bullet left. They were a good bit apart, too, so I couldn't work round to get them in line. And if I shot at one the other would get me sure. What did I do? Well, my knowledge of mathematics saved me. I got four shots, worked out a few calculations and angles on a scrap of paper, I stuck up my bayonet, and the bullet went right clean in halves, and one hit killed the German on the right and the other bit blotted out the blighter on the left. Another time I was—

But his audience had fled.

Hen Hatched Woodpeckers

If you'd ask Theodore Roosevelt he'd probably proclaim Ira Cordery, a farmer near Federalburg, Ill., a nature faker, but Ira's neighbors assert a story he tells about a hen hatching out of chickens and two woodpeckers in one nest is true. The hen was missing for some time, stealing her nest out. When found she was mothering the chickens and birds, the little woodpeckers seemed content to let the hen scratch worms for them. The hen pays just as much attention to the birds as she does to the chickens. It is supposed the woodpecker eggs were laid in the nest while the hen was off in search of food.

Repairs Geese Wings

An unique surgical operation has been successfully performed at Marshfield by the state game warden, Lyndon Sherman. A better known as "Sandy," type prize geese were returned to him from the Taunton fair each with a broken wing. The undaunted "Sandy" with skill and patience has set the broken wings and the geese are now sound again. Sandy has also astonished the world this year by raising 600 wild ducks in brooders and out of 117 quail hatched in incubators, has raised 97. The quail, the property of the state, will be released to fly at will and multiply throughout the Bay state.

Hours for Voting

Down Salem way the same semi-idiotic practice of keeping the polls open until an unreasonable hour at primaries obtains as in Lowell and here is what the "Man About Town" in The Salem News has to say about it:

I wonder how much longer the powers that be will insist on having the caucuses kept open until the late evening, instead of opening, as do the regular elections, at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. What with inexperienced counts in some of the wards, coupled with a large vote, oftentimes, it is long after midnight before the results are known. All this could be avoided by having the polls open at 10 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. and the regular elections, as prevail at the regular elections. People have to get around between 5 a. m. and 4 p. m. on election days, and can just as well do so at the primaries.

Fit the Command

Alkali Ike is dead. He died with his boots on, as befitted a man of his brave and strenuous character. It happened in a little silver mining town in Nevada. Since his arrival, several weeks before the residents had been on tenterhooks. No one knew what he would do next. His stunts were as varied as they sometimes were deadly—and life insurance was at a premium. The stories of his exploits had been so prevalent that they should all carry their guns where they were handiest.

Alkali Ike decided that as nothing new had been done in the town for 21 hours, it was up to him. So he went to the Metropolitan hotel and went up to a room on the second (top) floor. Going to the window he stuck his head out and shouted:

"Fire!"

And everybody did.—Kansas City Star.

If We Only Knew

If we knew the cares and trials, knew the efforts all in vain, and the bitter disappointment, understood the loss and gain—would the grim eternal roughness seem—I wonder—just the same, should we hurry on the way we under, should we pity where we blame?

Ah! We judge each other harshly, knowing not the hidden forces—knowing not the fount of action is less turbid at its source; seeing not amid the evil all the golden values and good, and we love each other better if we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives that surround each other's lives, see the naked heart and spirit, know what spur the action gives, often we would find it better to judge all actions good; we should love each other better if we only understood.

Szechenyi, constructed the famous Szechenyi road in 1831-33, the Kazan Defile of the Danube had been impassable on either bank of the river for all the centuries which stretched between the destruction of Trajan's remarkable roadway, built in 103 A. D. and modern times.

"At Semlin, a few miles above Belgrade, the Danube is more than 1700 yards wide, with a depth of 40 feet, but at the Kazan Defile its waters are restricted to a width of less than 180 yards, and have a depth in some places of 230 feet. The rapids of the river begin a short distance above the defile and rush over six great ledges of rock, which extend from the right or Serbian bank of the river. At points where the Roman engineers encountered the seemingly insuperable obstacle of perpendicular walls of rock, which could not be pierced as blasting powder was unknown, there are visible the holes bored in the stone from which projected the wooden beams that supported the covered galleries hanging to the face of the cliffs. At the end of the defile the time-worn rocks still bear the famous "Tabula Trajana," now hardly legible. The inscription is supposed to commemorate Trajan's first campaign against the Dacians.

"On the left or Hungarian bank of the river, high above the Szechenyi road, is a narrow hole in the face of the Szechenyi mountain, pointed out to tourists as the entrance to Venera's Cavern, which derives its name from the Leonidas-like Austrian general who with 400 soldiers held at bay a vastly superior Turkish force for three months in 1692. Twenty-six years later it was again held by the Austrians under a Major Stein. The cavern is sufficiently large to garrison 600 men, and there are evidences that it was used during the Roman occupation of this region.

"Scientifically the Kazan Defile suggests some of the wildest and most impressive gorges to be found in the Canadian Rockies. Bare rocks from time to time rise suddenly from deep water, while on both sides there is a succession of precipitous hills, some free of vegetation and others clad with forests of beech, walnut and oak. Through this narrow gorge have flowed back and forth for hundreds of years the tides of Christian and Mohammedan civilization. For ages it has been one of the great channels of communication between the west and the east."

REICHSTAG HEAD SAYS WAR REACHES CLIMAX

BERLIN, Sept. 28, by wireless to Sayville, Sept. 29.—The following semi-official account of today's session of the reichstag was given out by the Overseas News agency:

The reichstag opened this afternoon. The galleries were crowded and the foreign diplomats who are now in Berlin were present, virtually without exception. President Kaempfer in his introductory speech stated that the war, in its economic and political as well as military aspects, had now reached a climax. On all fronts there was a violent struggle for a decision. Germany's position, the president said, was satisfactory in every respect. He mentioned the arrival of the merchant submarines Deutschland and Bremen in the United States. (A news despatch to Berlin to the effect that a tug had gone out from New London, Conn., presumably to meet the Bremen, gave rise to the erroneous report, generally accepted in Germany, that the Bremen had reached the United States.) The president read telegrams exchanged with the emperor on the occasion of the beginning of the present war of the war and with the president of the Hungarian parliament at the time of the fall of the Rumanian fortress of Turtukai. The president's speech was much applauded.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech was listened to with undivided attention.

The chancellor alluded to the intrigues of Rumania and that country's declaration of war, saying: "Our relations with Rumania before the war were based on the treaty of alliance first concluded between Austria-Hungary and Rumania, and then enlarged by the accession of Germany and Italy. The contracting parties engaged under the treaty to assist each other in case of unprovoked attack by a third party."

"When the war broke out King Carol with all his energy stood up for the idea that Rumania owed to the central powers thirty years of political security and wonderful economic development, and therefore Rumania must support the central powers, not only on account of the provisions of the treaty but also for the sake of the country's honor. The late king regarded as sophistry the objection that Rumania had not been informed in regard to the Austro-Hungarian demarche in regard to Serbia and had not been consulted about it.

"But when the deciding session of the crown council was held the aged king did not succeed as against the government whose prime minister, notwithstanding treaty obligations, sympathized with the entente powers. A short time later the king died in consequence of the emotions caused by realization that Rumania was a traitor to her allies."

"The Rumanian policy was now guided by Premier Bratiano who attempted to gain riches without making great sacrifices at the expense of the party suffering defeat in the war. The main point was to discover in time which party was about to win final victory, in order not to be too late. Nevertheless during the first year of the war, probably after the fall of Lemberg, Premier Bratiano, leaving his sovereign in ignorance, concluded a treaty of neutrality with Russia. After the fall of Przemysl he thought the time had come to reach an understanding in regard to the entente powers, but the negotiations failed. Russia desired to increase her own vast territory by taking Bukowina, while Rumania not only wished this same Bukowina but also all Hungarian territory as far as the Theiss."

"The chancellor added that in spite of this failure Rumania's policy of neutrality favored the entente more and more. He said Rumania attempted to collaborate with the British efforts to establish a blockade of Germany, withholding grain purchased by Germany until the grain was obtained by means of energetic pressure. The premier again hesitated when the central powers, initiating the offensive in Galicia in the spring of last year, broke through the Russian line at Gorlice and was in doubt whether he had placed his wager on the right horse. Negotiations with the entente were almost suspended."

"The Russian offensive this spring," the chancellor continued, "made Premier Bratiano believe he saw the breaking down of the central powers. Accordingly, he decided to obtain a share when the robbery of the dead body began. Furthermore, the entente powers had a freer hand in conducting negotiations than others. Serbia had been conquered, and the protectors of small, feeble states were no longer obliged to show any consideration for Serbia's former wishes in regard to annexation of territory. They could be more liberal toward Rumania."

"In the middle of August Bratiano came to terms with our enemies. He reserved for himself, however, the decision as to the time actual hostilities were to be inaugurated and attempted to make it dependent on military conditions. The king of Rumania up to that time had repeatedly given the most binding assurances that under all circumstances he would remain neutral. Finally the Rumanian minister in Berlin, on the order of the king, gave to me a formal declaration that the king desired to maintain Rumania's neutrality and that the government was in a position to do so. Premier Bratiano declared to the German minister at Bucharest, Baron von Bunsche-Roddenhausen, that he fully endorsed the declaration of the king. However, we were not deceived. We were informed continuously in regard to Bratiano's negotiations during August and constantly directed the king's attention to the secret intrigues of his prime minister. The king declared several times that Bratiano was (not) bound or binding himself to the entente. As late as three days before the declaration of war the king said to our minister that he knew the overwhelming majority of the Rumanian nation did not desire war. To an intimate friend the king declared on the first day in the most categorical fashion that he would not sign an order for mobilization."

"As late as Aug. 28 the entente powers had not decided at what moment Rumania ought to declare war. We knew this from a most reliable source. The Rumanian army still lacked preparedness, and particularly lacked munitions as was proved later, at the time of the fall of Turtukai and Silestria.

"Then events were precipitated. From information which may be considered reliable it appears that Russia suddenly presented an ultimatum that she would cross the unprotected Rumanian frontier if Rumania did not begin war before Aug. 28. Whether this ultimatum was a piece of comedy prearranged with Bratiano, in order to influence the hesitating king, I leave undecided, but the die was cast."

PRIME MINISTER OF NEW-FOUNDLAND IN BOSTON ON WAY HOME FROM FRONT

He was most optimistic regarding the outcome of the war and said that nothing less than a complete victory over the central powers would satisfy the allies. "In his opinion," said Morris, "the 'pulling down of the Hohenzollern house, and the division of Germany into the kingdoms which existed previous to the war of 1870, the complete restoration of Belgium, Serbia and France along with an indemnity for damages inflicted."

CAR BURNED

gnishing the fire, thereby saving the other freight cars on the tracks and their contents valued at several thousand dollars.

How the fire started is not known, but it is believed it was through the overheating of an axle box. The blaze was discovered shortly before 2 o'clock and an alarm from box 821 was rung in. The members of the local department rushed to the scene but were handicapped inasmuch as the fire was at the beachery end of the bridge and the bridge was covered with freight cars of all descriptions. The Boston & Maine railroad was notified and two engines were rushed to the scene, going around through Waukegan in order to get at the long freight train on the Wiggville end. Seventy-five or more cars which constituted a part of the train were pulled on a side track a few miles above the scene of the fire and it was over an hour after the alarm was rung in that the firemen were able to get at the blaze and with considerable difficulty at that.

Several times of hose were laid and the men carried the hose over the bridge which is in the form of a wooden trestle. When they reached the burning car several explosions were heard and not knowing what was in the car and also believing the contents were ammunition, they decided to fight the flames at a distance. The roof and sides of the box car were soon burned and then there remained exposed a mass of chemical preparation, which burned rapidly, shooting blue and yellow flames into the air. The stuff melted fast and flowed down the embankment into the river.

A large gas coal car which remained coupled to the train of soda car was soon ablaze and the heat was intense. Volumes of water were poured on the flames, but the efforts of the firemen seemed fruitless for the water did not reach the fire, and they took measurements to rebuild at once the gutted part of the bridge. According to the engineers of the company it will be but a few days before traffic on this part of the road is resumed. In the meantime the trains will be shifted over the bridge extending next to the junction of Lawrence and Billerica streets.

This forenoon engineers of the Boston & Maine railroad were sent to the scene of the fire, and they took measurements to rebuild at once the gutted part of the bridge. According to the engineers of the company it will be but a few days before traffic on this part of the road is resumed. In the meantime the trains will be shifted over the bridge extending next to the junction of Lawrence and Billerica streets.

Bridge Caught Fire

The beachery end of the bridge caught fire and nothing could be done with the burning train of soda the firemen directed their efforts to the bridge and finally succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

The heat was so intense that the large rails underneath the cars were twisted and torn from the ties. Of the box car which contained the chemicals there remains but a few bars of twisted steel and a heap of steel axles and wheels crumpled up in a pile. The coal car, which was partly on the bridge was badly burned and is a total wreck.

This forenoon engineers of the Boston & Maine railroad were sent to the scene of the fire, and they took measurements to rebuild at once the gutted part of the bridge. According to the engineers of the company it will be but a few days before traffic on this part of the road is resumed. In the meantime the trains will be shifted over the bridge extending next to the junction of Lawrence and Billerica streets.

FUTILE ATTEMPT MADE TO STOP EXPRESS

WESTERLY, R. L., Sept. 28.—Henry S. McManus of Providence, signal man at the New York, New Haven & Hartford station at Bradford on the night of April 17 when the Gilt Edge express crashed into a local train killing five persons and injuring thirty others, told in court today he had been sworn a red lantern from the tower, told in a futile attempt to stop the express. He was a witness for the prosecution in the trial of Charles H. Mansfield of New Haven, engineer of the express, who is charged with manslaughter.

McManus insisted that the signals were properly set against the express. "The distant signal was at 'caution' and the others showed 'danger,'" he testified. "The first I knew of the Gilt Edge coming was when McManus, the train despatcher, cried, '25 is on the board.' At that time I had entered the block house and I had entered the Gilt Edge was coming at the first home signal. It was then at its usual speed, 50 miles an hour. I grabbed a red lantern, rushed to the window, and swung it in front of the express. I was still swinging it when the tower window was closed. It was then that the tower window was just over the scene of the wreck.

Efforts of the prosecution to introduce testimony as to the condition of the signals and the levers controlling them after the wreck were checked by counsel for Mansfield, who testified that the point at issue was the condition of signals prior to and at the time of the wreck. The prosecution then announced it would place on the stand every man who attended the signals from the time the trains came together until the official investigation was begun two days later.

OFFICIALS WITHHOLD NAME TO SAVE YOUNG BRIDE FROM EM-BARASSMENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—To save a young bride from embarrassment, federal officials today promised to withhold the name of the wealthy Iowa merchant recently fleeced out of $10,000 by blackmailers and to delay arrests in the case until after Oct. 20, which is to be the wedding day of the merchant's daughter. Warrants for the arrest of two young women and a Chicago attorney charged with blackmailing the merchant and using the Mann act as a club have been issued.

The merchant, a widower, in his plea to U. S. Magistrate of the department of justice, said he feared exposure now would wreck his daughter's happiness and might even cause the wedding plans to be cancelled.

FEDERAL INQUIRY INTO THE PRICE OF MILK

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Federal inquiry into the situation which has resulted in an increase in the price of milk in this state, effective Oct. 1 was marked today by a conference of milk contractors and producers called by United States District Attorney George W. Anderson.

The New England Milk Producers' association which recently recommended to farmers that they demand increased rates for their milk, the Worcester County Milk Producers' association, and some of the chief contractors, whose decision not to meet the demands of the producers threatens to cause a shortage of milk in this market, were represented. Assistant Attorney General Seagrave took part in the conference as a representative of the commonwealth.

The district attorney stated that the conference "discussed the probable effect of the new railroad tariff, abolishing the leased car system, and added that he had 'made it clear that the government would watch carefully all new developments, and was determined that there should be a fair and open field in Massachusetts for the production, distribution and sale of milk.'

OFFICIAL RETURNS OF THE MAINE ELECTION

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 28.—The tabulation of the official returns of the state election, completed by the governor and council today, shows that the socialist retain their places on the official ballot by casting 50 more than 1 per cent of the total vote. They polled 1538 votes for Frank H. Maxfield of Portland, their candidate for governor.

Linus Seely of Portland, the prohibition candidate for that office, had only 242 votes, and it will be necessary for his party to get on the ballot for the next election by petition, as was done last year.

Carl E. Milliken, republican, in defeating Gov. Oakley C. Curtis, carried every county, except Androscoggin and Knox, and polled the largest vote ever cast for a gubernatorial candidate in this state, except for Lewisell Pow-ers, elected by the republicans in 1896. The vote was 51,317 to 67,715.

Frederick Hale, republican candidate for the United States senate for the long term, polled 75,441 against 63,484 for Senator Charles F. Johnson. Powers in the senate had 51,319 votes or two more than Gov.-elect Milliken, defeating Prof. Kenneth C. M. Sills, the democratic candidate, whose vote was 65,204.

Roy L. Wardwell, the republican nominee for state auditor, ran 65,204 against 51,317, receiving $1,553, against $7,908 for State Auditor J. Ed-ward Sullivan.

The vote for republican and democratic candidates, respectively, for congressmen, was as follows:

First district, Louis B. Goodell, 20,357; Lamont A. Stevens, 16,807; second district, Wallace H. White, Jr., 12,223; Daniel J. McGillicuddy, 18,701; third district, John A. Peters, 23,656; John E. Barker, 20,002; fourth district, Ira G. Hersey, 17,647; Leonard A. Plenge, 12,953.

The legislative act limiting the hours of labor of women and children in mechanical, manufacturing and mercantile establishments to 64 hours a week, was carried, 95,591 to 40,252. The act to provide for state and county aid in the construction of highway bridges was carried, 96,077 to 14,138.

With the revolutionary movement in Greece gaining converts under the leadership of ex-Premier Eleutherios Venizelos and the guns of the allied warships still threatening Piraeus, Greece, the port of Athens, which they entered several weeks ago to advise the king in granting more concessions to the islanders to him has been generally admitted. Another dispatch from Athens said that of the famous Cretan bodyguard of the king, eighty strong, sixty-nine had left the organi-

Saloniki, the point at which the revolution broke out several weeks ago, is the headquarters of the committee for national defense, this revolutionary committee, which it has been reported, is in complete control of all unoccupied Greek Macedonia. In Crete, dispatches say, 30,000 revolutionists are under arms and control the entire island, having seized the government buildings at Candia and all the seaport towns.

At sea by the Greek merchant steamship Hesperia on his way to Crete and thence to Saloniki to head the revolution, it has been reported, in Crete the revolutionists are in complete control. Venizelos himself is a Cretan, and the personal loyalty of the islanders to him has been generally admitted. FREIGHT RATE INCREASES ARE SUSPENDED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Tariffs of railroads in the middle west and east proposing increases of seven and eight cents per hundred pounds on iron and steel articles from Chicago, Pittsburg and other points to the Atlantic seaboard and to Gulf ports for export, were suspended today by the Interstate Commerce commission until Jan. 23, pending investigation.

BROOKLINE MAN ENDS HIS LIFE BY SHOOTING

FRANK MARSHALL, RESTAURANT PROPRIETOR IN BOSTON FOR 25 YEARS, A SUICIDE

BROOKLINE, Sept. 29.—The suicide by shooting of Frank Marshall, a restaurant proprietor in the market district of Boston for 25 years, at his home here last night, became known today. A son, Carl Marshall, said his father had been despondent recently and killed himself after complaining of illness.

This statement cleared up a mystery which the police of this town had been endeavoring to solve. A taxicab driver reported that a passenger who alighted at the Marshall home yesterday had fired two shots while riding in the cab, and had attempted to fire again when entering the house. Officials were unable to get any information in the matter last night.

IN POLICE COURT

Few Offenders in Judge Enright's Court—Man Pleads Guilty to Larceny From Stepmother

There were but few offenders in police court today and Judge Enright disposed of their cases in brief time. Michael Fitzwilliams was arraigned on a charge of larceny from his stepmother, saying he had but one glass of blackberry brandy and that was not enough to get a child drunk. He said he took the liquor because he was sick. Sgt. Ryan and a patrolman testified that Fitzwilliams was staggering drunk and boisterous. The court found him guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $5.

Margaret Carson and Fred Bernard pleaded guilty to a statutory offense. The woman was fined $15 and the man $50.

Charles George for driving his wagon without a light in the rear was fined $2. He admitted the guilt but for excuse that he did not know the law.

Frank O. Ball was found guilty of drunkenness and neglect to provide proper support for his wife and children and was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in the house of correction with the understanding that he would keep sober and provide for his family.

William P. Regan admitted his guilt to a complaint charging him with the larceny of $21.77 from his stepmother, Mrs. Annie Regan. The wife testified that she had given him the money for a Christmas gift. He returned a couple of weeks ago and was apprehended yesterday. Inasmuch as he promised to keep away from the home of his stepmother the court imposed a suspended sentence of 6 months to the house of correction.

WELL KNOWN MINSTRELS

The B. C. McGuire Co. leave this city on Friday, Oct. 6, to begin an extensive tour through New England and the middle western states. As it is their yearly custom to run a sort of farewell party the night before their departure, they have engaged the Associated hall for Thursday evening, October 5, and it is their intention to give the dancing public of this city a real treat and the best of entertainment. The music to be given for dancing will be the talk of the town. They have procured the finest orchestra in the city, headed by the Italian musician, Victor Emanuel Bernadelli. This orchestra is composed of the best musicians ever brought together under one head.

The class of the entertainment this year will be a minstrel show as it will be reproduced according to their ideas in the year 1920. It will be one continuous whirlwind of melody and song. There will be 25 vocalists, including soloists, character men and real dancers. The entertainment will be first-class in every respect and the amount of real entertainment, the best of music and an evening of dancing for the price of admission you will be aware of the fact that you are receiving full value for your money.

The parties held by the company in the past have been wonderfully successful and Associate hall when engaged by them is usually crowded to the door. When you consider the amount of real entertainment, the best of music and an evening of dancing for the price of admission you will be aware of the fact that you are receiving full value for your money. The singers will be headed by Mr. Edward Nicholson and Mr. Francis McGuire. Mr. Nicholson has just closed a successful season at Bedford Road, one of the largest cabarets on the Coney Island boulevard, and he is bringing with him 15 of the best entertainers who have been singing at this cabaret all season. Mr. Francis McGuire is a tenor singer who has played many of the popular songs of the past few years at the Quincey house in Boston and who has just finished a successful engagement of 20 weeks with "Kin-Klad-Killies." Mr. McGuire has earned round and round of applause with his impersonations of Harry Lauder.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The quarterly meeting of Spindle City Lodge, 33, I. O. of A., was held last evening in Post 120 hall and was well attended. The annual convention of the order will be held in Ware, Oct. 2 and 3, and much business in regard to the convention was transacted. Several applications for membership were voted on. After the business session, the members enjoyed a social hour. The local delegates to the convention are Mrs. Andrews, Elizabeth Devine and Supreme President Mrs. Clara McPhail.

MAYOR WILL ASK

that unless the services of the boys are really needed they should not be deprived of the opportunity to share in the benefits of the country's honor at the present time. Whenever the call has come, His Honor states, the city of Lowell has been among the first to respond, and hence in asking that the Lowell company be sent home it cannot be claimed that the request is born of selfishness or of a desire to protect their patriotic duty. In the Civil war, Lowell soldiers of the Sixth were among the first to shed their blood, while in the Spanish-American war, Lowell soldiers of the Sixth were among the first to enter Porto Rico, and in the World War, Lowell soldiers of the Sixth were among the first to enter the trenches in Cuba. When the Merimack went down, a Lowell sailor was among the volunteer crew. When the Ninth went to the border recently the Lowell members of the Sixth were genuinely disappointed because they too, and not in addition to their service to their country, and if they were needed at the present time they would be on the way immediately after the call. "Lowell's willingness and readiness to defend the country's honor," said Mayor O'Donnell, "is a part of our country's history. We are ready to pay any price and forth our full quota when needed, but now as there does not appear to be any great need for our soldiers at the border, I believe that they should be permitted to return home where they may have an opportunity to participate in the benefits of unusual industrial conditions, which may not last forever."

When the men first went away a number of families were left without means of support and were aided immediately by the relief committee. Other families had sufficient funds to keep them supplied until the committee had been organized to save their country, and if they were needed at the present time they would be on the way immediately after the call. TO RESUME CONFERENCES WITH NEWSPAPERMEN

PRESIDENT WILSON REVERTS TO FEATURE OF FIRST TWO YEARS OF HIS ADMINISTRATION

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 29.—President Wilson today arranged to resume conferences with newspapermen which were a feature of the first two years of his administration. Through this medium he is expected to discuss political subjects freely and expound them for the country. The president had no political engagements today, but spent several hours reading letters and telegrams from democratic leaders in different states and attending to public business. Tomorrow he will review the Fourth New Jersey regiment at Fort Dix, N. J., and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon will address members of young men's democratic clubs from New York.

ALLIES GAIN

have won north of Thiepval were heavily shelled. Our bombing parties were active in the neighborhood of the Schwaben redoubt and the Heugnen trench, parts of which are still held by the enemy.

A strong defended farm 500 yards southeast of Le Sars was captured by our troops early this morning. "North of Trepas (two miles south of Bettincourt) and southeast of Baupume our aeroplanes observed a huge explosion as if a large ammunition dump had blown up. The smoke ascended 9000 feet."

GREEK WARSHIP HYDRA TAKEN BY REVOLUTIONARIES—GREAT EXCITEMENT

PIRABUS, Sept. 27, via London, Sept. 29.—The defection to the revolutionists of the Greek warship Hydra in the small hours of this morning, has caused great excitement in this Greek port. The Hydra, anchored under the guns of the arsenal last night, was suddenly boarded at 3 o'clock this morning by a party of men in civilian dress. The loyalist officer, second in command, was aroused from his bunk and with pistols at his head was forced with other loyalist officers to embark in a row boat. The commander, being a Venizelist, readily surrendered to the boarders. Two tugs were attached by tow ropes to the ship and as noiselessly as possible she slipped her anchor chains and was drawn by the tugs from the company of the other Greek men of war. The tugs towed her to Salamis Bay where the allied warships are stationed. The minister of marine stated today to the Associated Press representative that he regretted the incident, as while the perpetrators of it are unknown, owing to their attire, it was impossible to still the suspicion that they were not all of them Greeks. "It is more to be regretted," added the minister "as it tends to lessen the prestige of the government at a moment when it needs all possible credit and unity to accomplish the difficult task before it."

Despatches from Athens on Sept. 27 reported that the warship Hydra had joined the allied fleet.

SAYS ALLIES CANNOT BREAK THROUGH GERMAN LINES ON SOMME

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The allies cannot break through the German lines on the Somme, Chancellor von Beth-mann-Hollweg told the reichstag yesterday, according to an account of his speech cabled to Reuters by way of Amsterdam. The German prime minister made a similar statement in regard to the eastern front.

"The English and French, it is true," he said, "have achieved advantages. Our first lines have been pressed back some kilometers and we have also to deplore heavy losses in men and material. That was inevitable in an offensive on such a mighty scale. But what our enemies hoped to accomplish on a grand scale, and roll up our positions—has not been attained. The battle of the Somme will cost further sacrifices. Still another trench and another village may be lost but they will not get through."

In regard to the eastern front, where the chancellor said, the Russians had renewed their offensive with heavy attacks, he predicted the same result.

Referring to Rumania the chancellor said the old king of Rumania had died "as the result of mental excitement caused by the consciousness that Rumania had betrayed her allies." The speaker said the entente confidently hoped that Rumania's entrance into the war would bring in its trail the accession of Turkey and Bulgaria. But Turkey and Bulgaria were not Rumania and Italy," he concluded.

SAYS GERMAN WAR WRITERS ADMIT THE LOSS OF COMBLES

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam quotes German war correspondents as admitting the German loss of Combes. The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the defenders, a regiment strong, escaped to the German lines during the night despite the fact that they were surrounded by the Anglo-French forces. Herr Wegener in the Cologne Gazette says that Thiepval was voluntarily evacuated.

AUSTRIAN AMBASSADOR TO UNITED STATES

REPORT THAT COUNT ALBERT APPONYI IS A RECEPTIVE CANDIDATE

COUNT APPONYI

morning at 9 o'clock from his late home, 10 New street and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, many being present from Worcester, Wakefield and Lawrence. The long funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9:45 o'clock a high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan. Among the many floral offerings were: Large pines inscribed "Loving and true from the family and places from Nora and John Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. McMenamin, Mrs. Berry and family of Worcester, Mrs. James Chambers of Wakefield, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Danbar, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Foley, printing and bookbinding, U. S. Cartridge Co., Lowell Bleachery, Local Nest of Owls and spiritual offerings from the following: Miss Lina Enright, Michael J. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carro, Mrs. Rose McHugh, Annie Mahoney and Mary Collins, Mrs. Catherine and Mrs. Margaret Moore. The bearers were six nephews of the deceased, namely George, Gilbert, Charles, William, Stephen and Chester Berry, of Worcester. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the final prayers were read by Rev. F. Heffernan. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons in charge.

MENIFFE—The funeral of the late Thomas Meniffe took place this morning at 8 o'clock from the home of his niece, Mrs. Katherine Wright, 50 Union street and was largely attended. Friends and relatives were present from Worcester, Nashua and Providence. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Patrick Crayton, celebrant. Rev. W. George Mellin, deacon and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan sub-deacon. Among the floral offerings were a large pine inscribed "Our dear friend" from the family and spiritual bouquets from Mrs. H. McGreevey, Margaret McGreevey and Mary Curtis, John McGulir, Thomas McGulir, John McPadden, Patrick Fitzgibbon and James Gallagher. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the final prayers were read by Rev. F. Crayton. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons had charge of the arrangements.

NOT GUILTY OF SHOOTING MACK
BOSTON, Sept. 29.—John Flinnerty was found not guilty yesterday afternoon by the Suffolk county jury, which heard the evidence brought against him by the government in the charge of having fired the shots which severely wounded Edward McManus, more familiarly known among the sporting fraternity as "Eddie Mack." The latter was in attendance at a ball game last June at the Braves field when he was shot several times, being wounded in the groin.
The jury was out about two hours.

WERNER HORN APPEALS
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Werner Horn, under indictment in connection with the explosion which damaged the International bridge at Vaneboro, Me., last year, appeared to the supreme court yesterday asking that the lower court ruling denying him a writ of habeas corpus be set aside. He contends that as a German officer he could not be prosecuted for carrying out "an act of war" against British property. This indictment was brought under the law prohibiting interstate transportation of explosives on passenger trains.

BAY STATE MEN STAY ON DUTY AT BORDER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 29.—The Massachusetts infantry and cavalry remain on duty on the border. This was announced in general orders from the war department made public by General Funston last night. The field artillery only is included in the 10,000 men to be relieved of duty by new state troops. The list of troops that will go home is as follows:

Second Maine Infantry, at Laredo; one regiment New York field artillery and First New York ambulance company, both in the Brownsville district; Rhode Island battery, at El Paso; First battalion, First Massachusetts field artillery, and Second Massachusetts field artillery, both of El Paso; First Pennsylvania field artillery, at El Paso; First Illinois field artillery; Wisconsin battery and First Wisconsin field hospital, at San Antonio; First Connecticut Infantry, at Nogales; First Montana Infantry, First Squadron New Jersey cavalry, and First battalion New Jersey field artillery, all at Douglas; battalion of infantry from District of Columbia, at Naco; and First squadron Utah cavalry, at Nogales.

Movements will not begin, it was announced, until the incoming troops have arrived. The rolling stock used in bringing them to the border will be utilized for the return trips of the regiments ordered back to their respective states.

MILITIA IN FULL RANKS

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—When the Massachusetts militia units at the border are mustered out of the United States service upon their return, they will be held at or near their present war strength for some time, if not permanently, according to Adjutant-General Pearson. He thinks the fallacy of peace strength was amply demonstrated when the regiments went to the border with practically two-thirds of the men.

Any reductions will be made gradually, but none of the company units will be allowed to drop below 100.

SEEKS STABLING FACILITIES

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—A report reached the office of Adj. Gen. Pearson yesterday that the federal government would relieve the shortage of horses which has proven embarrassing to the state troops for a number of years, by allowing the force now on the Mexican order to take their mounts home with them provided suitable quarters could be provided by the state. Gen. Pearson at once set to work to find stabling facilities. The report stated that the federal government would also make provision for feeding and caring for the horses. It was pointed out at the adjutant general's office that such a step not only would mean a marked increase in efficiency but in the end would prove a real economy, as the state each year spends thousands of dollars for hiring horses for the annual maneuvers.

THE LOWELL BOYS' CLUB

Arthur L. Eno and Harry Pitts Added to the List of Campaign Captains—Meeting Held This Noon

That Lowell can and will do for its boys club what other cities have done for such institutions is the slogan adopted by the campaign committee preparing for the big civic movement to raise $50,000 next month for the Lowell Boys' club.

The executive committee today at its luncheon in Page's restaurant voted to continue the campaign for one week.

SAYS PLANT JUICE SURELY CURED HIM

Edward R. Vondal, of Tewksbury, Gives a Glowing Endorsement for the New Medicine

Stomach trouble is the cause of more derangements of the nervous system and general bodily functions, than any other ailment. No other remedy has been accorded the instant success that has been obtained by Plant Juice. The new herbal stomach remedy, a combination of Nature's remedies for the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys, which is being attested daily at the demonstration of this remedy in Lowell, at Dows, the Druggists', in Merrimack Square, by well known local people.

Following is the statement of Mr. Edward R. Vondal, who resides at Tewksbury, Mass., a well known and prosperous farmer of that town who has hosts of friends and acquaintances in this city, also. He said: "I have been troubled for over a year with my stomach, was bloated with gas, had no appetite, and my little foot I did not give me no benefit. I had pains in my arms and limbs from rheumatism, in fact my whole body ached and I could not sleep on account of the pain I suffered; was constipated, nervous and restless, had headaches, dizzy spells, and no ambition or energy. Since I have started to take Plant Juice, I can eat my meals and enjoy them; I sleep well at night for the first time in years, as formerly I would sit up all night for weeks at a time. I have no more pains or aches and am glad to state that Plant Juice has entirely cured me and made a new man of me. I cannot speak too highly of Plant Juice, and am glad to recommend it to others."

Such words as these and those of many others which have been printed, have wide influence, for they come from men of standing and integrity, who have given Plant Juice a fair trial and have been greatly benefited thereby.

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, the Druggists', in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. On Saturday he will remain at the store until 10 P. M. to meet those who are unable to call during the day.

Instead of ten days. The members felt the large volunteer corps of 200 members easily could obtain the amount needed in that time.

Among the new team captains enlisted for the campaign are Arthur L. Eno and Harry Pitts. These officers of the volunteer army were chosen today.

Harry Dunlap told the committee that the club has never conducted a membership campaign during the 16 years of its existence. He added that it has not made an organized appeal to the community in that time. He explained that the work has been maintained by contributions of friends of the institution.

Since the club has twice been forced to seek larger quarters it now has a debt to lift and the committee feels that in recognition of its constructive work in preparing the handicapped boys of the streets for useful careers, the public of Lowell will be glad to make a continuation of its activities possible.

Tomorrow, September 30th. at 3 P. M.

SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION OF TWO SPLENDID BUILDING SITES SITUATED ON THE EASTERLY SIDE OF MT. WASHINGTON ST., BETWEEN NOS. 100 AND 118.

In accordance with instructions from the out-of-town savings bank which owns this property, we shall offer on the premises on the date and hour above mentioned these two extremely high grade building sites. They are situated on Mt. Washington St., one of the most attractive residential streets in this entire section of the city, and in a location which, while strictly residential, is yet within a very convenient distance of the downtown district. The lots are on the highest and most desirable portion of Mt. Washington street, and have an area approximately 6000 square feet each and are both fronted with a handsome granite curbing. The lots are absolutely level and are splendidly adapted to building purposes. They are already provided with sewer, city water, sidewalk, curbing, gas and electricity, and no further expense is required on this account. There is notably a stronger demand for modern properties here than in any other portion of the city and this land is almost the last still available at any price in this immediate section. The sale is due solely to the fact that the ownership is vested in an out-of-town banking institution which naturally is in no position to utilize local property.

TERMS: $200 on each lot must be paid or secured to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at the sale.

C. F. KEYES in Charge.

KRONPRINZ WILHELM AND PRINCE EITEL FRIEDRICH OFF FOR PHILADELPHIA

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 29.—The interned German auxiliary cruisers Kronprinz Wilhelm and Prinz Eitel Friedrich left the Norfolk navy yard early today for Philadelphia where they are to be laid up for the remainder of the war. A squadron of American battleships waited off the Virginia capes to escort the cruisers up the coast and serve the double purpose of preventing their escape and guarding against interference by allied warships.

The Prinz Eitel Friedrich went out under her own steam while five tugs towed the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

SUPT. WELCH TESTIFIES AT ROPER TRIAL IN CAMBRIDGE

Witness Saw Blood on Pipe But Did Not Examine Roper's Clothing— Defense Will Open Monday

The trial of Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, Albert Roper, at the latter's greenhouses at Tewksbury on the night of March 1, 1915, was resumed at the criminal session of the superior court at East Cambridge this morning.

It is expected that the state will close its case tomorrow and the defense will go on then or first thing Monday morning.

One witness called this morning was a clerk in a fruit store in Wait street, Roxbury. Several florists were called and testified relative to orders which it is alleged the defendant had taken for flowers on March 1, but the different witnesses denied they had ordered any flowers and also failed to identify their signatures on the order slips.

John Favaloro, who conducts a fruit store at 2 Wait street, said he did not remember seeing the defendant in his store on the night of March 1, but did remember his telephoning from the store the following morning.

Supt. Welch of the Lowell police department told of the examination of the defendant at the police station on March 2 relative to his whereabouts on the previous afternoon and evening.

Dorothy Fox testified.

THE MAINE LEGISLATURE. The extra session was called primarily for that purpose. It was the fifth special session since Maine became a state in 1820 and the second since the civil war.

An act to authorize the harbor commissioners of Portland to alter and modify the harbor lines of that city was passed to be engrossed.

A communication from Elmer E. Newbert, the state treasurer, in reference to disposition of the public land reserve fund, was referred to the next legislature.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of United States Senator Edward C. Burleigh and four members of the Maine house of representatives.

CITY PAYS INTEREST ON FUNDS WHICH WERE SPENT YEARS AGO

Some time ago Commissioner of Finance William W. Duncan addressed a communication to the city solicitor containing an inquiry as to the status of funds on which the city pays more money than it receives and the city solicitor's answer is quite interesting. The solicitor deals with two bequests of Thomas Nesmith, one of $25,000 and the other of $1000, and states that by the water department. The fund the payment of unearned interest on these funds results in a donation of the tax revenues to the support of persons who are not paupers, and for purposes not germane to the objects of a municipal corporation.

The bequests in question were accepted by the city government in 1870 and were immediately used, it is stated, by the water department. The fund

JOHN M. PARKER, MOOSE CANDIDATE, FOR WILSON

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 29.—John M. Parker, progressive nominee for vice president, has offered to speak in support of President Wilson in the campaign. His offer has been accepted by the president. He will make speeches in Ohio, New York and New Jersey. The president received a letter from him today according to an announcement by administration officials.

F. F. AYER IS OUT STRONG FOR WILSON'S ELECTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Frederick F. Ayer, a lifelong republican, member of the Union League club and a stockholder and director of the Tribune association, which publishes the New York Tribune, a staunch republican newspaper, yesterday sent to Vance McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee, his check for $1000 to aid in the re-election of President Wilson.

In a letter which accompanied the contribution, Mr. Ayer, who is at present at Poland Springs, Me., wrote: "Convinced as I am that Mr. Wilson is one of the greatest presidents we have ever had, his hatred of war and love of his country perching like a jewel in his crown of office, I send you here with inclosed my check for $1000, to be added to the national campaign fund for his election."

Mr. Ayer is a Harvard man and a lawyer. His offices are at 15 Broad st. Besides the Union League club, he is a member of the Metropolitan, the University, the Hiding and Driving and the Downtown clubs.

The F. F. Ayer mentioned in the above despatch is none other than Frederick Fanning Ayer, Lowell's greatest benefactor.—Ed.

EXAMINED SIGNALS 20 MINUTES AFTER CRASH

F. H. NICKELSON SAYS BOTH WERE SET AGAINST GILT EDGE EXPRESS

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 28.—Both the distant and first home signals were set against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad's Gilt Edge express on the night of April 11 when it crashed into a local train at Bradford station, with resulting loss of life, according to the testimony of Frank H. Nickelson of New Haven, an engineer in the signal department, at the trial today of Charles H. Mansfield, engineer of the Gilt Edge, charged with manslaughter. Nickelson, who was a passenger on the express, declared he had made a close examination of the signals within 20 minutes after the crash.

DRACUT CHILD WAS BITTEN BY A DOG

ARTHUR FOX HEARD GERALD'S CRIES AND BEAT OFF DOG—ANIMAL HELD FOR OBSERVATION

While playing in front of his home in Dracut Centre yesterday Gerald Fox, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fox of Jones avenue was badly bitten about the face by a strange dog. The injuries include a deep cut on the jaw on the right side and cuts about the left eye that may possibly mean the loss of sight.

Arthur Fox, the boy's father, was in the house at the time of the attack. Hearing the cries of his little son he rushed out and beat off the dog which he afterwards captured. The animal is chained up and has been held for observation by Dr. William S. Eaton. It is of the collie breed.

TANLAC WILL ATTRACT MANY LOCAL PEOPLE

Saturday Will Mark Beginning of Introduction of Famous Medicine in Lowell at The Lowell Pharmacy

The introduction of Tanlac will begin Saturday.

In the presentation of this great reconstructive tonic, are two unique features, first, is the astonishing record Tanlac has made in other cities, and the demand for Tanlac has been so great that recently a company was formed and financed by New England capital, for its introduction here.

Second, the introduction will be under the personal direction of Mr. Ed. G. Brooks who will meet the public daily at The Lowell Pharmacy where he will explain Tanlac, how it should be used and the results that may be expected from its use by nervous, run-down men and women who are victims of faulty digestion, sluggish, congested organs, poor assimilation, imperfect circulation or catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes.

Jack Connor, who is a construction foreman on the river dam for the Tennessee Power Co., who lives at 19 Sycamore street, Worcester, Mass., made and signed the following statement while talking to Mr. Healy, the Tanlac Man at William L. Davis Co.'s Drug Store, Worcester, Mr. Connor said:

"I was in a run-down condition. I suffered from loss of appetite and did not have any 'pep' in me. I felt as tired when I got up in the morning as I did when I went to bed at night. I also suffered quite a little from catarrh of the head."

"I was completely off my feed; for a week I didn't put away a square meal. That wasn't natural for me and I commenced to become worried because I knew the fellow who doesn't eat is a 'dead end'."

"I was passing Davis' Drug Store and saw the Tanlac display in the window and bought a bottle. I hadn't taken many doses of my first bottle when I discovered that my stomach commenced to say 'I want food and plenty of it.' So now I can store away a mighty good meal and the best part of it I am not distressed after eating it."

"I am glad to recommend Tanlac because it is the very best thing I ever used in the way of a tonic and system builder. I have followed the construction game all my life, and I can tell when anything gives support, especially when a man is weak and run-down."

It is at times like these when a person is in the condition Mr. Connor was before taking Tanlac that the value of a great reconstructive tonic is most apparent. You can't amend the human constitution, but you can live up to it by taking Tanlac.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

The Massachusetts Mohair Plush company is soon to observe the 25th anniversary of its establishment in Lowell, for The Sun of quarter of a century ago informed us:

"The manufacture of mohair plush is to be started in this city in the Coram building in Middlesex street where three floors will be occupied by the concern. Their spinning machinery is now being made in England. At present the only mills of this kind in this country are located in Sanford, Me. and Pawtucket, R. I. The local concern will have 16 looms at first and increase the number afterward. They contemplate bringing to this city next year, another industry, that of making window shades, to be conducted in connection with their present industry."

The Mohair Plush company landed in Lowell just in the height of a red-hot political campaign with Hon. Charles H. Allen, of this city and Hon. William E. Russell, as the contesting candidates for governor, the latter being in office at the time. The Mohair Plush company landed in Lowell just in the height of a red-hot political campaign with Hon. Gov. Russell at Rally

Says the old Sun:

"At the democratic rally held in Huntington hall, last Saturday evening Governor William E. Russell was accompanied by his wife who occupied a box during the addresses. This was the first meeting during the campaign at which Mrs. Russell accompanied her husband. The latter hurried away after his speech to attend a rally in Woburn and Harvey N. Collison, of Boston substituted for him. John L. Corcoran who was unable to be present, Hon. John J. Donovan presided and before the close of the meeting there were calls for Col. A. A. Haggitt, who responded with a good short speech."

"I had it not been for the whiskey there would not in all probability have been a man killed and I can truthfully say had I known they had whiskey I never would have gone into the town for, with all my faults—and I regret to say they are many—whiskey-drinking was not one of them, and I never had confidence in a man who drank."

THE OLD TIMER

QUESTION ON BALLOT

Fifty-Seven Districts to Express Opinion on Initiative and Referendum at Coming State Election

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Fifty members of the Union for a Progressive Constitution at a luncheon in the Quincy house yesterday discussed the report of the committee on initiative and referendum on its efforts to place the question upon the ballot in the representative districts for the coming state election. Joseph Walker presided. Ex-Gov. Walsh cited incidents during his term as governor to show, he said, how little the average member of the legislature is guided by his honest convictions, when partisan considerations were thrown into the other scale. He referred in particular to the case of the committee on taxation last year. All agreed in conference, he said, upon the course which ought to have been pursued in providing a revision of the tax laws, and yet two-thirds of them voted the other way next day.

See, Allen of the committee reported that the question had been entered on the ballot in 36 representative and one senatorial districts.

G. A. SENTER CHANGES STORE

G. A. Senter, the well known local jeweler, has taken over a new location, the former store having proved too small in which to transact his business which has increased rapidly during the past year. Mr. Senter still remains in the Bradley building, Central street, but is now located in room 211, which is directly opposite his former store and which is one of the largest rooms facing on Central street in this building. The new quarters, which are spacious, have been completely changed over to meet with the requirements of the business. Two handsome display windows greet the eye of any passer by. The windows are tastefully arranged, face the corridor which runs through the entire building. In the center street window in plain view is a large clock which at night is illuminated while below is the name of the proprietor. The windows on either side bear the inscription "Agent for Waltham Watches." Mr. Senter, by the way, pays special attention to this make of timepieces and terms his store "The Lowell Home of Waltham Watches."

NEW BASIS FOR MAIL RATE

Government to Pay Railroads for Space Instead of Weight as Experiment, Beginning Nov. 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The space basis for compensating railroads for transportation of mails will be put into effect Nov. 1 throughout 90 percent of the service, the postoffice department announced last night, under a provision of the last postoffice bill which authorized partial installation of the system to test its possibilities. Final decision as to whether it shall be made permanent is left by the bill to the interstate commerce commission.

The 10 percent of the service in which the present weight basis will be retained is the "closed pouch service," consisting of mails transmitted in locked sacks and handled in baggage cars by agents of railroad companies.

"It is expected," said a statement issued by the department, "that the cost of mail service on a space basis will be somewhat in excess of the cost on a weight basis, at least at the outset, but this excess is counterbalanced by certain economies and savings which can be effected in transporting empty equipment and supplies in the space paid for, but unused when mails run light."

Famous Bank Robber

I am indebted to Mr. Thomas A. Delany, a former resident of Lowell who now travels to coast for a Brockton shoe concern, for a clipping from the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune which contained a full report of the confession of the noted bandit of days gone by, Cole Younger, which was made public upon his death at Lees Summit, Mo., last year. It has a local interest, owing to its reference to Gen. Butler.

Mr. Delany is a faithful reader of this column whenever he can get The Sun in his travels, and on a recent trip to this city he kindly furnished me with the clipping. It seems that the Younger brothers who were connected with the notorious James boys of half a century ago, and more recently, attempted the robbery of the bank at Northfield, Minn., assisted by a party of outlaws, one of whom was never caught nor identified and who to this day is supposed to have been Frank James, brother of Jesse James. The bandits killed one bank clerk and one of their number was also killed while the others were all wounded more or less seriously and shortly afterward were arrested, convicted and sentenced. While in prison at Stillwater, Minn., Cole Younger, the leader of the outlaws, made a full confession to Dr. A. E. Hedback, then the prison physician, on the promise that the latter would not give it publicity until Younger's death.

The confession was made in 1897, and subsequently Younger was pardoned and went to live on a farm in Lees Summit, Mo., where he spent his remaining days in peace, and as a good citizen. Upon his death last year Dr. Hedback, now a resident of Minneapolis, made public the confession which in print required three columns of the newspaper, and which read like a volume of yellow-covered literature such as the boys of quarter of a century ago delighted to read when the teacher wasn't looking. The opening paragraph of the confession has a decidedly local flavor for it read as follows:

"Sir: For the first time I will now write out and give the facts of the raid made on the bank at Northfield, Sept. 7, 1895. We left Mankato Sept. 2, for Northfield. We had been informed that Gov. Ames of Minnesota and General Putnam of North Dakota had deposited $25,000 in the Northfield bank of that place and it was that information that caused us to select the bank at Northfield. I have seen it stated several times in the newspapers that we were frightened away from Mankato owing to the recognition of one of our party, but such was not the case. That we talked about the banks of that part of the state is true, but we came to the conclusion that they had enough to do to take care of the farmers who already had suffered too much from grasshoppers, to be troubled by us; therefore, we went to Northfield in expectation of getting the $25,000 belonging to ex-Governor Ames and Gen. Butler."

Throughout his confession Younger averred that the outlaws had no intention of killing anybody, and he attributed the killing of the clerk and the failure of the raid, to the fact that two members of the party, unknown to him, had a quart bottle of whiskey in their possession, which they

BOSTON MAYOR REFUSES TO LIFT BAR ON MOVIES

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Managers of motion picture theatres endeavored vainly yesterday to have Mayor Curley lift the ban that he has placed on admitting children under 16 to performances during the present infantile paralysis epidemic. After the managers had declared that, in their judgment, infantile paralysis is not contagious, the mayor informed them that the health department took an opposite view of the disease.

He pointed out that because of the health officials' fear of contagion, the Boston public schools have not been opened. In concluding his statement to the theatrical men the mayor said: "I will feel justified in permitting children to enter places of public amusement when the opening of the Boston schools is decided to be a safe proceeding. But not until that time will I feel that the ban on the theatres can be lifted."

Who's the Bonehead

Mayor O'Donnell was asked today if he would be in favor of changing the hours for voting at primaries, making the hours from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m. the same as on election day, and this is, in substance, what he said: "I have read about boneheadedness (the word always properly quoted, of course) in connection with the hours for voting at the primaries and while I have always been very much interested in the matter, I could see no way of remedying it, not so far, at least, as the municipal primaries are concerned for the very admirable gentlemen who gave us the charter under which we are operating at the present time made the language of section seven so read as to preclude the possibility of a change."

The mayor then produced the section in question. It reads as follows:—At every preliminary election the polls shall be opened at twelve o'clock noon, and shall not be closed before eight o'clock in the evening. That is plain enough to be sure, and when further reference is made to "bonehead" in connection with the hours for voting at the primary it will have to be intended for the men who framed the charter.

As to the hours for voting at the state primaries, the mayor said, he was investigating the situation and that he would bring the matter to the attention of the city council at its next meeting. The mayor is determined to see the matter from the voters' point of view, but if he finds that the voters can be better served by earlier hours he will favor the making of the primary or caucus hours the same on election day. But the hours for the city primaries must remain as they are.

Beautifying Canal

Agent J. C. Wadleigh of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., has informed Mayor O'Donnell that when the proprietors of the Locks and Canals have completed the stone wall on the eastern side of the Dutton street canal from Merrimack street to the foot of Dutton street, he will, by the Merrimack Mfg. Co., erect an ornamental iron fence on the canal bank to correspond with the Lucy Larcom park fence. The mayor says that as soon as the fence is built the city will proceed to beautify the eastern side of the canal.

City Farm Crops

It was stated today that 140 tons of ensilage has already been stored at the city farm. Superintendent Conley says that the potato crop is only fair, the kind planted being the Green Mountain and the Irish cobbler, the most wonderful combination, perhaps, in New England. The crop of beets (not beets), carrots, parsnips and turnips is exceptionally good.

Dates for Registration

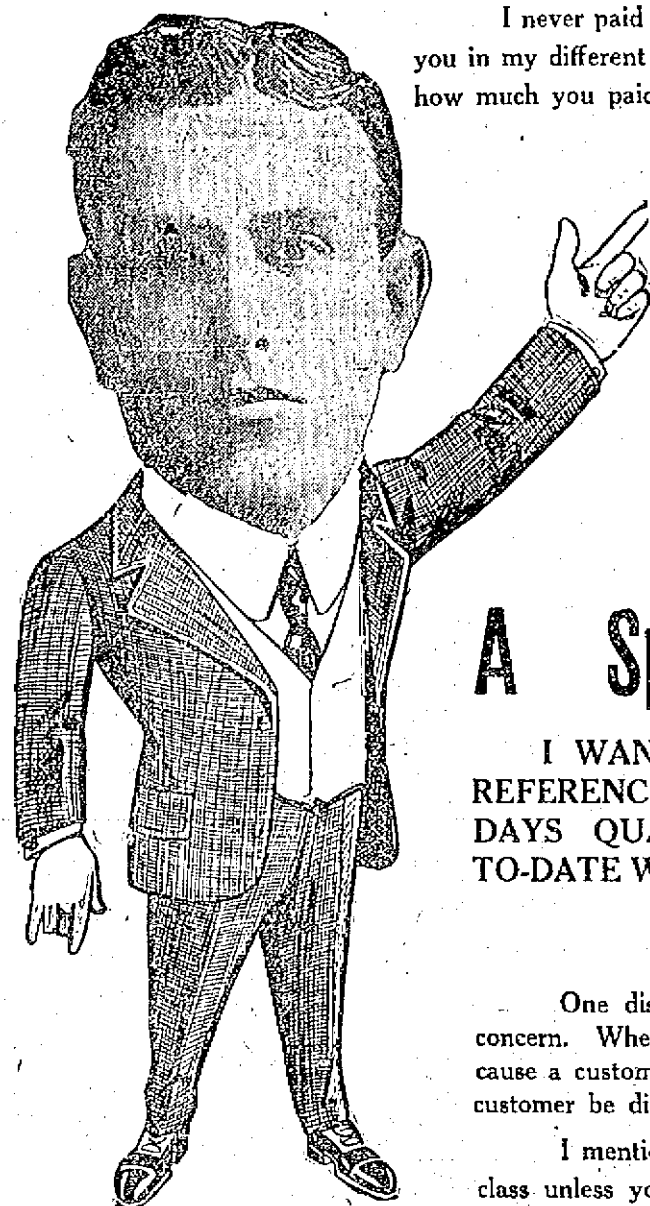

The dates for registration for the state election are given out at the city hall this morning as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 9, 10 and 11; Friday, Oct. 13, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 16, 17 and 18. The hours for registration will be from 1 to 3 and 7 to 9 p. m., except on Wednesday, Oct. 15 when the hours will be from 12 noon, till 9 p. m., and no name can be added later than 9 p. m., on October 12.

Sylvester Is Safe

There has been considerable inquiry as to the whereabouts of Sylvester Smith of Antrim, N. H. It seems that Sylvester, according to a story which he told the city messenger, came to Lowell from Antrim on August 6, with about $10 in his pocket. The money disappeared and Sylvester did not say that the disappearance was mysterious, but he asked the city messenger to telephone to his son-in-law at Antrim and asked him to forward the price of a ticket from Lowell to Antrim. The city messenger telephoned as requested but failed to get in touch with Sylvester's son-in-law. Sylvester went away and a little later inquiries concerning his whereabouts began to pour in at the police station and elsewhere. It was discovered today that Sylvester had been sent to the state infirmary at Tewksbury and now that he has been located he will be given

I never paid more for woollens in my twenty years' business experience than I am paying today for the cloth I am selling to you in my different stores. But I never bought better qualities, better styles or handsomer fabrics, neither did you, and I don't care how much you paid, I unhesitatingly say that the $25 to $35 tailor can't give you better.

To the man, who, when he buys wants the best in the market, who wants late, snappy up-to-date merchandise—who, when he spends his money, likes to see lots of goods, so that he won't be restricted in a choice, who doesn't care so much for a dollar or two on the price, so long as he gets what he likes and what he knows people will appreciate, I issue

I WANT YOU COME IN, LOOK MY LINE OVER, TAKE HOME SAMPLES FOR FUTURE REFERENCE, I DON'T CARE WHETHER YOU BUY OR NOT, I AM MAKING THESE TWO DAYS QUALITY DAYS. I AM GOING TO SHOW YOU THE LARGEST AND SWELLEST UP-TO-DATE WOOLENS YOU EVER SAW ALL TOGETHER, IN ANY ONE STORE IN ALL YOUR LIFE.

STOP TO CONSIDER

One dissatisfied customer does more harm to a tailoring business than ten satisfied customers do good for the same concern. When you please the average man he takes it for granted. So he should. And it can't be expected that just because a customer is pleased by a concern that the customer should go out and break his neck advertising the fact. Let that customer be displeased, however, and he is more willing to break his neck to advertise the fact.

I mention these things to remind you of the fact that you can't stay in business seven full years in Lowell and lead your class unless you make good, and start the eighth year with the biggest business in its history.

UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF MY HEAD DESIGNER, MR. ATWOOD, and his assistants, Mr. Campbell, Mr. McMahon, Mr. Daly and Mr. Roy, the garments you buy in my store today are draughted, cut and fitted by men who have spent a lifetime in the designing of men's garments. In my workshop in my store is a force of men sewing and moulding them to the human shape, and you don't find many forms alike. My workshop is under the supervision of Mr. Andrew Barbara, who for thirty years past has worked for some of the highest priced tailors in Lowell.

If this combination can't fit and please you, cutters, fitters, tailors, all together working on the same floor, I don't know what chance you have to be fitted by men who do not profess to be or cannot hope ever to be style creators.

I want you to see these goods I offer at prices that this country has accepted as standard and popular. I can please you and save you money. Look me over anyway. No harm done if you don't order, and if you should order, you can take your garments when you are ready—say two weeks, a month, or two months. The point I want to bring out is, you don't spend your money now.

PORCH FURNITURE

"Give some more of your ideas for porch furnishings, won't you, Marie?" pleaded Marjorie, as she threw herself on a wonderfully cretonned couch-hammock on her aunt's side veranda, screened by sweet odored vines.

"Well, I told you what I thought," he had retired from active business, but still traded occasionally in the stock market.

Both Small and his wife were about 50 years of age.

Awarded $10,000 in Suit
In 1909 Small sued A. H. Soden, widely known as one of the three owners at that time of the Boston Baseball club for $300,000 for alienation of Mrs. Small's affections. A master who heard the case awarded Small $10,000.

Had Offered $1000 Reward
Before his arrest, Small had announced that he would give $1000 to anyone who could discover who killed his wife. He said he knew of no one who might have any reason for wishing ill to his wife or himself. Some time prior to the discovery of the bones about Mrs. Small's neck her husband suggested the possibility that her clothing had caught fire while she was sitting before a fireplace as was her custom. After his arrest he refused to make any statement whatever.

Both About 50 Years of Age

Willow furniture is always attractive and is especially suitable for the porch because it can be scrubbed and cleaned without damage to its appearance or construction. The willow tables are cheap, made in various sizes, and light enough in weight to be easily moved. The Chinese "hour-glass" chairs are also good. Then there is the rustic furniture—chairs and stools, couches and tables of "old hickory" and the English terrace furniture of white-painted cypress, which is delightful for a big house and a broad veranda. "Whatever kind is chosen, see that it is built to stand an occasional wetting from unexpected showers, and the hard knocks which a strong wind may subject it to. And above all, let it be comfortable; let it invite relaxation and rest. The chair which suggests formality or a brief, stiff sojourn, should have no place in this group. There should be also some means of stretching at full length for a chance nap during the long, hot afternoons. Canvas hammocks, with loose mattress and cushions, are perhaps the most popular for this purpose and have almost displaced the old time wicker hammocks.

HOLLWEG IN REICHSTAG SAYS GERMANY WILL WIN

BERLIN, Sept. 29, via London.—Germany will persevere until victory is hers, the reichstag was told yesterday by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the full text of his speech which was published here today. The chancellor declared that this year's harvest had made Germany's position much more secure than was the case last year.

In his attack upon Great Britain he declared that that country was breaking one international law after another and was above all Germany's "most grotesque, ferocious and most obstinate enemy."

"A German statesman," he said, "who would hesitate to use against this enemy every available instrument of battle that would really shorten this war—such a statesman should be hanged." The chancellor declared his contempt for those circulating reports that all Germany's means of fighting were not being employed to the fullest possible extent. He added that in order to disappoint the enemy "who is on watch for every breach of our inner determination," he would not give details.

"When in August, 1914," he went on, "we had to draw the sword, we knew we had to protect our hearths and homes against a mighty and almost overwhelming coalition. Ardent, until then unknown and often ignored, patriotism flamed up in all hearts, defying death and certain of victory. Today, after two years of fighting, struggling, suffering and dying, we know more than ever before that there is only one watchword, namely, persevere and win. We will win. Last winter there was pusillanimous anxiety as to whether our food-stuffs would suffice. They have sufficed. This year's harvest makes us much more secure than was the case last year."

Referring to the actual conditions on the war front, the chancellor said that the attacks made by the central powers in the southeastern theatre had frustrated the great plan of the entente to sever the connection of Germany with the Orient by the separate conquest of Turkey, Bulgaria and Austria-Hungary.

"On the whole, therefore," he said, "we see isolated successes of our enemies on the Somme which cannot influence the general situation. On the other hand we have the successful repulse of all enemy attacks and the frustration of the enemy's intentions in the Balkans and the failure of his plans. Thus the gigantic war is proceeding. The war aims of our enemies are announced without disguise and can allow of no misinterpretation. Their purpose is territorial covetousness and our destruction. They proposed to give Constantinople to the Russians, Alsace-Lorraine to the French, Trentino to the Italians and Transylvania to the Rumanians."

"Since the first day of the war we have sought nothing but the defense of our rights, our existence and our freedom. Therefore, we are able first and above to declare our readiness for peace negotiations. I spoke on Feb. 9, 1915, and repeatedly afterwards with sufficient clearness on that subject. Does anyone dare to demand that we should make offers in the face of Premier Briand's declaration that the conclusion of peace today would be a sign of weakness or that memory was dead? The entente continues the war because it hopes to be able to attain Utopian war aims. The best of conquest of our enemies is responsible for the daily heaping mountains of corpses."

The chancellor appealed to Premier Briand to remember that the last youths of France were perishing on the battlefield and indignantly denied that the German emperor exercised his influence over the Russian emperor to prevent the development of the Russians in the direction of freedom. He denounced Great Britain saying that she wanted "the booty of Asia Minor and the German colonies."

"The British leave no doubt," he said, "as to what they wish to make of Germany. Our existence as a nation is to be crushed. Militarily defenseless, economically crushed, boycotted by the world and condemned to lasting sickness—that is the Germany which England wants to see at her feet."

"Then when there is no more German competition to be feared, when France has been led to death, when all her allies are financially and economically doing slave work for England, when the neutral European world must submit to every British order, every British blacklist, then upon an impotent Germany the dream of British world supremacy is to become a reality."

The chancellor said that he realized the troubles of the people coincident with the war and that he shared the deep sorrow for the fallen and mutilated. "I bow my head," he went on, "before the heroism with which women and men without distinction of rank or class bear their sacrifices, united in an ardent love for the fatherland. Still more sublime and still greater is the defiance of death with which our sons and brothers in the field withstand the violent assaults of the enemy who, superior in numbers, are fighting with the utmost bravery. World history—human history—has never before seen the like."

The chancellor declared that the German people again had an opportunity to show their appreciation of the heroism of the army by subsiding to the name war loan. He asserted that the nation grimo believed in sacrifice.

"I know we can also rely on the fighting behind the front," he said, "to give all their available money to support the gigantic work of our fighters in the field. With clenched fists but open hearts we will stand behind them, one man and one people."

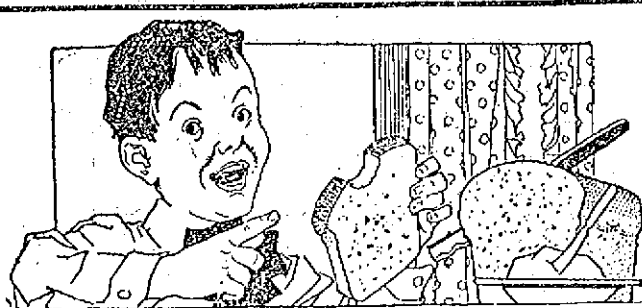

Concluding his speech the chancellor exclaimed: "Germany will not be permitted to think of peace while her house is burning. She must first extinguish the fire."

After the chancellor had concluded the reichstag adjourned until October 5.

O. M. I. CADETS PLAN FOR COLUMBUS DAY

SPECIAL MEETING THIS EVENING AT 7:30—NEW ARMORY ALMOST READY WITH FINE FEATURES

The O. M. I. Cadets are making great preparations for the coming Columbus Day parade and expect to have from four to five hundred young soldiers in line. They will be comprised of five independent divisions under Major Conroy. These divisions are five companies of infantry, a large body of mounted cavalry, a complete body of artillery, a hospital corps of 60 boys with their entire equipment, and the Cadet life and drum corps, whose field music will be a feature. All these different troops will be trained to the minute and will present a fine appearance. Major Conroy, with the assistance of Capt. Boyd, will be in charge of all arrangements and each division and company is under the command of competent officers.

In passing the review stands Major Conroy expects to have the companies of infantry form a moving cross. It will be the first time this formation has ever been used in Lowell. Every cadet is expected to attend the special meeting this evening at 7:30. All officers should report at 7:15 for special instructions.

The cadets are also watching with interest the headway on their new armory which should be open by the middle of October. Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. chaplain of the cadets, has made all arrangements for a grand opening with the cadets and their parents present. He has received many large pictures of former members to be hung in the recreation room and also a large picture of the 1916 camp groups. The entire ground floor, which will be of cement, will be used as a drill hall and the second story will be used as a recreation room and officers' quarters. The lockers and gun racks will be arranged around the sides of this recreation room. It will be as fine an armory as any in Lowell and will accommodate the cadets much better than the former hall.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Local unions and branches affiliated with the textile industry have elected to the convention of the United States Textile Workers to be held in New York commencing Oct. 15, the following:

Dresser Tenders, Mrs. Annie Rogan; Spinner Fixers, John Hawley; Folders, Thomas P. McMahon; Woolen Weavers, Frank Mutton; Polish Weavers, Frank Balas. Other textile organizations probably will elect delegates later. The contingent from Lowell will leave this city on Sunday, Oct. 15.

It was voted to appropriate money towards a fund for the relief of strikers at Pittsfield at an advertised meeting of the woolen spinners held last night at 32 Middle street. George Allen, Peter McMahon and Edward Cunningham were elected delegates from the local to the Wage Earners' club.

Organizer T. F. McMahon has been called back to North Dighton, where he prevented a strike of textile workers last week. After he had left trouble started anew and he is now trying to smooth things out.

W. E. Whelan was a visitor to this city Wednesday night. He came to attend a meeting of the boot and shoe workers' organization after having been in Lawrence doing organization work.

The Lowell Textile council will meet on the second and fourth Fridays of the month until further notice.

WILSON WRITES ON MAIN ISSUE OF CAMPAIGN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 29.—In a message opening his campaign of letter writing, President Wilson declared last night that "the question is about to be determined whether we shall keep the nation upon its present terms of peace and good will with the world or turn to radical changes of policy which may alter the whole aspect of the nation's life."

Women's Concern in Issues
The president wrote the letter to Miss Leona L. Larabee, president of the Women's Democratic club of Portland, Ore., thanking her for work being done in his behalf by the organization.

"I cannot help having the feeling," said the president's letter, "that the intelligent women of Oregon need no suggestion or intimation from me as to what are the real issues of the present campaign or the real concern that women must have with those issues."

Advocate of Suffrage
"As a very sincere advocate of the extension of suffrage to women, it seems to me a very great disservice to the cause that partisan use should be made of it, particularly at a time so critical as this, when the question is about to be determined whether we shall keep the nation upon its present terms of peace and good will with the world or turn to radical changes of policy which may alter the whole aspect of the nation's life."

In another letter sent to Howard S. Williams of Jackson, Miss., expressing regret that he cannot attend the annual convention of the Young Men's Business Club of America at Jackson on Oct. 10, the president last night declared that the future business development of the country rests in an unusual and peculiar degree at present in the hands of young business men.

Problems of Future
"The problems of the future in the field of business are going to be new problems very largely," he said, "or else old problems in a new form. It will need imagination, vigor and enterprise to deal with them as they should be dealt with, and the young men of this generation should be preparing themselves in mind and purpose for a new era. It would be a great privilege if I could come to hear such a message in person. Since I cannot, I can only ask you to utter it for me and to assure the gentlemen assembled of my profound interest in the part they are to play in the future development of the great nation we love."

The president made it clear again tonight that he has no intention of making a campaign tour. It was reiterated that all speeches made by him away from Shadow Lawn will be purely non-partisan organizations and, generally speaking, will be non-political in form.

No Platform Speeches
In replying to an investigation to make an extra speech on one of his Middle Western trips Secretary Tamm wrote last night that no plans were being made for any rear platform speeches by the president. On these trips the president's private car will be attached to regular trains and only the regular brief stops will be made.

A suggestion has been made here that Wilson day be celebrated before election in all parts of the country, the president to write a message for the occasion. The plans are only in tentative shape, however, and have not been finally approved by Mr. Wilson.

The president accepted an invitation today to review the Fourth New Jersey regiment at Sea Girt Saturday. The review will be held near the house in which he lived in the summer while governor of New Jersey.

REVIEW OF NAVAL GROWTH UNDER PRES. WILSON

Lemuel P. Padgett, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, gave out the following statement today regarding naval affairs under President Wilson and Secretary Daniels:

In view of the widespread interest throughout the country in the subject of preparedness, and especially the interest of the people in the navy, and in view of the many unjust criticisms and untrue reports which have been published broadcast throughout the country, I accept this opportunity to call attention to the achievements and accomplishments of the present administration under the leadership of President Wilson and the administration of the navy department under Secretary Daniels and to submit comparisons with the achievements and accomplishments of preceding administrations.

craft, short of munitions and with an organization in the navy department that did not effect proper efficiency. The navy was not balanced and not adequate, nor was there at any time a continuous policy to render the navy adequate or well balanced. While it is true that the general navy board had a policy for 48 ships of the first line by 1912, no secretary of the navy had ever adopted the recommendations of the general board in the annual estimates to congress. Owing to this lack of a fixed policy or system, our navy under republican administrations was allowed to drop prior to 1911 from second to third place.

In an attempt to prevent our navy dropping still further in relative strength, due to haphazard policies, President Wilson, in his message to congress in December, 1915, urged the adoption of a well-considered and a well-proportioned continuing program for the construction of new vessels.

The continuing program authorized in the last naval bill which has now passed both houses of congress and has been approved by the president will shortly assure the United States a well-proportioned navy, second in strength in the navies of the world, and authorizes construction in an amount that will tax the capacity of private shipbuilders as well as the shipbuilding facilities of the government for the next three years.

During the administration of McKinley and Roosevelt, from March 4, 1897, to March 4, 1905, the total cost of naval vessels authorized amounted to $107,006,642. During the Roosevelt administration from March 4, 1905, to March 4, 1909, the total cost of vessels authorized amounted to $83,192,928. Under the Taft administration from March 4, 1909, to March 4, 1913, the total cost of vessels authorized amounted to $127,747,113. While during the Wilson administration from March 4, 1913, to August 25, 1916, the total cost of vessels authorized amounted to $655,289,806.

The above figures show that the total cost of vessels authorized during the Wilson administration to date is more than twice the cost of vessels authorized during republican administrations from 1901 to 1913. The total authorized tonnage of the republican administrations from 1901 to 1913 amounted to 1,116,018 tons. The tonnage of vessels authorized during the Wilson administration to date amounts to 1,014,656 tons. The naval bill which has just passed congress authorized, for instance, 157 vessels to be built prior to July 1, 1917.

Three vessels as heretofore stated, restore the United States to second place in naval strength among the powers of the world, which position we lost under republican administrations.

The records of the bureau of navigation show that on March 3, 1913, there were less men in the navy than on June 30, 1912, notwithstanding the fact that congress on August 22, 1912, had increased the enlisted strength by 4000 men. Recruiting had fallen to such a low ebb that at the end of 1912 the battleship fleet was short 1648 men to effectively man the ships. It therefore appears that previous administrations were unable to obtain the men that congress had authorized, and in consequence the active fleet was short of men and the reserve ships were compelled to lie idle at their docks and to deteriorate for lack of men to keep them in good condition.

On March 4, 1913, the present administration found the navy short of its authorized enlisted force by 5313 men. During the Roosevelt administration 1500 enlisted men were added. This provided for only enough to man the vessels authorized during that administration, making no provision for a reserve or for relieving the then existing shortage. This shortage existed through the Taft administration, and although congress during that administration authorized an increase of 7000 men, only 3000 were actually enlisted. An investigation was made, and, after careful consideration, means were adopted to increase recruiting in the navy as it appeared at the time, that the first need of the navy was enlisted men. The present administration immediately took steps to open

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE DISCOVERED AT TOLLAND LAST EVENING

TOLLAND, Sept. 28.—A double murder and suicide were discovered here last evening when the bodies of Mrs. Rufus Gilmore, aged 60; her daughter, Anna, aged 23, and son Edward, aged 27, were found at their home. A shotgun ended the lives of all three.

The shooting is believed to have been done by Edward Gilmore, who has been living in Winsted, Conn. He has been acting queerly of late, since a sister was taken to the insane hospital. About $600 was found in his clothing when the body was searched.

Rufus Gilmore, husband of the murdered woman, died last winter, and Edward Gilmore was appointed administrator of the estate.

Medical Examiner Dr. Edward S. Smith of Westfield was notified of the tragedy and went to the scene of the murder immediately.

Tolland is one of the most sparsely settled towns in the state. It has a population of 199, and is located in Hampden county, close to the Connecticut border. It is 15 miles from the nearest railroad.

FREDERICK ESTY WINS

Republican Nomination for Register of Probate Was Won by the Present Incumbent

One of the most interesting county fights in the primaries, Tuesday, was that for the republican nomination for register of probate and insolvency for Middlesex county, which was won by Frederick M. Esty of Framingham, assistant register for 15 years, and appointed register by the governor temporarily to succeed William E. Rogers of Wakefield.

His opponents for the nomination were William G. Andrew of Somerville, a Boston lawyer, and Roland E. Brown of Cambridge.

According to returns brought to light, and only a few nooks and corners remain to be heard from, Mr.

UNNATURALLY TIRED

Some men and many women feel tired all the time. This is not natural. Fatigue following work or great exertion is normal but to be constantly tired indicates a diseased condition, usually thin blood. Backache generally accompanies this state of the system.

Such sufferers are usually pale but not necessarily thin. In blonds the transparency of the skin is increased; in brunettes it is decreased and the complexion becomes muddy. The eyelids become a greyish blue.

This condition of thin blood, which doctors call anemia, is a dangerous one if allowed to progress but with proper treatment it may be speedily corrected. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain just the elements needed to build up the blood and restore the lost color and vitality. New energy circulates through the system with the enriched blood, the heart stops its alarming palpitations, color returns to cheeks and lips.

Nothing more is needed except sunlight, good air, proper food and rest. If you do not know exactly what rules to follow in these matters write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for booklets on the blood and diet. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

PREVENTION OF STRIKE AVERTED VAST LOSSES

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—One hundred million dollars direct loss and paralysis of the market is what the farmers and fruit growers of the United States would have suffered had not President Wilson averted the railroad strike," is the statement made today by Frank G. Odell, agricultural economist and formerly, agricultural statistician for the state of Nebraska.

"The certified returns made by the 226 railroads of the United States to the interstate commerce commission show that for the month of April, 1916, their combined net earnings were 78 million dollars more than for April, 1915. The railroads' plea of poverty is being used by the republicans to scare the farmer into believing that he would have to pay the cost of increased freight rates if the eight-hour day should compel the roads to pay more in wages. The republicans are not calling attention to the fact that farmers would have lost more by one week of strike conditions than their alleged increase of expense would have cost the railroads in five years."

"Take his single instance," continued Mr. Odell. The Seattle Times prints this report of the fruit crop of the famous Yakima valley in Washington:

"NORTH YAKIMA, Sept. 18.—It is now practically certain that the 1915 fruit crop of the Yakima valley will be 10,000 carloads, 2000 carloads more than ever before. The total may even run over that figure. High prices have encouraged the growers to pick and ship all of their fruit and as it was exceptionally clean this year very little has gone or will go to waste."

"A return of $6,000,000 for those 10,000 carloads of fruit seems now assured as few doubt apples will average the 95 cents per box necessary to make this total return."

prevented the moving of this crop, with a resultant loss of at least 50 per cent, or a total loss of three million dollars to the Yakima fruit growers."

"This," Mr. Odell continued, "is indicative of a similar and perhaps larger loss in the famous fruit growing districts of Wenatchee and the Okanogan, in Washington; Hood river, Rogue river and Medford, in Oregon; the Bitter Root valley, in Montana; the Lewiston-Clark district, in southeastern Washington and Idaho; the big melon crop of Colorado and its equally important apple and peach crop, and the immense fruit crop of California."

"In 1915 the three principal fruit crops of Missouri, apples, peaches and grapes, had a farm value of over $15,000,000; the same crops in Kansas were worth nearly $2,000,000; in Iowa, $6,500,000, and in Nebraska nearly $4,000,000."

Esty has a plurality over Mr. Andrew of nearly 4000, while Mr. Andrew leads Mr. Brown by about 2000.

In Cambridge Brown and Esty split even, with about 1000 each. Andrew running third, but he was first in Somerville and ran second to Esty in this city, Everett, Waltham, Woburn, Newton and Belmont.

Saturday, October 1th, is Quarter Day at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

STATEMENT UNAUTHORIZED

Japanese Charge d'Affaires Explains That Talk About Renewal of Immigration Discussion Was Unofficial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Responsibility for the statement that after the European war Japan would renew negotiations with the United States over immigration and alien land legislation was disclaimed by the Japanese embassy yesterday in a statement issued by the charge, Tokichi Tanaka.

It was explained that an official of the embassy, who expressed views on this subject Wednesday, spoke personally and without any authorization.

Furthermore, Mr. Tanaka declared that Baron Sakatani, the former Japanese finance minister, who has suggested in speeches in New York that Japan would take up the alien land issue again as soon as the war was over, was in no way authorized to speak for the foreign office and was discussing the question solely as an individual statesman representing a large body of Japanese public opinion.

PRICE OF MEATS DROPS

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Meats have experienced a substantial reduction, to the joy of market, though flour has advanced another 25 cents a barrel and sugar 15 cents a hundred-weight. There was a great abundance of fruits and green vegetables and fresh fish yesterday.

000. This does not take into account early small fruits, grapes or melons. A 25 per cent. loss on these values would have been small in the case of a railroad strike.

"The certain losses which would have fallen on the growers in the districts alone would have totaled many millions. The disorganization of markets which would have followed a strike would have been felt disastrously in every item of this year's farm production."

I wish," said Mr. Odell, "that the farmers of the country could realize that it is Woodrow Wilson who saved them from this incalculable loss, and that Charles E. Hughes, who as governor of New York vetoed practically all appropriations that were vitally needed for rural interests, is condemning President Wilson for preventing a nation-wide industrial panic and ruin of the farmers' market."

DIAMOND DAZZLES

One big reason for the recent successes of the Boston Red Sox is the fact that Bill Carrigan caught a great many of the games. While Bill isn't the greatest catcher in the world, his presence in the lineup gives more confidence to the other members of the team, and he is generally there in the pinch when a hit is needed.

Manager McGraw is getting more expressions of sympathy, than of congratulation. His friends regret more that he did not get his machine together a little earlier.

The Braves deserve great praise for their remarkable fight.

The loss of Evers, and the injuries to catchers and pitchers proved disastrous for the Braves.

The teams in both leagues look to be well organized for next season.

Ty Cobb is to be a film star at $100 per week.

The Chicago Cubs have drafted Charley Deal, the third-sacker who so well filled the place of Red Smith in the world's series two years ago when the red head was lost by accident to the Braves.

The critics had no sooner labeled Henry Kapp a div than the Giant gardener began to shine in all departments of the game.

The Pittsburgh club of the defunct Federal league owes $173,644. Which shows that the high cost of living has nothing on the high cost of pasturing.

It's always the despised fall-ender that rears on its hind legs and puts some pennant contender out of business. Ask George Stallings, he knows.

Ty Cobb and Max Carey, leading base-stealers in the American and National leagues, respectively, are running neck and neck for the piffling championship of the big show.

Losing the fine chucking of Hughes and Allen was enough to cast the Braves' pennant chances into the discard. The two stars were not only the cream of the Stallings' staff, but were also one, two in the list of National league pitchers.

The Smith family certainly is coming into its own as big yard pastimers. Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis in the National league and Washington in the American league all have a Smith on the payroll.

Hugh Duffy favors a new league that would comprise Lynn, Lowell, Lawrence, Lewiston, Portland and Fitchburg.

Pitchers who have taken part in more than 40 games this season include: Alexander of the Phillies, Hughes of the Braves, Manau of the Pirates, Schneider, Tony and Schultz of the Reds; Ames and Meadows of the Cardinals; Ledard, Mays and Ruth of the Red Sox; Johnson and Gallia of Washington; Boland and H. Coveleskie of the Tigers; Shawkey of the Yankees; E.

Coveleskie and Bagby of Cleveland; Myers of the Athletics and Davenport, Groom and Wellmann of the Browns.

Stuffy McInnis has made a great come-back in his batting, dithering with the 300 mark as compared with 200 the first of August.

Howard Ehmke, who has been obtained by Detroit, was the shut-out king of the New York State league this year. He whitewashed opponents 12 times, blanking every club in the circuit, and won more games than any other pitcher in the State league. He won 20 games, and prior to this Alexander held the record, 29 games back in 1916.

JESSE BURKETT TALKS OF
DAYS WHEN HE WAS STAR HAS NO FUTURE

SAYS PITCHING AS GOOD THEN AS NOW—TOO MUCH HAND-SHAKING BASEBALL

Ty Cobb's race for batting honors with Tris Speaker is the American league ended a few days ago, according to the report sent out that Ty had given up the battle and that one of the reasons which influenced him from striving to the very end to catch Speaker was the best interests of the Detroit club.

And now for a little comment from Jesse Burkett. Back 20 years Jesse was the Ty Cobb batter of the National league. In 1896 he led with an average of .410 and toward the end of the season there was a happening which led Jesse to hark back to it during the lobby gathering at the Bancroft recently before a session of the Eastern league.

"Yes, Ty is a grand ball player," said Jesse, "and the only thing he ever did that I didn't like was to give up that fight to catch Speaker."

"But he said himself he did it for the best interests of his club," was replied to Burkett's comment, and the veteran, who wanted me to give up when I was leading the league back in 1896, with the Cleveland team—Tieau had it. We were due to play the old Orioles, and it was figured that I would be sure of leading the league if I dropped out and took no chances.

But I took my medicine and went through to the finish and I got 14 hits in those four remaining games."

"How about these big batting averages of your time, Jesse?" asked a fan.

"Just as genuine as those of today, and same conditions. The pitchers were just as tough then as now. They had curves and straight ones and could mix 'em up. They didn't have the spitter then, but they had the drop ball, and how they could pitch it! The drop ball pitching gave way after a time. It was too trying on the pitchers—took hold of their elbows."

"I consider Amos Russett was the toughest pitcher I ever faced. He had slow ones and fast ones and—zip—how he could smoke 'em over."

Burkett has strong convictions about minor league baseball. He believes the ball players of the minors should speed up their actions on the diamond and easily cut down 20 minutes or more of wasted time.

"The trouble with hand-shaking baseball in the minors," he concluded, "for the good of class B baseball."

GIANTS TAKE TWO FROM BRAVES, 25 STRAIGHT

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The champion Red Sox deviated a moment, and only a moment, yesterday from their customary policy of air-tight, winning baseball. But the deviation was fatal. It lost them the game, which, even with the slip from grace, the clan of Carrigan forced into 10 innings ere they disappointed a big crowd by losing, 4 to 2. And in that 10th when the enemy made two runs the unnecessary haste of Pitcher Carrigan was more or less responsible for the catastrophe.

The facts of the matter are that the Red Sox were beaten by Southpaw Moggridge of the Yankees and accordingly are but two and a half games ahead of the White Sox and must win three more victories to clinch the pennant.

Perhaps it is because the Red Sox impress one with a sense of their technical perfection that any departure sticks out glaringly, perhaps not. Anyhow, one offensive, at least to our way of looking, error, and one defensive deviation lost a ball game and kept the Boston fans, not to mention the Red Sox themselves, on the anxious seat.

In the ninth inning Pitcher Mays opened up on Pitcher Moggridge with a single to left field. The score had just been tied at the time and one run would have won the game. Harry Hooper was up, and Harry, as everybody in Boston and in other American league strongholds knows, is one of the best little bunters that ever happened. Harry, as you can see, is followed in the batting order by Janvin and Walker, two great rescue hitters, especially against southpaw pitchers. Practically every man woman and child in the big audience expected to see Harry bunt and put the pitcher on second, from whence Janvy or Tillie might have scored him. Harry, however, took a shot at the first ball rolled a grounder toward second and the none too speedy Carl was forced out. Then Harry died stalling, and a fine, and incidentally the final Carrigan chance, had gone aglimmering.

Then in the hostile 10th, which Walters opened with a double to left, Mays pitched to Moggridge before Shortstop Scotty had got his position. The Yank finger tapped a gentle grounder toward short, but as Scotty wasn't there the ball went to the outfield, scored a run and wrecked the game. A little less haste and the game might have been going on yet.

NEW ALTITUDE RECORD

MISERY ISLAND, Salem Harbor, Sept. 29.—Clifford L. Webster, chief mechanic of the naval militia station and chief instructor of the Burgess company, who is teaching the militiamen to fly, broke his own altitude record yesterday morning, when, with Gordon Balch, in the seaplane of Ensign Godfrey Cabot, he reached an altitude of 6500 feet. This is also an American record for pilot and passenger in this type of machine.

The weather yesterday morning was perfect for flying, and the clever Webster circled up, and up till he was nearly out of sight. After coming ashore and making a report to the aviation officer of his record, flight, Lieut. Greely S. Curtis roused the camp.

Webster, who is one of the most popular men in the station, was surrounded by his tent mates and heartily congratulated.

The craft used was a Burgess seaplane built on the Dunne self-balancing system and driven by a 110-horsepower Sturtevant motor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—George Stallings and his Braves got in the way up at the Polo grounds yesterday afternoon and were run over roughshod. By taking both parts of a double-header, 2 to 0 and 6 to 0, the Giants extended their winning streak to 25 games.

Jeff Tesreau, the Ozark bear hunter and spitball pitcher extraordinary, subdued Richard Rudolph of the Bronx in the first tussle. This made it an even two down for McGraw's dazzling cast and matched the record of the Jersey City Eastern league champions of 1903, Ferdinand Schupp, the slim and trim, rough and tough little southpaw, took the measure of Don Carlos Patrick Ragan in the second charge.

Let it be mentioned that this accomplishment, which marked New York's 25th successive triumph, tied a minor league record made by Charlotte of the Carolina league the same year the Skeeters suffered a brainstorm. Only one club in organized baseball ever had a longer run than that already enjoyed by the Giants. In 1902 Corsicana reeled off 27 in a row. Mac and his band are out to blot Corsicana off the map, and the Braves are with us for three more games.

Big Throng Attends

The crowd was one of the whopper ones of the season. More than 35,000 paid to see the Giants devour the Braves. Talk about your world series excitement, nothing at the world's series ever approached the ardor spilled through Brush Stadium. At world's series games the crowd is divided against itself, at the Polo grounds yesterday all were little pals together.

All were out for a single purpose—to cheer McGraw and his fighters to a record that will outlive the century. It was a crowd that enjoyed every second of the afternoon. Its appetite was insatiable. It was a case of thumbs down for the Braves all of the way.

The second game commands most respect. It was the one that whittled away every exciting record but that pesky Corsicana one. Also it came within the fraction of a hand's breadth of making the contest the most remarkable contest of all history. In shutting out the Braves in this close engagement, Ferdie Schupp came within scant inches of a no-hit game. Only 29 batters faced him and only two reached first base. For more than six innings this grand young southpaw pitched perfect baseball. Through each of the first five innings Boston batters were retired in order. Blackburn, who went behind the bat yesterday, was hampered in the third inning, was the first Boston player to get a start. He walked with one out in the sixth inning.

No Braves Reach Second

No Boston runner reached second base in this second game. Indeed Konechny was the only man beside Blackburn, who got so far as first. The Big Train it was who spoiled a no-hit game for Schupp. With two gone in the seventh, Ed cracked one a mile a minute to the left of Herzog. The second sacker made a gallant try, but missed by an inch or two. That was the only offering that closely resembled a safe blow. There was another incident in this second game that was worth double the price of admission.

Appreciated generally, perhaps more than Schupp's wizardry, Benny Kauff in the third inning knocked out his ninth home run of the season. It was a legitimate home run, one within the lines. But never was such unloaded a more propitious time. Talk of your psychological moments, if Benny lives to be a thousand, he will never have such an inning in the spotlight.

Kauff's home run came on the most soul inspiring situation of the whole afternoon. Not only were the bases filled with two out, but the count was three and two on Kauff, before he hit. With Ragan's pitch, Herzog, Robertson and Zimmerman, who manned the bases, all started at breakneck speed toward their goal.

Ball Fairly Hit

Benny took his full swing and met the ball as fair as one was ever hit. With the swing of the bat Snodgrass started ear back toward the flower beds, but he never had a chance to win the race.

The ball carried over Snow's bobbing thatch by 30 feet or more and snuggled up against the fence as Benny dug in his spikes and dusted past the halfway station.

PHILLIES WIN ERRATIC CONTEST FROM DODGERS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Philadelphia overwhipped Brooklyn yesterday, 8 to 4, in the first game of their final series. By winning, Philadelphia reduced Brooklyn's lead to less than half a game. The contest, which was witnessed by a big crowd, was an erratic exhibition. Both teams made costly errors and brilliant plays.

Alexander was on the mound for Philadelphia and, although not at his best, outpitched Cheney, who started for Brooklyn and was wild and ineffective. A one-handed catch by Paskert was the fielding feature. Luderus and Daubert led at the bat.

Philadelphia gained the lead by scoring three runs in the second. Cravath walked, Luderus doubled, and Cravath scored on Nicholson's out. Luderus scored when Cheney threw wild on Killifer's bunt. Alexander brought in his battery mate with a sacrifice fly.

Brooklyn came back with one run in its half of the third. Myers got the first hit off Alexander after two were out, went to second on Daubert's single and scored when Nicholson misjudged a fly by Segel.

Cheney had a wild streak in the fourth and Philadelphia annexed four more runs. Luderus singled and Nicholson walked and both advanced on a wild throw by Cheney. Coombs went into the box for Brooklyn and issued a pass to Killifer. Wheat permitted a single by Alexander to get through him and Luderus, Nicholson and Killifer scored while Alexander went to third, scoring on a single by Paskert.

Fighting gamely, the league leaders obtained two runs in the fifth on singles by Olson and Miller, a base on balls to Coombs, a fumble by Bancroft and Daubert's out. Paskert robbed Olson of an apparent home run in the sixth. Brooklyn scored its fourth and last run in the seventh.

IF'S IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT CHASE

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and break even with the Giants the Phillies, with four out of six over the Braves, will win the pennant by half a game.

If the Robins win two out of three from the Phillies and break even with the Giants the Phillies must win six straight from the Braves to finish first by half a game.

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and win three out of four from the Giants the Phillies must win five out of six from the Braves to capture the pennant by half a game.

If the Robins win two out of three from the Phillies and one out of four from the Giants they can still finish first if the Phillies lose two to the Braves.

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and three out of four to the Giants the Phillies can win the pennant with three victories over the Braves.

If the Robins lose two out of three to the Phillies and four straight to the Giants the Phillies can lose four out of six to the Braves and still land on top by half a game.

If the Robins win two out of three from the Phillies and lose four to the Giants the Phillies must take four out of six from the Braves to get into the world's series.

If the Robins lose three straight to the Phillies the race practically will be over as far as Brooklyn is concerned.

PHILLIES LESS THAN HALF GAME BEHIND DODGERS

Less than half a game separates the league-leading Brooklyn team and Philadelphia in the National league pennant race as a result of yesterday's victory of the latter over the former. Brooklyn must get an early break in the two remaining contests with the champions to remain in first place when its important four-game series starts with New York. Philadelphia has a hard series in front, too, a six-game set with Boston. The standings:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Brooklyn.....	59	58	.60511
Philadelphia.....	58	57	.60689
Boston.....	54	60	.62333

Boston lost half a game in the American league race yesterday, and leaves Chicago and Detroit still in the hunt. Chicago is two and a half games behind and Detroit four. The standings:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Boston.....	55	61	.58069
Chicago.....	52	64	.57333
Detroit.....	55	65	.56355

The Ottawas and the Burnside nines will play tomorrow afternoon on the Burnside grounds. A red hot game is looked for as the Burnside will strive hard to even up scores with the last going Ottawas, as the boys from Centralville showed in front in their last contest. Sturdevant will be on the mound for the Burnside while the Ottawas will have Griffin and Mulno with "Red" Nichols to receive their offerings.

NEBES BEATS YALE IN 3 MILE SKATING RACE

LOWELL BOY WINS FIRST IN SERIES OF THREE RACES AT ROLL- AWAY

Albert Nebes, the local roller skating champ, got the jump on his old rival Billy Yale in the first of three matches at the Rollaway on Hard street last night. The Lowell boy was forced to go his limit and won out by the slight margin of two yards. The race was of three miles and the distance was covered in ten minutes.

Yale showed better form than, upon his last appearance in Lowell. He contended at that time that a track 25 laps to the mile favored his opponent, and largely because of such contention, Manager Moore decided to give him a chance on a larger surface, the Rollaway space having been increased meanwhile to permit 15 laps to the mile. That Yale held Nebes throughout the race was evidence that his argument had some merit.

Yale won the toss and got away in the lead and with the pole position, but he didn't care for first position at this time, and quickly relinquished it to the Lowell boy, believing no doubt that he could recover the lead when occasion required. His judgment was faulty. Nebes retained the advantage so early acquired, and set the pace the rest of the race. At the end of two miles, Nebes opened up a gap with the idea of making Yale assume the pace making role, but the latter refused to go ahead.

In the last few days, the skaters cut loose, with Nebes always ahead, and Yale trailing. Nebes tried to lose his opponent as he did a few months ago, but was unsuccessful in drawing away. At the end, two yards separated the skaters. The exhibition was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd.

It was announced that a race between Nebes and Yale for the five mile distance will be staged tonight, with a pursuit race tomorrow night.

Money deposited in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank on or before Saturday, October 7th, will bear interest from that date.

BROUGHT DOWN IN TWO MINUTES AND 30 SECONDS—FELL 10,000 FEET—UNINJURED

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Three German aeroplanes brought down in two minutes and 30 seconds by a stop watch, is the latest exploit of Second Lieut. Georges Guynemer. Incidentally Lieut. Guynemer, who is known as "King of the Aces," fell 10,000 feet, but escaped unhurt.

Guynemer went to the assistance of a comrade who was being pressed by five German machines. He brought down two of them within 20 seconds and then rising over a third, which he shot down two minutes later. He was looking for the remaining two German machines when a shell burst beneath him and stripped the left wing of his aeroplane of every stitch of its covering. He plunged giddily earthward.

"I gave myself up for lost," he said, "but after falling 5000 feet I thought I would struggle all the same. The wind blew me over our lines and like a flash I had a good friends following the sound of my gun. I continued to fall and the fellows wouldn't budge. I vainly pushed and pulled to right and left. I made a last desperate effort all to no purpose and then I saw the field toward which I was dashing down. Suddenly something happened and my speed diminished. Then there was a tremendous crash and a violent shock. When I recovered my wits I was in the midst of the fragments of my machine and practically uninjured. How am I still alive, I asked myself. I believe it was the straps which held me to my seat which saved me."

On Sept. 15 Lieut. Guynemer was officially credited with his 16th enemy airplane. A week later he was reported to have brought down his 17th and 18th. He was wounded in a fight in the air last March and in a subsequent flight was forced to descend between the French and German trenches, but escaped.

NO RELIEF FROM INTENSE ITCHING

Tells of "Wonderful Cure" by Resinol

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—"I had eczema in the worst way for six months. A small pimple on my right wrist kept spreading until it was up to my elbow. It came out in spots and some places were like water blisters. The itching was intense and I had no relief whatever. My fingers were all covered with cracks and I could not do anything. My hands and arms were very badly. The burning was so bad it felt as if I had been turned to a blister and the blister rubbed off. I tried everything I could hear about, including many prescriptions, but had no relief. As a last resort I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. The itching STOPPED AT ONCE. Before I had used Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap three days the redness had all gone, I could sleep nights—no itching or burning—and I felt like a new woman. People who knew me when I had this trouble were surprised at the wonderful cure." (Signed) Mrs. J. S. Walker, 37 Bartlett St., Charlestown.

HARMONY WATCHWORD NOW, SAYS MANSFIELD

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR DENIES THAT HE WILL OUST CHAIRMAN O'LEARY

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—"Harmony is the watchword now," said Frederick W. Mansfield yesterday.

The democratic candidate for governor said there was no truth whatever in the statement that he had demanded the resignation of Michael A. O'Leary, chairman of the democratic state committee, and intended himself to run his campaign for election.

"O'Leary and I have always been good friends," said Mr. Mansfield. "Even if I wanted to get rid of him, it would be inconsistent for me, who has been talking against dictation in political matters, to try to dictate as to the chairmanship of the state committee, the members of which are elected by the voters. But I have no desire to get rid of him."

The candidate for governor went away yesterday for a little rest; he will return on Sunday. He may undertake some informal campaigning next Saturday, but he will probably keep rather quiet until the convention has adopted a platform and laid down the lines on which the campaign will be run in Massachusetts this year.

Many rumors about the strained relations between Mr. Mansfield and the democratic leaders who opposed him

LOWELL MAN IS HURT AT GROTON FAIR

At the Groton fair yesterday, A. G. Titus, of this city, the well known horseman, was thrown from the sulky in which he was driving his horse, Johnny Brown, when the sulky struck an automobile. The machine was entering the gateway to the grounds just as Titus was about to pass. Mr. Titus was thrown from his seat and into the enclosure, sustaining injuries to his back and shoulder. The accident occurred just at the finishing line, in spite of the mishap, Johnny Brown crossed the tape a winner.

WRECK AT LAWRENCE; EXPRESS HITS FREIGHT

SOUTH LAWRENCE, Sept. 28.—The Portland express which left Boston at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Portland, Me., over the Boston & Maine railroad, crashed into a freight train which was backing on the eastbound main line tracks just west of the station here last night. Nobody was seriously hurt, although the passengers on the express, which was well filled, were badly shaken up.

Wilbur S. Shorey, of East Rochester, N. H., a real estate salesman, who was on the platform between two cars received injuries to his left leg but no one else, so far as could be learned, required medical assistance.

The front of the engine on the express was demolished and three flat cars loaded with steel rails were overturned, blocking traffic for about an hour.

The scene presented all the features of a real wreck and was viewed by thousands of operatives leaving the mills.

Upon receipt of notice of the suit Henkel filed with the court a promise to appear at the marriage license bureau next Monday morning to meet the plaintiff and be married. Miss Kundel has promised to give by Sunday her decision whether she will wed Henkel or withdraw the suit.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Italian government has consented after much delay and negotiation to guarantee safe conduct and residence in Rome during the remainder of the war to Carl P. Jennewein, a naturalized American citizen who was born in Stuttgart, Germany. Jennewein is a member of the seventh regiment of the New York National Guard. Before he went to the Mexican border with his regiment he received notice that he had won a $3000 scholarship from the American academy in Rome for a piece of sculpture in a competition at the National Academy of Design in this city.

Jennewein was unable to obtain a passport owing to his German nationality. His friends interposed in his behalf and were aided by Secretary of State Lansing. He will leave here for Italy next Saturday.

SUMMER HOMES ROBBED OF JEWELRY

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The residents of the north shore have been thrown into a state of intense excitement as a result of raids of thieves who have carried away jewelry and silverware amounting to many thousands of dollars from the summer homes of that section. The thieves who have descended upon the various dwellings are believed to be of the automobile type, who rendezvous in Boston or some more distant city, motor to the place where the theft is to be committed, make the break and then speed away.

Recent Robberies
Summer home of Samuel D. Warren, Essex, $15,000 in jewels stolen.
Summer home of H. C. Perkins, Hamilton, $500 in silverware stolen.
Summer home of B. B. Crowninshield, Marblehead, $1000 in silverware stolen.

BANK ROBBER KILLED

FORT MYER, Florida, Sept. 29.—Leland Rice, one of four bandits who robbed the State Bank of Homestead, Florida, two weeks ago, and eluded a sheriff's posse in a chase of several days through the Everglades and by motorboat along the coast, was shot and killed on Chokoloskee Island yesterday.

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN OPERATING IN TRAINS SWINDLE MEN AT STATE LINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A blackmailing scheme reported to be in operation on railroads crossing state lines by which attractive women swindle male travelers with the aid of men confederates, is being investigated by special agents of the department of justice. It was disclosed here yesterday. Information of the swindle was sent anonymously to John C. Knox, assistant district attorney, who is in charge of the "blackmail syndicate" cases in New York and other cities.

The informant told Mr. Knox that while traveling recently from Portland, Ore., to St. Louis, he was nearly trapped by one of the women and afterward learned from a Pullman porter that the "bigger game" was being played by women traveling regularly on that line. Money is demanded from the victims when the train crosses from one state to another on account of threat of prosecution under the Mann act, it was said.

FINED FOR BUMPING AUTO

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—For the purpose of teaching a lesson to the drivers of motor cars who intentionally bump automobiles, Anthony Hatch, a Saugus farmer and a member of the overseers of the poor, was fined $20 in the Charlestown police court yesterday by Judge Charles S. Sullivan. Hatch appealed from the fine.

The case is also in the nature of a test and the first of its kind to be brought by the Automobile Legal association. Hatch was charged with violation of the street traffic regulations of the city of Boston. The applicable section under which the complaint was drawn is Article 4, Section 1, which states that "vehicles shall not be driven with reckless or negligent disregard of the conditions then obtaining and the rights of others."

KEEPS HER CHILDREN IN PERFECT HEALTH

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Family Laxative for Many Years

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlyle, Ill., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell, Ill., that she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the bowels in an easy, natural way, and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sickness to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should have a place in every family medicine chest. It is pleasant to the taste and children like it, and take it regularly, while it is equally effective for adults.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that the face-simile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

ALCOHOL MAY TAKE PLACE OF GASOLINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Increased industrial value of alcohol, and the possibility of its substitution for gasoline in the near future, were discussed here yesterday by chemists attending the National Exposition of Chemical Industries.

"The only fuel in sight which promises to take the place or hold down the price of gasoline is alcohol," said Dr. Arthur D. Little of Boston, who presided at the conference.

Best Fuel
Dr. Little declared that alcohol is the best fuel for internal combustion engines, as benzol, which had been suggested as a substitute for gasoline, is not sufficiently plentiful to keep the 3,000,000 automobiles in this country going for two days. Kerosene, he added, was out of the question.

Dr. Little quoted figures to show that from 1912 to 1915 the production of completely denatured and specially denatured alcohol rose from 8,000,000 gallons to 14,000,000 gallons a year. He asserted government restriction was one reason why there had not been a greater production. He read a letter from Arthur H. Combs, chemist at the DuPont Powder company's laboratory, in which the chemist wrote: "Making alcohol from sawdust is a great commercial success and will grow accordingly."

Dr. Little said that in the yellow pine district alone enough material is wasted to make 600,000 gallons of alcohol a day.

"There are 10,000,000 tons of material available every year in this country from which alcohol could be made," he declared.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF JAPANESE BARON

YOSHIDA SAKATANI ARRIVED IN WASHINGTON TODAY EN ROUTE TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Baron Yoshida Sakatani, former Japanese minister of finance, who had charge of Japan's financial reconstruction after the Russo-Japanese war, arrived here today for a two days' visit to officials and friends. He is en route to Japan from the recent economic conference at Paris looking to a commercial campaign after the war.

Several formal and informal affairs have been arranged in honor of Baron Sakatani. The first of these was a small and informal luncheon today in recognition of the baron's services as a member of the committee on research, division of economics and history of the Carnegie endowment for international peace. Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary of the endowment presided. Tonight Baron Sakatani will be the guest of honor at a dinner given by Tokichi Tanaka, charge d'affaires of the Japanese embassy, to which many government officials have been invited.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
Today and tomorrow are the last chances offered the theatregoers of Lowell and the surrounding cities and towns to see "Some Baby," that rollicking comedy success, which is the offering of the Emerson Players at the Opera House and which is the biggest hit offered in Lowell in many years. This week audiences have been very large and appreciative thus far during the week, and doubtless there will be a continued show of approval today and tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde, who give striking likenesses of George Washington and President Wilson, are a lot of humorous work, too, keeping audiences intent upon him throughout. The Three Vollos, European xylophonists, will rouse any gathering mightily by their spirited rendition of well known numbers. The Williams Tell orchestra and the Avonians to march are among the best things they do. The latter is decidedly fetching. Jim and Marion Hawkins made comedy of an unconventional sort, which brings forth a lot of laughter, and "In the Orchard," a musical comedy, is replete with comedy, pretty girls and music. White and White, dancing boys, and the Great Johnson, a mid-air contortionist, are very good, as is "The Tell Tale Envelope," the title of the 17th chapter of "Gloria's Romance." Phone 23.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON AND NIGHT AT THE OPERA HOUSE
A big program of vaudeville and picture features will be offered with five big acts and as many reels of the newest and best hits in pictures. The American Trio of singers and instrumentalists is one of the best acts in the vaudeville field today, while Nelson and Adams, "A Boy, A Girl, A Piano," is a classy act that is certain to make a big hit with Lowell audiences. There will be three other big acts. There are just two performances, the matinee starting at 2:15 and the evening performance at 7:30. The prices will be 10, 15 and 25 cents.

Next week, by special arrangement with William A. Brady, the Emerson Players will present "Sinners," that great play which comes to Lowell from

ROYAL THEATRE

Sing, a mongolian madman, whose dreams of conquering the white races is causing America horrors and sorrows. It cannot fail to impress. In "The Haunted House," the fifth episode, we see Ali Sing's murderous hirelings still working towards the great goal—a senator is killed, and Bronson, senior, swears vengeance on the yellow devil, but Ali Sing is undisturbed. Margaret Gale and Florence Malone, two young women of exceptional talent and beauty are very good in the supporting cast—while each episode becomes more thrilling than the preceding one. Edwin Stevens as "Ali Sing," is all that the producers would desire. His wicked expressions of the white race are cleverly drawn, while his every little move is consummate. Another fine attraction for the end of the week, is the fifth episode of "Liberty." Universal's wonder serial, a plea for Preparedness, starring Eddie Polo, Marie Walcamp and Jack Hill, who are holding audiences breathless with their wonderful and rising stunts in each episode. And many other fine pictures will complete one of the biggest programs ever shown in Lowell. Coming Sunday night, William's submarine moving pictures, taken under sea.

Once again Pauline comes to the limelight at the Merrimack Square theatre; this time it is in the dual role of twin sisters who have only their age in common, so diverse are their natures. The background of Miss Fredericks' marvelous acting is the gripping two act play, "Ashes of Embers," which will also be presented at the continuous performances given at this theatre today and tomorrow. Besides this play in which Miss Fredericks simultaneously interprets the roles of a drudge and her sister, a conscienceless woman, "The Almighty Dollar" with Frances Nelson and E. K. B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Seven acts of engrossing interest and an absorbing picture make up the bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. Appearing in this new film in the stellar role, will be the famous magazine-cover girl, Jackie Saunders, the dainty little star whose blond top and winsome grace are known from coast to coast and appearing opposite to her will be the well-known powerful dramatic star, William Conklin. "The story of 'The Twin Triangle' deals with the life of a young gypsy girl. This girl is in reality the daughter of a wealthy American family, but was stolen by a band of Romany at the age of five and was brought up as one of their own. Deprived of the advantages of an education she finds herself at a disadvantage when she meets a 'city feller' and falls in love with him. However her fast have an education all their own and by her wonderful barfot dancing soon wins his heart. The young man is at first attracted with her but soon discards her owing to her rough speech and lack of refinement. How, she later wins back her way into society by her dancing and how she again wins back the heart which was turned cold against her is the sweet, romantic story told in this new release. WILL DEFEND HIS RECORD

It seems too bad in a sense that while so many tremendous questions of international importance are impending, the president of the United States must defend himself against partisan attacks, but the pity is that such attacks are made. As the republican party has no real issue Mr. Hughes has made empty criticism his stock in trade and has raised issues which President Wilson is now going to meet. It is announced that the speech of the chief executive to democratic clubs tomorrow is meant for the first political speech in a campaign sense, but many more are to follow. Henceforth, Mr. Hughes cannot assail the administration at will without being called to account by the president to whose office he aspires.

To offset the criticisms of the republican party and those of Candidate Hughes in particular, President Wilson need only stand squarely on his record and leave it to the American people to judge his policies and his great achievements fairly and without political prejudice. The republican press is well aware of the political poverty of that party and waits continually about the long program which the president has to his credit. And the length of the list which the president has to his credit is only too well emphasized by the scarcity of the accusations made by his host of accusers.

In his speeches to meet the issues raised by Mr. Hughes, President Wilson can tell of his driving out of Washington the invisible government which stood between the people and honest legislation; he can point to his defeat of the lobby; he can review his fight for a revision of the tariff in accordance with pre-election promises; he can well boast of the federal reserve law which has saved the nation from panic when all the world was disorganized; he can tell of his championing of the principles of preparedness when they were in danger of being lost through sectional fights and of the part he played in getting through congress the largest army and navy appropriations ever approved in this country; he can point to the republican platform which is only a feeble reflex of the things he has preached and worked for during the past four years; he can point to the democratic platform which takes a decisive stand on all public questions and which does not brush over vital things in a vague way that does not mean anything to those who look for a sincere declaration of principles.

But, above and beyond all, President Wilson can stand on his record in his dealing with the grave international problems of his administration. He has made his fight on straight Americanism and thrown out a challenge to the disloyal few who seek to intimidate the government and to force American legislation to aid a foreign power. He can truly claim that he has won through diplomacy greater concessions than any of the warring nations have yet won through force of arms, and that he is regarded throughout the world as the champion of the neutral nations in their controversies with all of the belligerents. He can point to his prompt and statesmanlike messages to the governments of the allies and to the central powers in proof of the fact that no unjust attack on American life or property has gone by without an American protest. Above all he can proudly boast that he has kept the nation out of the war—which many think the greatest calamity in the history of the world—and has preserved peace and prosperity in the midst of universal misery and desolation.

THE FOOD SITUATION

American economists, including Commissioner Harrigan of the bureau of weights and measures of New York, are issuing warnings to the people of this country to economize and lay in large stocks of some household commodities owing to the danger of real shortage and very higher prices later on. Already most good products have soared out of all reason and unfortunately the tendency is to go up rather than to come down. Petitions are out in many parts of the country seeking signatures to protests and it is said that there will be millions of signatures on such petitions when congress assembles next December.

The wheat situation is probably the most serious of all, though most of the trouble was preventable had these in control considered the needs of their own country first. The New York commissioner states that there is not going to be more than half enough wheat in this country over the winter to meet the demand. Contracts have already been signed for the sale to foreign purchasers of at least 300,000,000 bushels. Department of commerce reports, he says, show that we have but 226,000,000 of wheat left, though we ordinarily consume 500,000,000. There is a surplus left over from last year, but if the figures given by the authority are correct, there is sure to be shortage and suffering before the next crop is harvested. Mr. Harrigan fears that before next summer a 5-cent loaf may sell for 20 cents.

If any such situation should confront us, there would be a speedy demand for government regulation of foods—and it may have to come to it if the war drags on. The growers and selling agents naturally want ready money and the highest prices and they will sell to the foreign customer if he pays more than the average American citizen. Yet, underneath all, the system is grossly wrong and there should be no exportation of food until it is certain that our own people should not suffer thereby. The government can act for conservation and can declare an embargo—and the people would be calling for radical measures before the time predicted by the New York commissioner.

POLAND SUFFERS MOST

The horrors of the war have become so commonplace that we no longer discuss them and when we read them in the papers they make but a passing impression. Yet, to read a recent report of the honorary executive secretary of Polish war victims, and to ponder its meaning, is to see mentally a picture of horror which staggers the imagination. We read that since the beginning of the war 1,000,000 Poles have perished; that three armies have been swept back and forth many times across that ancient land; that over 1,500,000 civilians have starved to death between the contending forces; that 20,000 towns have been entirely wiped out so that not a stone rests upon a stone and that all of the little children under 7 years of age have died of hunger. In this bare statement of fact is more of suffering and of pure unadulterated horror than all of the poets, dramatists and novelists of all time have conceived.

Yet, to the belligerents of both sides it is but a prosaic problem of a war which has brought misery to them all in some degree. The Jews, the Armenians, the smaller peoples in the Balkans have suffered untold hardships, and what of the suffering among the greater warring powers? Winter is coming on and there is but slight prospect of a cessation of hostilities. Soon again the soldiers shall be forced to fight in the snow-filled trenches where the dead may lie heaped for days without burial. Loved ones shall watch the hours drag by, fearing the worst from the front and so the earth spins on carrying its load of sorrow, while we in this land scarcely realize our rare blessedness.

NO TRUST ISSUE

There is no trust issue in the present presidential campaign and not even Roosevelt, the great trust buster, is saying anything about it. Only a few years ago there was no campaign, whether state or national, that did not give special attention to this phase of congressional activity. Down to the present administration the trust issue figured before and after elections but it remained for President Wilson to put an end to it—temporarily at least. He did this by refraining from any suspicious co-operation with the heads of big business and by holding conferences with trust magnates only when the public knew the business discussed. He also kept campaign funds free from the taint of trust contributions and at the same time avoided the persecutions of "bad trusts" that marked the administrations of some of his predecessors. From first to last he gave business to understand that they who keep the law have nothing to fear from the government and he strove to make the anti-trust laws more equitable and practical. Thanks to the sensible policy of President Wilson the trust question is no longer regarded in this country as a burning one.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE SAFE, RELIABLE WAY. People who are overburdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stuffed people have to bear. If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure. There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercises, here is a best worth trying. Spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from A. W. Dodge & Co. or any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules. Take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. Watch yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, and helps digest food. Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, footprints become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being. Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial.

MISQUOTING A SPEAKER

Judge Thomas P. Riley of Malden, democratic nominee for lieutenant-governor, said in one of his principal political speeches just before the close of the primary campaign: "Mansfield knows that if nominated he cannot hope to make even a respectable showing without the organization."—Courier-Citizen.

We listened very attentively to Judge Riley's address and are very positive that he did not make that statement. He did say that the state organization favored Gen. Cole as more likely to make a successful fight against McCall than could Mr. Mansfield; but at no time did he intimate that the organization would fail to support Mr. Mansfield if nominated. Judge Riley is too sensible and too good a democrat to say anything of the kind. Moreover he paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Mansfield saying that the latter is "his warm personal friend with whom he campaigned, traveled, ate and slept, a brilliant man and a good democrat, but still he felt that Gen. Cole would draw more from the independent vote and the opposition to McCall than could Mr. Mansfield."

THE FRIVOLOUS PUPIL

The president of the Chicago board of education runs the risk of being called a fossil and an old fogey out of touch with the times for some recent pronouncements. Referring to some timely school problems in his city he scored the modern practice of surrounding school life with luxury and the social atmosphere. Speaking of a certain high school, he said "You should see it on a rainy day. At the closing time the automobiles are lined up there as if it were a fashionable reception with liveried chauffeurs to take the wrist watch boys home. The pupils of that school think of society only. They live for their automobiles, their silk stockings, their parties and balls, for dancing and pleasure." There seems to be an element of exaggeration in this statement, but the things mentioned are not the function of a school, and the old sensible rule was to leave the society frivolities until school days were over.

Twenty-six years later it was again held by the Austrians under a Major Stein. The cavern is sufficiently large to garrison 500 men, and there are evidences that it was used during the Roman occupation of this region.

THE KAZAN DEFILE IS MAGNIFICENT

FOR AGES IT HAS BEEN CHANNEL OF COMMUNICATION BETWEEN THE WEST AND THE EAST

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—Just above the Hungarian town of Orsova, recently reported captured by the Rumanians, is the acoustically magnificent Kazan Defile of the Danube, described in the following war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society:

"Until the Hungarian government, at the instigation of Count Stephen

REICHSTAG HEAD SAYS WAR REACHES CLIMAX

BERLIN, Sept. 28, by wireless to Sayville, Sept. 28.—The following semi-official account of today's session of the Reichstag was given out by the Overseas News Agency:

The Reichstag opened this afternoon. The galleries were crowded and the foreign diplomats who are now in Berlin were present, virtually without exception. President Kaempfer in his introductory speech stated that the war, in its economic and political as well as military aspects, had now reached a climax. On all fronts there was a violent struggle for a decision. Germany's position, the president said, was satisfactory in every respect. He mentioned the arrival of the merchant submarines Deutschland and Bremen in the United States. (A news despatch to Berlin to the effect that a tug had gone out from New London, Conn., presumably to meet the Bremen, gave rise to the erroneous report, generally accepted in Germany, that the Bremen had reached the United States.) The president read telegrams exchanged with the emperor on the occasion of the beginning of the second year of the war and with the president of the Hungarian parliament at the time of the fall of the Rumanian fortress of Turtukai. The president's speech was much applauded.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech was listened to with undivided attention. The chancellor alluded to the intrigues of Rumania and that country's declaration of war, saying: "Our relations with Rumania before the war were based on the treaty of alliance first concluded between Austria-Hungary and Rumania, and then enlarged by the accession of Germany and Italy. The contracting parties engaged under the treaty to assist each other in case of unprovoked attack by a third party."

"When the war broke out King Carol with all his energy stood up for the idea that Rumania owed to the central powers thirty years of political security and wonderful economic development, and therefore Rumania

must support the central powers, not only on account of the provisions of the treaty but also for the sake of the country's honor. The late king regarded as sophistry the objection that Rumania had not been informed in regard to the Austro-Hungarian decision in regard to Serbia and had not been consulted about it.

"But when the deciding session of the crown council was held the aged king did not succeed in against the government whose prime minister, notwithstanding treaty obligations, sympathized with the entente powers. A short time later the king died in consequence of the emotions caused by realization that Rumania was a traitor to her allies."

"The Rumanian policy was now guided by Premier Bratiano who attempted to gain riches without making great sacrifices at the expense of the party suffering defeat in the war. The main point was to discover in time which party was about to win final victory, in order not to be too late. Nevertheless, during the first year of the war, probably after the fall of Lemberg, Premier Bratiano, leaving his sovereign in ignorance, concluded a treaty of neutrality with Russia. After the fall of Przemyśl he thought the time had come to reach an understanding in regard to pay for Judas-like Russia desired to increase her own vast territory by taking Bukovina, while Rumania not only wished this same Bukovina but also all Hungarian territory as far as the Theiss."

The chancellor added that in spite of this failure Rumania's policy of neutrality favored the entente more and more. He said Rumania attempted to collaborate with the British efforts to establish a blockade of Germany, withholding grain purchased by Germany until the grain was obtained by means of energetic pressure. The premier again hesitated when the central powers, initiating the offensive in Galicia in the spring of last year, broke through the Russian line at Gorlice and was in doubt whether he had placed his wager on the right horse. Negotiations with the entente were almost suspended.

"The Russian offensive this spring," the chancellor continued, "made Premier Bratiano believe," he said, "that the time had come when he decided to obtain a share when the robbery of the dead body began. Furthermore, the entente powers had a freer hand in conducting negotiations than others. Serbia had been conquered, and the protectors of small feeble states were no longer obliged to show any consideration for Serbia's former wishes in regard to annexation of territory. They could be more liberal toward Rumania."

"In the middle of August Bratiano came to terms with our enemies. He reserved for himself, however, the right to the time actual hostilities were to be inaugurated and attempted to make it dependent on military conditions. The king of Rumania up to that time had repeatedly given the most binding assurances that under all circumstances he would remain neutral. Finally the Rumanian minister in Berlin, on the order of the king, gave to me a formal declaration that the king desired to maintain Rumania's neutrality and that the government was in a position to do so. Premier Bratiano declared to the German minister at Bucharest, Baron von Buschke-Heddenhausen, that he fully endorsed the declaration of the king."

"However, we were not deceived. We were informed continuously in regard to Bratiano's negotiations during August and constantly directed the king's attention to the secret intrigues of his prime minister. The king declared several times that Bratiano was (not?) bound or binding himself to the entente. As late as three days before the declaration of war the king said to our minister that he knew the overwhelming majority of the Rumanian nation did not desire war. To an intimate friend the king declared on the first day in the most categorical fashion that he would not sign an order for mobilization."

"As late as Aug. 23 the entente powers had not decided at what moment Rumania ought to declare war. We knew this from a most reliable source. The Rumanian army still lacked preparedness, and particularly lacked munitions as was proved later at the time of the fall of Turtukai and Silestria.

"Then events were precipitated. From information which may be considered reliable it appears that Russia suddenly presented an ultimatum that she would cross the unprotected Rumanian frontier if Rumania did not begin war before Aug. 28. Whether this ultimatum was a piece of comedy prearranged with Bratiano, in order to influence the hesitating king, I leave undecided, but the die was cast."

He was most optimistic regarding the outcome of the war and said that nothing less than a complete victory over the central powers would satisfy the allies. This in his opinion, he said, would mean the "pulling down of the Hohenzollern house, and the division of Germany into the kingdoms which existed previous to the war of 1870, the complete re-creation of Belgium, Serbia and France along with an indemnity for damages inflicted."

HUGHES SPEAKS IN NEW YORK

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Charles E. Hughes went over his old political battleground of New York state again today with a program fully as strenuous as any he faced in his gubernatorial campaign ten years ago.

Fourteen stops—more than any yet made in one day—were on the itinerary. He left here at 4:30 o'clock this morning and the day's activities started with a meeting three and one-half hours later at Okeana. Stops of an hour each were down on the program for Binghamton, Elmira and Corning. The day ended with a night address at Boreali, where he will spend the night.

Tomorrow's program will carry him through the state to Buffalo at night. He will return to New York Sunday morning.

CAR BURNED

Continued
guishing the fire, thereby saving the other freight cars on the tracks and their contents valued at several thousand dollars.

How the fire started is not known, but it is believed it was through the overheating of an axle box. The blaze was discovered shortly before 2 o'clock and an alarm from box 821 was rung in.

The members of the local department rushed to the scene but were handicapped inasmuch as the fire was at the Bleachery end of the bridge and the bridge was covered with freight cars of all descriptions. The Boston & Maine railroad was notified and two engines were rushed to the scene, going around through Wamecet in order to get at the long freight train on the Wignville end. Seventy-five or more cars which constituted a part of the train were pulled on a side track a few miles above the scene of the fire and it was over an hour after the alarm was rung in that the firemen were able to get at the blaze and with considerable difficulty at that.

Several lines of hose were laid and the men carried the hose over the bridge which is in the form of a wooden trestle. When they reached the burning car several explosions were heard and not knowing what was in the car and also believing the contents were ammunition, they decided to fight the fire at a distance. The roof and sides of the box car were soon burned and then there remained exposed a mass of chemical preparation, which burned rapidly, shooting blue and yellow flames into the air. The stuff melted fast and flowed down the embankment into the river.

A large gas coal car which remained coupled to the pile of soda car was soon ablaze and the heat was intense. Volumes of water were poured on the flames, but the efforts of the firemen seemed fruitless for the water did not seem to have the slightest effect upon the blaze. Despite the intense heat, however, the firemen stuck to their post and pretty soon more lines of hose were laid.

Bridge Caught Fire

The Bleachery end of the bridge caught fire and nothing could be done with the burning nitrate of soda the firemen directed their efforts to the bridge and finally succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

The heat was so intense that the large rails underneath the cars were twisted and torn from the ties. Of the box car which contained the chemical there remains but a few bars of twisted steel and a heap of steel axles and wheels crumbled up in a pile. The coal car, which was partly on the bridge was badly burned and is a total wreck.

This forenoon engineers of the Boston & Maine railroad were sent to the scene of the fire, and they took measurements to rebuild at once the gutted part of the bridge. According to the engineers of the company it will be but a few days before traffic on this part of the road is resumed. In the meantime the trains will be shifted over the bridge extending next to the Pullman Whitworth's home at the junction of Lawrence and Billerica streets.

TO RESUME CONFERENCES WITH NEWSPAPER MEN

PRESIDENT WILSON REVERTS TO FEATURE OF FIRST TWO YEARS OF HIS ADMINISTRATION

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 29.—President Wilson today agreed to resume conferences with newspapermen which were a feature of the first two years of his administration. Through this medium he is expected to discuss political subjects freely and expound them for the country.

The president had no political engagements today, but spent several hours reading letters and telegrams from democratic leaders in different states and attending to public business. Tomorrow he will review the Fourth New Jersey regiment at Sea Girt, N. J., and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon will address members of young men's democratic clubs from New York.

have won north of Thiepval were heavily shelled. Our bombing parties were active in the neighborhood of the Schwaben redoubt and the Hessian trench, parts of which are still held by the enemy.

"A strongly defended farm 500 yards southwest of Le Sars was captured by our troops early this morning.

"North of Ypres (two miles south of Bettencourt) and southeast of Bapaume our aeroplanes observed a huge explosion as if a large ammunition dump had blown up. The smoke ascended 9000 feet."

GREEK WARSHIP HYDRA TAKEN BY REVOLUTIONARIES—GREAT EXCITEMENT

PIRAEUS, Sept. 27, via London, Sept. 29.—The defection to the revolutionaries of the Greek warship Hydra in the small hours of this morning, has caused great excitement in this Greek port. The Hydra, anchored under the guns of the arsenal last night, was silently boarded at 3 o'clock this morning by a party of men in civilian dress. The loyalist officer, second in command, was aroused from his bunk and with pistols at his head was forced with other loyalist officers to embark in a row boat. The commander, being a Venizelist, readily surrendered to the boarders.

Two tugs were attached by tow ropes to the ship and as noiselessly as possible she slipped her anchor chains and was drawn by the tugs from the company of the other Greek men of war. The tugs towed her to Salamis Bay where the allied warships are stationed.

The minister of marine stated today to the Associated Press representative that he regretted the incident, as while the perpetrators of it are unknown, owing to their attire, it was impossible to still the suspicion that they were not all of them Greeks.

"It is more to be regretted," added the minister, "that it tends to lessen the prestige of the government at a moment when it needs all possible credit and unity to accomplish the difficult task before it."

Despatches from Athens on Sept. 27 reported that the warship Hydra had joined the allied fleet.

SAYS ALLIES CANNOT BREAK THROUGH GERMAN LINES ON SOMME

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The allies cannot break through the German lines on the Somme, Chancellor von Beth-mann-Hollweg told the reichstag yesterday, according to an account of his speech published by Reuters by way of Amsterdam. The German prime minister made a similar statement in regard to the eastern front.

"The English and French, it is true," he said, "have achieved advantages. Our first lines have been pressed back some kilometers and we have also to deplore heavy losses in men and material. That was inevitable in an offensive on such a mighty scale. But what our enemies hoped to accomplish on a grand scale, and roll up our positions—has not been attained. The battle of the Somme will cost further sacrifices. Still another trench and another village may be lost but they will not get through."

In regard to the eastern front, where the chancellor said, the Russians had renewed their offensive with heavy attacks, he predicted the same result.

Referring to Rumania the chancellor said the old king of Rumania had died "as the result of mental excitement caused by the consciousness that Rumania had betrayed her allies." The speaker said the entente confidently hoped that Rumania's entrance into the war would bring in its trail the secession of Turkey and Bulgaria. "But Turkey and Bulgaria were not Rumania and Italy," he concluded.

SAYS GERMAN WAR WRITERS ADMIT THE LOSS OF COMBLES

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Reuters despatch from Amsterdam quotes German war correspondents as admitting the German loss of Comblès. The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the defenders, a regiment strong, escaped to the German lines during the night despite the fact that they were surrounded by the Anglo-French forces.

Herr Wegener in the Cologne Gazette says that Thiepval was voluntarily evacuated.

COUNT APPONYI

Count Albert Apponyi, one of the leaders of the opposition in the Hungarian parliament, according to advices from Budapest, is a receptive candidate for the post of Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States. He is well known in America, and it was urged by the lobby of the Hungarian house of deputies that his appointment would be received equally well in Hungary and the United States. Count Apponyi a few days ago referred to the vacant ambassadorship in a speech in the house of deputies, in which he said: "We all expect that a suggestion of peace will come eventually from across the ocean. When that time arrives it will be unfortunate if we do not find ourselves represented there. Certain steps already have been taken by the American administration hinting that it would be pleased to see the monarch arch again represented in Washington."

morning at 9 o'clock from his late home in New street and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, many being present from Worcester, Wakefield and Lawrence. The long funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9.45 o'clock a high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan. Among the many floral offerings were: Large pines inscribed "Husband and Pa," from the family; and pieces from Nora and John Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. McMenamin, Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Frank Carro; Mrs. Rose McHugh, Annie Mahoney and Mary Collins, Miss Catherine Collins, Mrs. Margaret Moore. The bearers were six nephews of the deceased, namely: George Gilbert, Charles, William, Stephen and Chester Berry, all of Worcester. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the final prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons in charge.

Patrick Crayton, celebrant; Rev. Fr. Heffernan, officiating. The bearers were: Daniel J. Heffernan sub-deacon. Among the floral offerings was a pillow inscribed "Uncle Tom" from the Wright family, and spiritual bouquets from Mrs. H. McGreevey, Margaret McGreevey and Mary Corbin. The bearers were John Bull, John Guther, Thomas McNie, John McNie, Patrick Fitzgibbon and James Gallagher. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the final prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Crayton. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons had charge of the arrangements.

NOT FEEL OF SHOOTING MACK

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—John Finerty was found not guilty yesterday afternoon by the Suffolk county jury which heard the evidence brought against him by the government on the charge of having fired the shots which severely wounded Edward McManus, more familiarly known among the sporting fraternity as "Eddie Mack." The latter was in attendance at a ball game last June at the Braves field when he was shot several times, being wounded in the groin.

The jury was out about two hours.

WINNER BORN APPEALS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Werner Horn, under indictment in connection with the explosion which damaged the International bridge at Vancouver, Me., last year, appeared to the supreme court yesterday asking that the lower court ruling denying him a writ of habeas corpus be set aside. He contended that as a German officer he could not be prosecuted for carrying out "an act of war" against British property. The indictment was brought under the law prohibiting interstate transportation of explosives on passenger trains.

BAY STATE MEN STAY ON DUTY AT BORDER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 29.—The Massachusetts infantry and cavalry remain on duty on the border.

This was announced in general orders from the war department made public by General Funston last night.

The field artillery only is included in the 10,000 men to be relieved of duty by new state troops.

The list of troops that will go home is as follows:

Second Maine infantry, at Laredo; one regiment New York field artillery and First New York ambulance company, both in the Brownsville district; Rhode Island battery, at El Paso; First battalion, First Massachusetts field artillery, and Second Massachusetts field artillery, both of El Paso; First Pennsylvania field artillery, at El Paso; First Illinois field artillery; Wisconsin battery and First Wisconsin field hospital, at San Antonio; First Connecticut infantry, at Nogales; First Montana infantry, First squadron New Jersey cavalry, and First battalion New Jersey field artillery, all at Douglas; battalion of infantry from District of Columbia, at Naco; and First squadron Utah cavalry, at Yuma.

Arrangements will not begin, it was announced, until the incoming troops have arrived. The rolling stock used in bringing them to the border will be utilized for the return trips of the regiments ordered back to their respective states.

MILITIA IN FULL RANKS

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—When the Massachusetts militia units at the border are mustered out of the United States service upon their return, they will be held at or near their present war strength for some time, if not permanently, according to Adjutant-General Pearson.

General Pearson says that he thinks the fallacy of peace strength was amply demonstrated when the regiments went to the border with practically two-thirds of the men.

Any reductions will be made gradually, but none of the company units will be allowed to drop below 100.

SEEKS STABLE FACILITIES

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—A report reached the office of Adj. Gen. Pearson yesterday that the federal government would relieve the shortage of horses which has proven embarrassing to the state troops for a number of years, by allowing the force now on the Mexican border to take their mounts home with them, provided suitable quarters could be provided by the state. Gen. Pearson at once set at work to find stable facilities. The report stated that the federal government would also make provision for feeding and caring for the horses. It was pointed out at the adjutant general's office that such action not only would mean a marked decrease in efficiency but in the end would prove a real economy, as the state each year spends thousands of dollars for hiring horses for the annual maneuvers.

THE LOWELL BOYS' CLUB

Arthur L. Eno and Harry Pitts Added to the List of Campaign Captains—Meeting Held This Noon

That Lowell can and will do for its boys' club what other cities have done for such institutions is the slogan adopted by the campaign committee preparing for the big civic movement to raise $50,000 next month for the Lowell Boys' Club.

The executive committee today at its luncheon in Patrick's restaurant voted to continue the campaign for one week.

Stomach trouble is the cause of more derangements of the nervous system and general bodily functions, than any other ailment. No other remedy has been accorded the instant success that has been obtained by Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, a combination of Nature's remedies for the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys, which is being attested daily at the demonstration of this remedy at Lowell, at 10.15, the Drugists in Merrimack Square, by well known local people.

Following is the statement of Mr. Edward R. Vondal, who resides at Tewksbury, Mass., a well known and prosperous farmer, of that town who has hosts of friends and acquaintances in this city. He said: "I have been troubled for over a year with my stomach; was bloated with gas, had no appetite, and what little food I did eat gave me no benefit. I had pains in my arms and limbs from rheumatism. In fact my whole body ached and I could not sleep on account of the pain I suffered; was constipated, nervous and restless, had headaches, dizzy spells, and no ambition or energy. Since I have started to take Plant Juice I can eat my meals and enjoy them; I sleep well at night for the first time in years, as formerly I would sit up all night for weeks at a time. I have no more pains or aches and am glad to state that Plant Juice has entirely cured me and made a new man of me. I cannot speak too highly of Plant Juice and am glad to recommend it to others."

Such words as these and those of many others which have been printed, have wide influence, for they come from men of standing and integrity, who have given Plant Juice a fair trial and have been greatly benefited thereby.

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, the Drugists, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. On Saturday he will remain at the store until 10 P. M. to meet those who are unable to call during the day.

instead of ten days. The members felt the large volunteer corps of 200 men easily could obtain the amount needed in that time.

Among the new team captains enlisted for the campaign are Arthur L. Eno and Harry Pitts. These officers of the volunteer army were chosen today.

Harry Dunlap told the committee that the club has never conducted a membership campaign during the 16 years of its existence. He added that it has not made an organized appeal to the community in that time. He explained that the work has been maintained by contributions of friends of the institution.

Since the club has twice been forced to seek larger quarters it now has a debt to lift and the committee feels that in recognition of its constructive work in preparing the handicapped boys of the streets for useful careers, the public of Lowell will be glad to make a continuation of its activities possible.

SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION OF TWO SPLENDID BUILDING SITES

SITUATED ON THE EASTERLY SIDE OF MT. WASHINGTON ST., BETWEEN NOS. 100 AND 118.

In accordance with instructions from the out-of-town savings bank which owns this property, we shall offer on the premises on the date and hour above mentioned these two extremely high grade building sites. They are situated on one of the most attractive residential streets in this entire section of the city, and in a location which, while strictly residential, is yet within a very convenient distance of the downtown district. The lots are on the highest and most desirable portion of Mt. Washington street, and have an area approximating 6000 square feet each and are both fronted with a handsome granite curbing. The lots are absolutely level and are splendidly adapted to building purposes. They are also provided with sewer, city water, sidewalk, curbing, gas and electricity, and no further expense is required on this account. There is notably a stronger demand for modern properties here than in any other portion of the city and this land is almost the last still available at any price in this immediate section. The sale is due solely to the fact that the ownership is vested in an out-of-town banking institution which naturally is in no position to utilize local property.

TERMS: $200 on each lot must be paid or secured to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at the sale.

C. F. KEYES in Charge.

SERVE him a dish of the newest food creation, NEW POST TOASTIES, for breakfast tomorrow.

It may be he hasn't cared for corn flakes; and you, too, may share in that belief from experience with the old-style, paper-thin kind.

But these new flakes are different. They don't depend on sugar and cream for their flavor. And they don't mush down when cream or milk is added.

NEW POST TOASTIES are made by a wonderful new process which brings out the true corn flavor. They bring you a new taste and a new breakfast delight. The grocer sells.
